CITY'S REQUEST FOR M'PHERSON DATA IS DENIED

Attorney General Says U. S. Reports in Case Are Private.

SHELBY-KELLY QUIZ MUST SEEK NEW LINE

Could Not Open Records Without Violation of Confidences.

NOTHING IN HIS FILES RELATED TO POLICE

Open to District Officials to Obtain Information in Own Way, He Avers.

Attorney General William D. Mitchell yesterday told the District Commissioners that it would not be in the public interest to open to William W. Bride, corporation counsel and Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, the record of the Department of Justice investigation into the death of Mrs Virginia McPherson.

Statements of many witnesses had been given the department only on assurance they would be held confidential except for presentation to the grand jury, Mitchell said.

"We could not now open these statements for inspection for any other purpose without violating this assurance, committing a breach of faith and impairing the effectiveness of the bureau's work in the future," he continued.

Hoover Refused Request.

"It is also open to the officials of the District to obtain in their own way information respecting how the Police Department made its inquiry into the death of Mrs. McPherson," the Attorney General added succinctly.

Attorney General Mitchell's letter, made public by Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, president of the Board of Commissioners, was in response to a formal request by the Commissioners that the Department of Justice make accessible to Bride and Davison the 4,000,000-word record of the statements of 800-odd witnesses examined by Justice Department investigators under direction of J. Edgar Hoover chief of the bureau of investigation, and Thomas F. Cullen, department inspector.

The Commissioners made the formal request after Hoover had turned down an informal request made by Bride and Davison who comprise a special board appointed by the Commissioners to investigate charges of inefficiency made by the July grand jury against Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly for the manner in which the detective bureau investigated the strangling of Mrs. McPherson.

Attorney General's Letter.

The Attorney General's letter follows:

"My dear Mr. Commissioner:

"I have received your letter of November 26 asking that this department make available to the special board appointed by the Commissioners of the District to inquire into charges against members of the Metropolitan Police Department, a stenographic report of the statements made to the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice during its inquiry into the death of Mrs. Virginia H. McPherson.

"The Bureau of Investigation undertook the inquiry into the McPherson case for the very purpose of separating the administration of criminal justice from any controversy within the Police Department and its inquiry was not so conducted as to draw out any matters bearing on the conduct of the police.

"Special care was taken to avoid any action which would draw the Bureau of Investigation into the controversy within the Police Department, because the Department of Justice has no lawful function to perform respecting matters of police discipline or efficiency. Because of the way in which our inquiry was conducted, if there is anything in the statement of witnesses to this department which has any bearing on the matter your board is investigating it is entirely incidental and indirect.

Some Statements Confidential.

"Furthermore, a large number of witnesses whose statements were obtained by the Bureau of Investigation gave their statements upon the assurance that they would be treated as confidential to the extent of not being used except in the presentation of the matter to the grand jury. We could not now open these statements for inspection for any other purpose without violating this assurance, committing a breach of faith and impairing the effectiveness of the bureau's work in the future.

"It is also open to the officials of the District to obtain in their own way information respecting how the

WIFE NAMES MATE IN SCRIVENER DEATH

Tells Rover She Suspects Husband as Slayer of Sleuth in 1926.

CAME HOME WITHOUT TIE

The most sensational development in the investigation of the death of Detective Sergt. Arthur Scrivener came yesterday when a woman told United States Attorney Lee A. Rover that she suspected that her husband was the slayer. The woman will be the first witness called when the grand jury begins its inquiry into the Scrivener case Monday.

Rover also made public yesterday a list of 29 additional witnesses who have been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury on the third day of the inquisition. This brings the total number of witnesses so far summoned to almost threescore.

The woman, who now promises to be the star witness in the grand jury investigation, told Rover that on the morning Scrivener's body was found her husband came home, lacking his necktie. Later, when she read accounts of Scrivener's death, she recalled this fact, so she told Rover. This, she said, was because Scrivener held clutched in his hand a tie which evidently had been torn from the neck of his slayer.

The woman told Rover this was the first time in their married life that her husband had stayed out overnight and she added that he was unable to give a good reason for his absence.

A week ago the woman is said to have walked into detective headquarters and to have narrated her story to Lieut. Joseph Morgan, present head of the homicide squad.

Morgan and other members of the homicide squad were in conference late yesterday with Rover. The United States attorney declined to state whether Morgan's visit had anything to do with the Scrivener case.

The woman has requested permission to examine the torn tie that Scrivener held in his lifeless hand, and Rover has promised to show it to her when she appears before the grand jury. On her identification of the tie the woman's case will either stand or fall.

NANKING ARRANGES FOR SOVIET PARLEY

Hope Held That Controversy Can Be Ended Without Help of League.

U. S. OFFICIALS RELIEVED

Geneva, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The opening of direct negotiations by Nanking and Moscow over the Manchurian situation has rendered the reported Chinese appeal for intervention to the League of Nations unnecessary for the time being.

Dr. Wu Kai-Seng, permanent Chinese delegate to the league, received a telegram from his government tonight informing him that Russia and China had agreed to thrash out their dispute about the Chinese Eastern Railway by direct negotiation.

Dr. Wu affirmed that the agreement was without any provisional conditions affecting the present status of the parties. He believed that the negotiations had already begun, though the message from Nanking did not state any time or place.

The message said that preliminary negotiations between Russia and Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang of Manchuria had been authorized by Nanking.

Moscow, U. S. S. R., Nov. 29 (A.P.). Acting Commissar of Foreign Affairs Maxim Litvinoff today handed the German Ambassador a note for China saying that Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang of Manchuria already had agreed to the Soviet terms for peaceful settlement of their conflict and that Nanking's offer of negotiation was, therefore, "superfluous and only delaying settlement."

The note of Litvinoff apparently was in reply to a Nanking note of November 14 and seemed to contradict statements by Dr. Wu at Geneva that an agreement for negotiations had been reached between Russia and China. Hitherto, Nanking has been as firm in refusing to reinstate expelled Russian members of the staff of the Chinese Eastern Railway as the Soviet government has been in demanding this as a prelude to negotiations.

A note reported Friday to have been forwarded to Moscow from Foreign Minister C. T. Wang of the

I.C.C. RUMORED PREPARED WITH MERGER PLANS

Rail Combine Proposals to Be Given Congress Early This Month.

18 OR 19 MAJOR LINES BEING CONTEMPLATED

ACTION TO BE RUSHED AS PROSPERITY MOVE

Speeding Up of Program Is Result of President's Recent Conferences.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, it was learned on high official authority here yesterday, is preparing to submit to Congress, probably early in December, a consolidation plan that would merge the country's railroads into 18 or 19 systems, with five big trunk lines set up in the East, instead of four.

It developed yesterday that there is a division in the commission over the five-trunk line scheme in the East, but that a majority apparently favors setting up the fifth system, which would be built around the Wabash. Since its component parts would be drawn chiefly from lines that might otherwise go to the Baltimore & Ohio and to the Nickel Plate, the effect of creating the fifth big Eastern unit would be to leave the New York Central and the Pennsylvania in dominant positions. Neither was due to get much new in consolidations, and the setting up of a Wabash system would be accomplished largely at the expense of the B. & O. and the Van Sweringen Brothers' Nickel Plate.

Five Roads Involved.

According to information here, the fifth system would add to the Wabash nucleus the Wheeling & Lake Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland, Delaware & Hudson, and Lehigh Valley, with possible addition, also, of the Norfolk & Western. Presumably, concessions would be offered by the commission plan to the other Eastern trunk lines to gain their acquiescences, otherwise they would be in position to cause still further postponement of the consolidation program, which has already been delayed for nine years.

It is understood that the present intention of the I. C. C. is to expedite its recommendations so that the expected procedure of having commission hearings would be upset, and the railroads would have to present their views instead before the plan is made public. This acceleration is said to have been a direct result of President Hoover's conference two weeks ago with the railroad executives of the country, who held that until they had some idea of what consolidation plan the commission intended to recommend they could not proceed freely with new construction and expansion programs designed to aid the President's business revival movement.

Must Look to Congress Now.

Chairman Lewis, of the I. C. C., sat in at the White House conference with the rail executives. Most of the carriers, especially those in the East, had been preparing to submit their cases before the I. C. C. They apparently must now look to Congress. The Van Sweringens, the B. & O. and the Wabash have already submitted independent merger proposals to the commission. These, together with numerous collateral schemes, are pending now before that body.

Commissioner Claude R. Porter drafted the consolidation plan which is the basis for the commission's proposals. In its original form it pre-

HEALING SPLIT IN G.O.P. GOAL OF OLD GUARD

Regulars Plan to Coax Insurgents Back to Party Fold.

SMOOT TO KEEP POST AS FINANCE CHAIRMAN

Statement Means Jones and McNary Will Gain Advancement.

VICTORY ON TARIFF IS TO BE CONCEDED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

A changed attitude on the part of the Republican regulars is to mark the new session of the Senate Monday. Their efforts are to be directed toward bringing the Progressives back into the fold instead of continuing a fight that will send them further away.

To this end they are prepared to concede the tariff victory ungrudgingly and confine their opposition to the plea that the Progressives not go too far. There are a few soreheads left among the regulars, but the indications point to their voices being negligible in the new harmony spirit that Senator James E. Watson is trying to build up.

The majority leader returned quietly to the Capital Wednesday and just as quietly he had a conference with President Hoover Thanksgiving Day. And it now follows that the senator has accepted the program of the Young Turks lock, stock and barrel, or rather he has so accepted the central idea of that group, which is to give the Progressives the agricultural tariff rates they have been demanding and try to hold the industrial rates to their present level.

Hoover Talk Not Cause.

It does not necessarily mean that Senator Watson's conference with the President had anything to do with this new attitude of his. As a matter of fact, he was advocating a conciliatory attitude on the part of the regulars before he went away to Florida to rest. It is not believed, however, that at that time his conciliatory mood had taken any such definite shape as the proposal virtually to confine the pending tariff revision to agricultural rates.

On this whole question of holding the industrial rates at their present level, it is generally assumed that some few industries about which there is no question as to their needing assistance, will be taken care of when the bill goes to conference.

Generally speaking, however, the efforts of the Senate leaders are to be directed now to holding the industrial rates to the Fordney-McCumber act that is now in effect.

Watson Helped Write Bill.

Senator Watson was a member of the Old Guard g. up that wrote the Senate finance committee bill, which the Progressives immediately attacked as being worse in many respects than the bill sent over by the House. And the senator was not alarmed at the first murmurings of discontent or the threats that emanated from the Progressive camp. He has been engaged in writing tariff bills for a long time and was quite right in assuming that when the time for barter and trade came everything would be worked out all right.

But this tariff fight has been a little different from anything the Senate has ever experienced. The so-called "local issue" did not develop to the extent that either the Progressive or the Democratic wing of

THIRD MAN TO REACH HUB OF ANTARCTICA

Amundsen, Shackleton Only Others Who Have Preceded Virginian.

CHIEF ACCOMPANIED BY CREW OF THREE

Hop of 3,200 Miles to Goal and Back to Base Is Without Mishap.

COMMANDER RICHARD E. BYRD.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The New York Times, the St. Louis Post Dispatch and newspapers affiliated with them, in publishing reports from Commander Richard E. Byrd's expedition, announce that Commander Byrd has safely returned to his base, Little America, after a successful flight across the South Pole in which he surveyed much adjacent territory.

The flight was without mishap, and everything worked well.

(Associated Press.)

Commander Byrd's flight across the South Pole has made him the first man in history to fly across both the earth's poles.

In May, 1926, in the trimotored Fokker airplane, the Josephine Ford, Commander Byrd flew from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, across the North Pole and return.

That springtime flight required a total of 15 hours and 30 minutes, and the round trip covered 1,600 miles. In addition to being the first to fly across the North Pole, Byrd was also the first man to fly over it in a heavier-than-air machine. On that historic flight the pilot was Floyd Bennett, who [illegible] May 25, 1928, while attempting to rescue the crew of the transatlantic plane Bremen from Greenly Island. Bennett was second in command of the Byrd Antarctic expedition and had intended to accompany the commander on the trip.

First Flight to Pole.

The flight across the South Pole, begun yesterday, was the first attempt he had made to fly to the pole although previously he had used airplanes in flights from his base at Little America in laying sub-bases on the route to the pole and in exploration trips.

He was the third man to reach the South Pole. The first was Raould Amundsen, a Norwegian, who reached it December 14, 1911, and a few days later he was followed by Capt. Robert F. Scott, British explorer. Both of them used overland methods of travel.

Bernt Balchen, pilot for Commander Byrd on the South Polar flight, also a pilot on the commander's transatlantic flight of June 29, 1927. With Bert Acosta and Floyd Bennett, they flew the monoplane America from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Ver-sur-mer, France. Balchen, chief pilot of the expedition, is a native of Norway and has had extensive experience piloting planes under Polar flying conditions. He assisted in all the tests to which the planes destined for the Byrd Atlantic expedition were subjected.

Radio Operator Navy Man.

Harold I. June, radio operator of the flight, is a petty officer and pilot in the Navy and was granted a leave of absence to accompany the expedition. He was chief engineer in the famous billion-dollar crew of the Vanderbilt yacht during the war.

In addition to Balchen and June, Commander Byrd was accompanied on his South Polar flight by Capt. Ashley C. McKinley, an aerial photographer of St. Louis, Mo. Capt. McKinley served from 1917 to 1926 in the United States Army Corps.

Commander Byrd's expedition reached the Antarctic in December

ROTHSTEIN'S DEATH MARCH DESCRIBED

Woman Declares She Saw Man Staggering Down Hotel Corridor.

'TERRIBLE" LOOK ON FACE

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A tiny, gray-haired woman, an innocent bystander at one of New York's killings, today testified at the murder trial of George A. McManus that she heard a "crash" in the Park Central Hotel the night of November 4, 1928, and saw a man staggering down the hallway a moment later.

The witness was Mrs. Marian A. Putnam, a cafe owner of Asheville, N. C., and a guest in the Park Central the night the State contends McManus lured Arnold Rothstein there and shot him down in retaliation for "framing" a stud poker game against him, a game in which McManus lost $51,000.

Mrs. Putnam described how the man she saw in the hallway was running after her, his hands pressed to his abdomen, and a "terrible" look on his face.

She was so frightened, she said, that she dashed into her own room, slammed and locked the door, and remained there the rest of the night. She did not hear about the shooting until the next day.

Heralded as the State's star witness, she was submitted to a merciless cross-examination by James D. C. Murray, defense counsel, who brought from her the admission that she was registered with a "Mr. Putnam" at the hotel that night, although she had been a widow for 15 years, and that she had several times told investigators and news-

FEDERAL PROJECTS MAY HELP BUSINESS

Over Half-Billion Authorized by Last Congress for Improvement.

APPROPRIATIONS LACKING

The Federal Government may play a direct part in President Hoover's program to maintain business activity on a stable basis during the next few months through more liberal appropriations for projects which already have the formal approval of Congress. It was ascertained yesterday that there is a balance of approximately one-half billion dollars involved in undertakings approved by Congress during the last regular session of Congress for which no actual appropriations have been made. The total of the authorized appropriations amounts to $543,738,656.54, while actual appropriations to meet these proposed expenditures amount to only $38,098,235.94.

There are strong indications that when Congress assembles next week there will be demands from some of its members that the Government help directly in the solution of current economic difficulties by doing what the President has asked private industry to do; namely, to expand legitimate activities which would give employment to workers and keep money in circulation.

Just how these proposals will fit in with the administration views is problematical, inasmuch as the President has shown a disposition to confine his business program to private enterprises and to avoid anything having the appearance of utilizing public funds to sustain business stability. So far, the program has work-

Mercury Dives 28 Degrees Causing District to Shiver

Relief From Cold Wave Gripping East Looms Tomorrow.

With the entire country gripped in the coldest weather of the season, and a low temperature of 16 degrees forecast for the Capital today, the United States Weather Bureau predicted that Washington would continue today to share the cold wave, with some prospect of warmer weather tomorrow.

A steady drop of 18 degrees in the period from Thanksgiving noon until 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when the season's low mark of 26 degrees was recorded, ushered in the District's share of the cold wave, which, in some localities, has established new low records for this time of the year.

The season's first large influx of the city's homeless to the free municipal and Mission lodging houses, and numerous balky automobile mo-

Abraham Lincoln on the Tariff

A hitherto unpublished Lincoln letter will appear in The Post tomorrow. Although written in 1839 it might aptly be applied to the present day tariff situation.

The last of the Old Guard. Not the old guard in recent political history, but a real old guardsman in every sense of the word. In all Congress there is but one man remaining who wore the blue or the gray. A human interest story of Maj. Charles M. Stedman, of North Carolina, who saw Lee tender his sword to Grant at Appomatox in 1865.

What's on tap for the Nation and the District at the regular session of Congress? The national legislative program is mapped by David Rankin Barbee. What the congressional mill is likely to grind out for Washington is forecast by Edward T. Folliard.

Another Barbee story tells of great American train robberies. It is a thrilling account of banditry from the days of Jesse James up to the present. An all-fact story that reads like fiction.

How to get rid of the starlings? This question was propounded a week ago by The Post. The public response has been tremendous. Every mail is bringing its starling letters. More of them will appear tomorrow.

Hoover Crime Crusader, 77, Quits After Tilt With Court

Chicago Prosecutor Had Conducted Granady Slaying Case.

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Frank J. Loesch, 77-year-old crusader against crime, resigned today as special assistant prosecutor on the staff of John A. Swanson, State's attorney. Loesch is a member of President Hoover's crime commission.

His action had been anticipated since the collapse of the State's case against nine men accused of slaying Octavius Granady, Negro politician. The State nolle prossed the case following a clash between Loesch and Judge Joseph B. David. Loesch resigned a lucrative law practice a year ago to undertake a battle against what he regarded a political-criminal alliance in Cook County.

Lieut. Phillip Carroll and his four detective squad members were reinstated to the police department today.

Message From Byrd Read.

Los Angeles, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A congratulatory message sent by Commander Richard E. Byrd shortly before the start of his airplane flight over the South Pole was read today at the convention of the Pacific division of American Radio Relay League. The message, received by E. E. Sandham, Los Angeles amateur short wave operator, read:

"Greetings from Little America to the radio amateurs of the Pacific division. Am glad for this opportunity to acknowledge the big debt our North and South Pole expeditions owe to the amateur radio operators. I wish to thank them for their helpfulness and to express my admiration of the high sense of honor they show in handling messages. It is radio that has made this expedition possible. Cordial good wishes in which all of Little America join.

Virginia Governor Expected Pole Hop

Brother Told Him of Plan to Reach Bottom of World, He Says.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, of Virginia, said here today that he was not surprised to learn that his brother, Commander Richard E. Byrd, had hopped off from his base, Little America, in the Antarctic, on a flight to the South Pole and return.

Gov. Byrd said he knew that Commander Byrd was contemplating the flight at about this time but that he had not known of his departure until notified by Associated Press dispatches.

Gov. Byrd said the family had received personal messages from his brother within the last week, but they contained no reference to a date for the flight.

Barlow Claims in Cuba Will Be Investigated

(Associated Press.)

Investigation of the property claims of Joseph E. Barlow, American citizen, in Cuba has been promised to Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee by Ambassador Guggenheim at Havana.

Barlow has had long intercourse with the State Department and the Cuban Government over his claims and at one time was jailed in Cuba. The foreign relations committee was given one report by Secretary Stimson on the status of American claims in Cuba. Chairman Borah has asked further investigation and has interceded with the new ambassador to Cuba.

Airliner Crash Feared In Western Mountains

Los Angeles, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Officials of the Western Air Express here said they were advised this afternoon by Sheriff Hutchinson of Inyo County, Calif., that a Mo-Da Air Line plane crashed into the mountains 18 miles north of Independence, Calif., in the Sierra Nevadas. Officials at the Nevada Air Lines office here said they had no information.

Sheriff Hutchinson and a group of deputies started immediately for the scene. There are no roads leading in that direction and the sheriff said it would be several hours before he was able to obtain definite information.

OFFICIALS ACCLAIM BYRD POLAR FLIGHT

Government Aviation Chiefs See Feat as Splendid Air Achievement.

HIGH COURAGE IS PRAISED

(Associated Press.)

News that Commander Richard E. Byrd had flown over the South Pole and returned to his base at Little America, Antarctica, brought acclaim last night from officials here for the courage and spirit of high adventure that had led him through the perils of the trip.

Aviation chiefs of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments hailed the news as a new triumph of the air which demonstrated the reliability and efficiency of aircraft and the "unlimited purposes" it could serve.

The congratulations of the War Department and the Army Air Corps were voiced by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War in Charge of Aviation.

"The successful flight of Commander Byrd and his brave companions to the South Pole," Secretary Davison said, "marks another epoch in the achievements of heavier-than-air craft and again proves the value of the airplane in the exploration of unknown areas, accomplishing in hours what it would normally take weeks and months to do by other means of transportation; and on behalf of the War Department and the Army Air Corps I wish to extend my heartiest congratulations to the Byrd Antarctic expedition. It is a magnificent achievement and one which will thrill Americans the world over."

"Highest Praise Deserved."

Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Aeronautics Bureau of the Navy, said:

"Commander Byrd and his aids deserve the highest praise and commendation. They have accomplished another feat of the air in the interests of science and progress. Their leadership, their ability, their thoroughness and their self-sacrificing courage have again surmounted all difficulties. The chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics and its personnel are proud of their close contact with them and their new triumph of the air."

Commander J. T. Powers, assistant chief of the Navy department's aeronautics bureau said:

"Commander Byrd has added one more marvelous accomplishment to his already unparalleled record. His flight over the South Pole was a splendid feat, made possible through his thorough preparation, the aid of his able and loyal associates, and his own superb qualities of rare courage and able leadership."

Called Major Accomplishment.

Major Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics said the flight was "surely a major accomplishment and an added tribute to the courage, resourcefulness and ability of Commander Byrd and his men."

"Also," he said, "it is a further demonstration of the reliability and efficiency of aircraft, as well as the unlimited purposes which it can serve."

At the same time, Acting Secretary of State Carr, whose department will handle any international complications that may arise from the claims that might be advanced to lands discovered in the region by the expedition, hailed the accomplishment as "an epoch-making achievement in the history of American aviation and is highly gratifying as another example of the American pioneering spirit."

AL SMITH ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF BANK

Former Governor Succeeds James J. Riordan, Suicide, to Trust Position.

LATER WILL HEAD FIRM

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today was elected chairman of the board of directors of the County Trust Co. The former governor said he was vested with power of president and eventually would head the trust company. He succeeds the late James J. Riordan, who recently committed suicide.

Smith has been a director of the County Trust since his retirement from the governorship last January. The announcement of his selection as chairman said he will now take an active part in the management of the bank's affairs.

Since Riordan's death William H. English, one of the directors, has been acting president, and John J. Raskob has been acting chairman of the board of directors.

Both of these are succeeded by Smith, who, by a resolution of the board, is vested with full powers of the president.

Smith said the condition of the bank was excellent and that since November 9, when Mr. Riordan's death was announced, the bank's deposits had increased.

Hoover Congratulates Byrd on Latest Feat

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The New York Times announced tonight that it had been directed by President Hoover to forward through its wireless station the following message to Commander Byrd:

"Commander Richard E. Byrd,
"Little America:

"I know that I speak for the American people when I express their universal pleasure at your successful flight over the South Pole. We are proud of your courage and your leadership. We are glad of proof that the spirit of great adventure still lives. Our thoughts of appreciation include also your companions in the flight and your colleagues, whose careful and devoted preparation have contributed to your great success.

Grandson Slays Woman in Mishap

Boy, 16, Accidentally Fires Rifle in Home as He Concludes Hunt.

Batavia, N. Y., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Brushing the frost from his rifle as he was entering his home here after a hunting trip, Alva Willis, 16, accidentally discharged the weapon, killing his grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Willis, 70. The bullet passed through a partition and struck the aged woman in the temple.

The boy, a sophomore in high school here, whose mother died but two months ago, sobbed as he told his story to police.

The accident followed on the heels of a similar tragedy in East Elba near here Tuesday when Elmer Shultz, a boy of 4, fatally shot his mother. Coroner Edward Morgan said he would issue a certificate of accidental death. Young Willis made his home with his father, Alva Willis, sr., and his grandmother.

MATE SLAIN IN LOVE PACT, WIDOW SAYS

Mother of Three Charges Murder to Father of Eight.

WIFE POISONED, CHARGE

Durant, Okla., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A love pact, in which the mother of three and the father of eight children agreed to kill their spouses, was alleged in a confession made to county authorities here today by Mrs. Ila Hughes. A murder charge was filed immediately after the confession against the woman in connection with the killing of her husband, Will Hughes, last Tuesday night.

Mrs. Hughes, 35, named as her alleged accomplice, A. J. Eastep, 38, who lived near her husband's farm in Bryan County, asserting that upon a prearranged signal she lured her husband to a barn, where Eastep clubbed him to death with a motor car spring. Eastep, who is held at the State Prison at McAlester, also has been charged with murder.

The statement declared also that Eastep had informed her in October that he would poison his wife and that Mrs. Eastep died three days later. County authorities have ordered the woman's body to be disinterred and the viscera examined.

Officers said Hughes carried $1,500 life insurance and that Eastep had collected $1,000 insurance which he had taken out on his wife's life.

"I thought I loved Eastep," Mrs. Hughes' purported statement relates, "but my love now has turned to hate. I realize now I loved my husband, but it was my treachery that sent him to his death.

"Eastep, in October, told me he would poison his wife, and she died three days later. He never told me since whether he poisoned her.

"Then he told me he would kill my husband, and told me to send him to the barn Tuesday night on the pretext that the horses were in the corn, which I did, at his signal. I heard blows as he struck Will."

Mrs. Hughes said she then went to her mother's home and there said that her husband had been kicked and dangerously injured by a horse.

Eastep, who was taken to the penitentiary at McAlester, today for safe keeping, has denied complicity in the crime. He was not informed of Mrs. Hughes' statement.

Special to The Washington Post.

Keyser, W. Va., Nov. 29.—Oscar Miller, 29, a bridegroom of but a few weeks, was instantly killed late yesterday on New Creek road, near Keyser, when an automobile driven by Whet Roderick, crashed into his motorcycle as he emerged from a lateral road. Roderick was held blameless by the authorities after an investigation.

Miller, a native of Illinois, had been employed by the Moore Construction Co. on the New Creek road contract and resided with his bride, who was Miss Mabel McCarthy, near the scene of the accident. The body is being held pending word from a relative in Illinois.

Boy Accidentally Slain by Brother

Wiley Ayescue Steps Into Line of Hunter's Fire Near Petersburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 29.—While hunting yesterday afternoon in Chesterfield County a few miles from Petersburg, Wiley Jenkins Ayescue, 17 years old, was accidentally shot and fatally wounded by his brother Haywood, 20. He was struck in the chest by a charge from a shotgun which his brother had fired at some birds, the shot piercing the heart and lungs of Wiley, who lived only half an hour after the accident.

Dr. Thomas G. Pretlow, coroner of Chesterfield County, viewed the body and his verdict was that the boy met death accidentally. Its seems that both boys reached the brow of a hill at the same time. Haywood fired. At that moment, Wiley, who had been obscured from the view of the other young huntsman just a moment before, stepped into the line of fire.

The body will be taken tomorrow to Franklin, former home of, the Ayescues. Wiley is also survived by his parents, Robert L., and Corina Ayescue, and several other brothers and sisters who reside in Chesterfield County.

Crowd Witnesses LoudounClubHunt

Two Foxes Started and One Is Run Down in Holiday Sport Event.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 29.—About 200 persons witnessed the start of the Thanksgiving meet of the Loudoun Hunt Club held yesterday at 9:30 a. m. from Greenway, the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller, one mile from Leesburg. There were over 35 participating in the hunt.

Two foxes were started by the pack, and one, a red fox, was run down about 30 minutes after the chase began. Twenty of the riders were in at the kill, the brush going to W. R. Bishop. The other fox gave the riders a long chase, when the pack was finally called off near High Point Orchard, due to the high wind.

The Hunt Club has announced the following schedule for the month of December: Tuesday, December 3, Woodburn; Saturday, December 7, Albert Shaw Farm; Tuesday, December 10, Limestone School House; Saturday, December 14, David N. Rust residence; Tuesday, December 17, Fruitland; Saturday, December 21, Evergreen Mills; Wednesday, December 25, Big Spring; Saturday, December 28, Hughesville; Wednesday, January 1, Greenway. The above meets are at 10 o'clock.

POTOMAC RIVER DATA WANTED BY GRANT

WATER FRONT IS ISSUE

The Arlington County authorities are being asked to cooperate with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission in its proposed development of the Potomac River relative to industrial and park development by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, who asks a series of questions to be answered by December 15 in time for presentation at the December meeting.

In a statement Col. Grant said:

"I have asked the United States Engineers Office, Board of Supervisors of Arlington County, the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce and the Zoning Commission to state their views before the next meeting of the Capital Park and Planning Commission as to whether they believe more industrial waterfront is required for the county than will be left after completion of the park and parking projects which are planned. The same inquiry will be made of some leading interested residents.

"Answers to the following questions are desired by December 15:

"1. What industrial development requiring access to water transportation can Arlington County count on?

"2. What total industrial and commercial waterfront should be reserved for such development in the next 25 years?

"3. What would be the value to the county of such development? How will this value be realized?

"4. What areas can best be reserved for such development? That is, where can it be located with the least detriment to residential values?

"5. Your views are requested as to the relative advantages Arlington County offers for industry, as compared with suburban resident use. What use is the more valuable and promising to the county and which, therefore, should be the determining interest?"

This action fololws a decision recently taken by Col. Grant and Maj. Brehon Somervill, district engineer for the War Department area, after a conference was held incident to the application for a permit to build a wharf just north of the Key Bridge at Rosslyn, filed with the United States Engineer Office by the Sun Oil Co., of Philadelphia.

U. S. SIBERIAN DEAD LANDED AT HOBOKEN

17-GUN SALUTE IS GIVEN

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Ranks of veterans, fathers of families, most of them approaching middle age, some of them grown stout and a little gray, gathered on a pier in Hoboken today to receive the bodies of the last of their comrades come home from the war.

There around the flag-draped walls of a baggage room were ranged 74 caskets of American soldiers, back from Siberia after a journey more than half way around the world.

Over one casket, the seventy-fifth, set apart from the rest and containing the body of a hero whose identity must forever be unknown, prayers were said, an oration was delivered, and soldiers fired a volley. From among 24 unidentified this body was selected to receive the tribute accorded them all.

More than a decade ago on the dreary Siberian tundra they fought shoulder to shoulder, these veterans of the World War, not doughboys any more now, and those youngsters.

For more than ten years these 75 lay in lonely graves along the rivers that wind sluggishly through the white Siberian wastes until their comrades could go back to get them.

Before dawn today the liner President Roosevelt, bearing the bodies of the soldier dead, came to anchor off Quarantine. Through the morning mist the destroyer Kane and the municipal tug Macom, bearing representatives of the United States Government and the government of Michigan, where most of the 75 enlisted, and the City and State of New York, steamed down to meet her and escort her up the harbor to Hoboken, while Army airplanes roared overhead and cannon on Governors Island thundered a salute of seventeen guns—a tribute that would be paid to no living soldier below the rank of general.

FARM WORLD'S FAIR OPENS AT CHICAGO

$5,000,000 Worth of Exhibits Are on Show From Many Sections.

FOUR-H CLUBS CONVENE

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The Farmers World's Fair threw open its gates today with $5,000,000 worth of exhibits from 35 States, five Canadian provinces and four foreign nations on display at the thirtieth annual international live-stock exposition and hay and grain show. The exposition continues until December 7.

Aristocrats of 40 breeds were represented in the 12,000 head of pure-bred cattle, horses, sheep and swine competing in the live-stock divisions.

In the hay and grain show samples of crops from the richest farms in the country were on exhibition.

As an adjunct of the international exposition the national congress of Four-H Clubs was in session with 1,500 farm boys and girls from throughout the United States taking part in a variety of contests.

The collegiate and noncollegiate live-stock judging contests were the opening events today and tomorrow. Eighteen States were represented in the noncollegiate contest today and 21 agricultural schools, including the Manitoba Agricultural School of Winnipeg and the Ontario Agricultural School, of Guelph, Ontario were entered in the collegiate event tomorrow.

Entries in the live-stock divisions were received from England, Scotland, Belgium and Australia, while Canada was represented by exhibits from British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Ontario and Manitoba. Canadian competition was expected to be particularly strong in the sheep and horse departments, and Canadian wheat and grain growers also were expected to make a keen bid for winning back these championships which were taken by the United States entries last year.

Gen. Greeley, 86, Recalls Own Tragic Episode in Far North.

(Associated Press.)

One of the first in Washington to speak in highest praise of Commander Byrd's achievements was Gen. A. W. Greeley, 86, gray-beared dean of Arctic explorers, who wrested the three-century "Farthest North" record from the British in 1882.

"Every American can be glad that an American duplicated the act of Amundsen, only man who hitherto reached both poles," said Gen Greeley. "And Byrd has the added distinction of being the only man to fly over both poles, Amundsen having made his South Polar trip by dog team."

That man may soar where man once plodded is distinction, indeed, the veteran explorer, hero of what has become known as the greatest tragedy in the annals of the Arctic, philosophically pointed out. Twenty-five men went out on his own expedition. Seven were saved. The rest starved to death.

Gen. Greeley contrasted the tragic and tortuous course that he and his companions followed, 48 years ago (1881 to 1884), with the smooth-sailing career of Byrd. Beside the fireplace in his study in Old Georgetown, with books, some of his own writing, all about him, he might have posed for a portrait of one of the early American poets for a schoolroom wall. He was keen-eyed, quizzical, kindly and seemed very remote from the rigors of the trail. He was glad to have it so—glad that another tragic page in pioneering had been forever turned.

"The twentieth century is a new world," said he. "Man does, in an hour, without discomfort, what his predecessors did in a month, often with the severest suffering."

Briefly, across a vista of ever-busy years, each, down to 1929, crammed with events, Greeley looked back on starvation. The relief ship which was to have met him at the end of his long, long trail one-eighth of the way around the world north of the eighteenth parallel had gone down. "We had provisions for six weeks; we lived on them for nine months," he said quietly. "That is, 7 of the 25 lived. It was share and share alike there on Cape Sabine, and the strongest constitutions triumphed. There was one exception, a man with both hands and feet frozen off. We gave him double rations. No one objected. He was one of the seven saved, but he died in the hospital shortly after."

Such was the story when 83 degrees 24 minutes was chalked up as "farthest north" and the South Pole was yet undiscovered. It was one of the very earliest chapters in American polar exploration.

Swiftly, gallantly gliding, Commander Richard Byrd today brought it up to date—in an airplane.

TARIFF BILL SHOWS COALITION'S POWER

RATE CUTS TO CONTINUE

(Associated Press.)

The effectiveness of the opposition by the Senate coalition of Western Republicans and Democrats to the House tariff bill was shown in a tabulation made yesterday of the changes approved by the Senate before it adjourned last week.

Of 298 amendments to the ten-rate sections upon which the Senate acted, the recapitulation showed 163, or more than half, to have eliminated proposed increases and restored present duties, or reduced levies below existing law.

The remaining 135 amendments represented increases over levies now in effect. Sixty of these were on agricultural or related products, including raw minerals. Few of the industrial rate boosts involved important products.

Present Levies Restored.

Of the 97 changes which restored present levies, 50 were put forward by the coalition forces and 47 by the finance committee Republicans.

Forty-nine of 66 amendments cutting rates of the oFrdney-McCumber act had the endorsement of the Republican committeemen. The remaining seventeen, including rates on some industrial commodities, were sponsored by the coalitionists.

All but 25 of the increases approved were recommended by the committee.

Some House Rates tSand.

The majority of the 25 championed by the bill's opponents were for higher duties on agricultural products and in most instances let stand the rates proposed by the House.

Twelve of the committee increases approved were compromises involving cuts favored by the coalition.

That the coalition intends to carry forward its program of cutting industrial rate increases where the" deem it necessary was emphasized yesterday by Republican independents who remained in Washington after adjournment of the Senate.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT is not believed that anybody but the Republicans woul. have the nerve to go over and put their arms around the progressives won and say "We passed a tariff bill," but that is just what they are planning to do. And the funny thing about it is that the country will probably be believing it within a few months.

Of course, the tariff has not been passed yet, but the "we" movement is on in full force and unless there is an unexpected snag "we" will pass it within a short while after Christmas, and without much ado.

One would think, of course, that the progressives would question "Say, where do you get that 'we' stuff?" when the Republicans come walking up, but they won't. They never do.

• • • •

AFTER all, the progressives know these fellows who have been calling them Communists and jackasses and backward Staters for the last several months, know that they, perhaps, must say things like that, just as the insurgents have to cut up and rampage and give evidence of tearing the Grand Old Party asunder. But just now with victory within their grasp, they are in the gracious mood that comes to one sitting on top of the world, and can afford to laugh with the regulars.

And next year they will talk about the Eastern wing of the party, talk about it in no uncertain terms. They will tell how they made it hew to the line of the campaign promise, and the Eastern Republicans in their section of the country will jeer and tell about the scalawags from out West.

The hapless Democrats will run back and forth and get so dizzy in the process that they will not be able to prove whether it was the progressives or the regulars that they were with, and the conclusion will probably be that they were with no one at all.

IT IS a question whether Mr. Hoover or Senator Watson led the "we" movement. Certainly, for the last several weeks those newspapermen who are very close to him, who are accepted as authorities, indeed, when it comes to reflecting his mind, have been assiduously painting a picture that the President was with the Progressives all the time, not on the debenture and flexible provisions, of course, but on the "limited" revision which the coalition wrought.

Senator Watson makes no bones as to where he stood at first, but he is quick to realize when he is licked, and from now on it will be "the bill that we Republicans passed."

And it is believed, in justice to the senator, that it was he who impressed upon Mr. Hoover the necessity that a bill be passed. There had been indications that the President did not care whether one was passed or not.

Watson, taking the stand that a bill of some kind must be passed, probably feels that he is therefore somewhat justified in calling it the "we" bill.

• • • •

THERE will be those, of course, who will pull the "I told you so" on the Democrats. There were those who urged at the outset that the Democratic strategy should be to let the Republicans pass the worst bill imaginable and reap the harvest from bad times that would result. Some of the Democratic senators, too, wanted to follow this policy.

But this would seem to have been short-lived advice, not to mention unpatriotic.

There is the point, too, that regardless of whether the Democrats will share any of the credit of the bill that is passed, there was really no other course they could have taken.

The Progressives saw to that. The Progressives jockeyed the Democrats into position and held them there. That's where the leadership of the whole tariff fight has been, in the Progressive camp, and unless something goes wrong in the comparatively short time remaining of the fight Borah will emerge bigger, better and grander than ever before.

GERMAN MINISTER BACKS YOUNG PLAN

Dr. Curtius Surprises Even His Friends by Sudden Aggressive Action.

MAKES FIRST SPEECH

Berlin, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Surprising even his friends by his aggressiveness, Dr. Julius Curtius, Germany's new foreign minister, threw the weight of the German government behind the Young plan today in his first speech to the Reichstag since he succeeded the late Gustav Stresemann.

Dr. Curtius, affirming that the Young plan was a great improvement over the Dawes plan, opposed on behalf of the cabinet the message of the so-called "law against the enslavement of the German people," which came up for its first reading today.

He asked the Reichstag to reject the proposed law, which was introduced by the Nationalists, and declared the recent plebiscite against the Young plan was an attack on the authority of the state.

Based on Dishonesty.

After reviewing the efforts of post-revolutionary cabinets to explain to the world that Germany was not alone guilty of the war, he said the Nationalist proposal for renouncing the German confession of guilt "attempts to ram open doors and is based on senseless assertions that Germany's foreign policy has been hitherto built on the recognition of her guilt in the war. The whole plebescite demand is based on obvious dishonesty."

Dr. Curtius accused the Nationalists of arousing false hopes in the German people "as though international treaties could be abrogated and reparations burdens shaken off by a plebiscite."

"It is nonsense to determine by a plebiscite that a people doesn't want to pay. Of course it doesn't want to pay. The only question is whether it must pay or not. A plebiscite on this question is sheer nonsense."

Asks Ten Questions.

Dr. Curtius played on what he called the demagogy of Alfred Hugenburg and his Nationalist followers, asking Hugenburg ten questions about how Germany's foreign political situation would be improved by the passage of the law.

One question read:

"You feel certain that upon Germany's declining to accept the Young plan the people of the United States will join you in recognizing that the only road toward real pacification of the world is wiping out the war debts. Whence do you gain this certainty? Can it be that your letter last spring made the United States willing to cancel the debts?"

There was loud laughter at this reference to the vain appeal of the Nationalists for American support last March.

Openly Indorses Plan.

Although admitting that he was obliged to make certain reservations for the present, Dr. Curtius openly indorsed the Young plan.

"In comparison with the Dawes plan, the Young plan on a new political basis is to bring an important amelioration of the burdens on Germany. German economy and the German people will be benefitted by it."

The foreign minister briefly summed up the advantages to Germany.

He said that the plan removed the influence of foreign countries on German economy and administration, especially in the directorate of the Reichsbank and the federal railways. The reparations commission and the agent general for reparations would disappear, and the bank for the international settlements will not be able to interfere in German affairs. The Rhineland would be completely liberated.

Slayer of His Sister Is Given Life Penalty

St. Louis, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Joseph L. Cather, 33, a decorating contractor, who six weeks ago shot and killed his sister after she had been summoned to appear against him in a petty larceny case, pleaded guilty today to a first degree murder charge and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Disabled Ship Found Adrift in Mid-Ocean

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A radio message from the American freighter Saguache to its owners, Moore & McCormack, today announced it had found the Norwegian steamer Hertha disabled and drifting in the North Atlantic Ocean. The exact position was not given. The message from Capt. Bendetti, of the Saguache, said he was towing the disabled vessel into St. Johns, Newfoundland.

The Hertha left the Faroe Islands on November 8 for Gloucester, Mass., and has been reported overdue. The Saguache was bound from Denmark to Baltimore.

Athens, Greece, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Police today took possession of the university buildings here and expelled the students after a fight in which four policemen and one student were injured. There were thirteen arrests.

Telephone Rum Spies Help Convict Woman

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Convicted of liquor-law violations on information supplied by neighbors who listened in on her party telephone, Mrs. Grace Hopping today received a suspended six-month sentence to the Indiana Women's Prison. Her husband, Lewis Hopping, is serving a term at the State Penitentiary on a charge that liquor was found in his home when it was raided several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Odle, farm neighbors of the Hoppings, listened to "nearly all" the telephone calls to the Hopping home, they testified in Delaware County Circuit Court today, and made notes of those from liquor buyers.

"Sometimes they called up and asked for half a chicken," Mrs. Odle said. "Sometimes they ordered half a red one, half a white one or half a black one, and then we would see Mrs. Hopping hurry out and get in her car and drive toward town without ever running a chicken down."

ROTHSTEIN'S LAST WALK DESCRIBED

Woman Says She Saw Man Stumbling Down Hall of Hotel.

AGONIZED LOOK ON FACE

papermen that she knew nothing about the Rothstein case.

In explaining why she changed her story from the first time she was interviewed in Asheville by Assistant District Attorney Marbro, she said she had deliberately made misstatements then because she did not want to be "mixed up in the case."

Later, however, she talked the matter over with Judge Hoyle Sink of Asheville and on his counsel came to New York, and told her story to Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers substantially as she gave it on the stand today.

She also said under cross-examination that she could not swear that the "crash" she heard was the report of a revolver; in fact, that it had impressed her first as being the sound of a bottle breaking against a wall.

She could not identify a picture of Rothstein as that of the man she had seen staggering down the hall, nor had she ever seen McManus or Hyman Biller, indicted but never arrested in the case, so far as she knew.

Her room was on the opposite side of the hotel from that occupied by McManus on November 4 under the name of "George A. Richards."

Mrs. Putnam explained her presence near room 349 by saying that she had been in her room all day and she had walked past two other elevator entrances because she wanted to get the exercise.

Started to Buy Magazines.

She was on her way downstairs to buy some magazines when the events she related occurred, but she was so frightened she did not go out of her room the rest of the night, nor get the magazines.

Murray attempted to throw doubt on her credibility as a witness by getting her to admit that she had been arrested in Hendersonville, N. C., for theft, but she denied she ever had been arrested on any charge in North Carolina. Murray also attempted to make her give the name of the man who had registered with her at the Park Central five days before the shooting, but she refused and was upheld by the judge. Judge Nott, however, said that if Murray could prove that the man was material to his case she would have to answer.

Mrs. Putnam identified him only as "the man I am engaged to marry," and said he was not there on November 4, having returned to Asheville the day before.

Mrs. Putnam still was on the stand under cross-examination when the court adjourned until Monday morning at 10:30. She was preceded on the stand by "Nigger Nate" Raymond, Pacific Coast gambler, who was a participant in the stud poker game two months before the shooting and where, the State alleges, arose the motive for the killing.

Raymond testified that he won $219,000 from Rothstein that September Sunday in Jimmy Meehan's apartment, but had not collected the money, and had nothing to show that Rothstein owed it to him.

Raymond said that, being a stranger in town, he had asked Rothstein for a memorandum after the game, but the rest of the crowd laughed at him and told him A. R.'s word was O. K.

Let's Matter Pass.

"I decided I'd made a faux pas," he said, with a grimace at the smiling McManus, "and let it pass."

At the completion of Raymond's testimony, Murray moved that the testimony of all the gamblers participating in the stud poker game, of whom five had preceded Raymond on the stand, be striken from the records as irrelevant.

The State had promised to prove a motive from their testimony, Murray argued, and had failed to do so.

Judge Nott overruled the motion, holding that it was for the jury to decide whether a motive had been established.

COLD BRINGS DEATH INTO MIDDLE WEST

FOUR DEATHS REPORTED

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—The icy breath of a premature winter blew down from the northwest today in bitter winds and snowstorms and attendant death and suffering.

At least four persons died as a result of the sudden zero snap that centered over the North-central States, another, with hands and legs frozen, was thought to be dying in Clinton, Iowa, and numerous highway mishaps throughout the Western States were attributed to the snow and ice.

Up in the Minnesota woods where the lowest temperatures in the country were recorded, fear was expressed for the safety of hunters unprepared for the severe cold, and farther north, near the cradle of winter, a 30-mile gale drove a blizzard over the Saskatchewan Lakes where 50 fishermen were pushing north on a 50-mile trip. They had been gone three days.

Thief River Falls, Minn., glanced through frosted window panes at thermometers that registered unofficially 26 degrees below zero, the equal of White River, Ontario, which had the lowest official temperature on the weather map. It was 16 below at Duluth and 20 below at Winnipeg.

A promise of abating cold was held out by the weather bureau for tomorrow but only after a night that threatened to be the coldest of the year thus far.

Thermometers that stopped their downward run at one above zero in Chicago were to descend to three, or even six below tonight. The skies were clear but parts of Illinois, the northwestern, the Rocky Mountain States and Kansas reported snow flurries or blizzards.

Four Deaths, One Known.

One man was frozen to death in Racine, Wis., and another died in St. Paul, struck by an automobile as he shielded his face from the wind with his hands. A baby died in her mother's arms in Chicago, her heart overtaxed by the cold.

An aged inmate of an Oak Park, Ill., infirmary was found frozen to death on the grounds of the institution.

An unidentified man was found frozen in Clinton, Iowa.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 29 (A. P.).—An ice blockade appeared imminent tonight in the St. Mary's River, with 80 lake freighters yet to pass down to the lower lakes from Lake Superior before shipping stops for the winter.

Shipping Is at Standstill.

Shipping was at a standstill here today and the river below the locks was reported freezing over rapidly. Masters of ships which passed through Thursday reported 6 inches of ice. It was 12 below zero Thursday night.

Many ships were weatherbound tonight at Iroquois Point in White Fish Bay and many were overdue, but all were believed to be in shelter riding out the storm. The freighter Thomas Barlum was reported two days overdue at Duluth.

Jury of Friends Gives Verdict in Pair's Death

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury, composed of personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Pauley, found shot to death in their Gold Coast apartment Thanksgiving Day afternoon, decided today that Pauley killed his wife while temporarily insane and then turned the gun on himself. The bodies of the socially prominent pair were found by a bellboy who came to remind them of a dinner engagement.

Ill health, coupled with recent financial reverses, were believed to have caused the coal magnate to become temporarily deranged. Several hundred shares of stock, some jewelry and a small amount of cash were found. This, together with the fact that windows and the door leading into the apartment were found locked from the inside, caused police to abandon a murder and robbery theory.

U. S. REFUSES TO OPEN M'PHERSON RECORDS

Police Department made its inquiry into the death of Mrs. McPherson.

"For these reasons I have been compelled to the conclusion that it would not be in the public interest to allow the files of the department to be open to the special board.

"Respectfully, yours,
"WILLIAM D. MITCHELL,
"Attorney General."

Looking For Other Lines.

Prior to receipt of the letter Commissioner Dougherty told reporters that if the request was turned down by the department "some other lines" would have to be worked out in the prolonged effort to decide what shall be done about the criticism of Shelby and Kelly.

The Bride-Davison board is not expected to make any report before the middle of next week. Bride is out of the city and not expected to return to his desk until Monday. On Monday Davison is expected to be busy at the coroner's inquest into the McCrory explosion.

Both Shelby and Kelly have filed with the Commissioners through their attorneys, Henry I. Quinn, George E. Strong and James A. O'Shea, formal and emphatic demands for public trial on the criticism of the grand jury. Both police officers are anxious to force their critics among the members of the grand jury to face them at a formal hearing. They wanted their trial conducted by a board with legal authority to compel the appearance of witnesses.

Investigation Is Resumed.

This demand was made because Merritt O. Chance, foreman, and other members of the July grand jury flatly refused to appear before Bride and Davison when they began to study the criticism of the police officers several weeks ago. The refusal of witnesses to appear developed into a fiasco, and the board suspended its work.

Their "investigation," however, was resumed under orders of the District Commissioners following the action of the present grand jury in freeing Robert A. McPherson, husband of the strangled nurse, of the indictment for her murder which had been returned against him by the Chance jury.

So far there have been no known results from the latest efforts of Bride and Davison, both of whom have refused to accede to the demands of Shelby and Kelly for public trials. It is understood that there is a belief on the part of the two officials that they should study the entire case themselves, and frame any charges which might be preferred against the police officers.

PRESS IGNORED DRY DATA, HOWELL SAYS

Nebraska Senator States Violation Facts Were Given to Senate.

'LOOSE TALKING' CHARGE

Senator R. B. Howell (Republican), Nebraska, declared in an interview in Omaha yesterday that, in answer to a virtual challenge by President Hoover, he had given facts about prohibition violations, but for some reason his facts were not given much publicity.

"I gave those facts September 24 in the Senate," Howell said, according to the Associated Press, "but for some reason this data did not get much publicity.

"Even the Ohio Issue, an Anti-saloon League publication, charged me with loose talking. This was in the face of the fact that I named a steamship that recently delivered in Baltimore, after traversing territorial waters, 1,444 quarts of liquor for use in Washington, named the trucking concern that transported the beverage liquor to Washington and the chauffeur and helper operating the van.

"I also furnished detailed evidence of violations in one of the great hotels there, obtained under official orders by a party of plain clothes officials, composed of two special dry agents and two policewomen."

So far as he has been able to learn, Howell said, no prohibition agents have visited these hotel properties since. Howell also charged that the State Department had denied him permission to look at the files dealing with diplomatic liquir.

CONGRESS LEADERS TO HASTEN TAX CUT

$160,000,000 Reduction in Income Levies Will Be Speeded Through.

QUICK APPROVAL LIKELY

(Associated Press.)

Legislative action on the $160,000,000 program for reduction of taxes on 1929 incomes will be expedited by House and Senate leaders in an attempt to get it to President Hoover as soon as possible after Congress convenes next week.

Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee, predicted yesterday that before the regular session is five days old the House will adopt the joint resolution, which will call for a flat 1 per cent cut on normal incomes of individuals and corporations.

Quick approval by the Senate was forecast by Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, who said he expected only one day would be required for that branch to complete action. He would be willing, he said, to defer consideration of the tariff bill in order to present the tax resolution to the Senate quickly.

No Serious Opposition Seen.

There has been no apparent disposition in either house seriously to oppose the program, which has been agreed upon by the administration and leaders of the majorities and minorities in both branches. Senator Borah, Republican-Independent, of Idaho, has intimated, however, that there might be some questions asked with regard to whose incomes would be affected.

The Idahoan said he was opposed to delaying the tariff bill for any legislative proposal before the Senate, and would not consent to consideration of the tax resolution unless assured it could be disposed of in one day.

Given the legislative right of way in the House, the resolution will be introduced Monday by Hawley and be brought before the ways and means committee Wednesday morning for hearings. Hawley plans to seek a special rule to bring the measure up for consideration Thursday.

Hearings Are Postponed.

Under plans he had announced, he intended the hearings to be held Tuesday, but postponed them after being notified that Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury, who is to appear, would be in New York on that day.

"We will not lose much time by this unforeseen delay," Hawley said, "as we expect final action by the House Thursday. It is a privileged measure and can be brought up at any time after being reported."

Individual income taxpayers under the plan would receive a reduction of about $68,000,000, while the corporations taxes would be cut approximately $92,000,000. It applies to incomes of 1929, and affects the returns in the fiscal year of 1930. If such a measure is not reenacted the following year, the present tax rates again would become effective.

Rodin Museum Dedicated In Quaker City Exercises

Ambassador Claudel, Mayor Mackey and Mayor Walker Are Speakers at Gathering in $2,000,000 Building, Gift of the Late Jules Mastbaum.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The new Rodin Museum, containing many of the works of Auguste Rodin, French artist, was dedicated today in the presence of prominent civil officials and art lovers, with addresses by Paul Claudel, French Ambassador; Mayor James J. Walker of New York, and Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia.

The museum, at Twenty-first street and the Parkway, is valued, with its contents, at $2,000,000. It is a gift to the city by the late Jules E. Mastbaum, motion-picture magnate, who died in 1926. It will be the permanent exhibition place of a collection of Rodinana made by Mr. Mastbaum during his last years.

Ambassador Claudel presented to Mrs. Mastbaum on behalf of his government the ribbon and cross of the Legion of Honor in recognition of her contribution to French art.

The museum, a white limestone structure, is a reproduction of the Rodin Musee at Meudon, near Paris. It was designed by Jacques Greber, French artist, in conjunction with Paul Cret. The building is one story high and 80 by 100 feet. A monumental gateway gives admission to the museum and its surrounding garden.

Within the building are 83 Rodin creations, including "The Kiss," a head of Balzac, the French novelist; "the Athlete," "I Am Beautiful," "The Fish Woman," "The Mermaids," "At the Seashore," a bust of Victor Hugo, "The Hand of God," "The Crouching Woman," "The Gate of Hell," "The Thinker," "The First Man," "Eve," "The Age of Bronze," and numerous sketches in pen and pencil and water color.

Dry Reports May Delay Treasury's Supply Bill

(Associated Press.)

Extensive hearings on prohibition enforcement and the public building program are expected by members of the House appropriations committee to delay the report of the annual Treasury-Postoffice departments supply bill until after the Christmas holidays.

It has been customary to report the measure soon after the regular December session begins. Although hearings were begun about ten days ago it was indicated by Chairman Wood yesterday that the report on the measure would be delayed until after the holiday recess ends in January. This measure, usually one of the largest, in recent years has authorized the expenditure of a billion dollars annually.

Wrecked Ship's Fumes Kill Three, Injure Two

Cobh, Irish Free State, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Poisonous fumes which had accumulated in No. 4 hold of the wrecked and abandoned liner Celtic today killed three salvage workers and gravely gassed two others.

Several other workmen recovered in a short time from the effects of the gas. The men were climbing down a ladder when overcome, and they fell into the hold. The British destroyer Seawolf sent a launch with nurses and doctors in answer to a radio appeal for help. Meanwhile three workmen, wearing gas masks, entered the hold and brought the injured to the deck. Two of those at first thought dead later recovered in a hospital here.

NOISE DATA SOUGHT BY DISTRICT CHIEFS

RELIEF BY LAW IS CITED

Having watched the progress of The Post's antinoise campaign since its inception, Proctor L. Daugherty, president of the Board of District Commissioners, announced yesterday that he will be glad to receive all statistics and other information obtained and place the material before the Commissioners for action.

Commissioners Dougherty has given much serious study to the noise problem, and the matter was taken up by the Commissioners some time ago, but it was the consensus then that practically everything possible in the way of legislation had already been accomplished.

The entire problem centers around the definition of noise. What is noise to one listener may be sweet music to another. That appears particularly true of radio.

Under present practices, persons who complain of noises that disturb them have recourse in the courts under the nuisance law which covers noise in general, or various police regulations which apply to specific noises.

The present laws provide relief in court from the annoyance of uncontrolled loud speakers, automobile horns improperly used, dogs or other animals which bark or howl continuously, and other prolonged and unnecessary noises, including wild parties which are audible in the street.

However, the results of The Post's campaign indicate that the public is not getting the relief to which it is entitled. That is the purpose of the campaign: To provide such relief wherever it may be required, either through the enforcement of existing legislation or the adoption and enforcement of new regulations to cover situations where the present laws do not apply.

To accomplish results it is necessary, obviously, that The Post's campaign must represent the views of a representative portion of the population. Ballots are being submitted in heavy batches as the appended list will show.

Loud speakers continue to head the list with 204 votes against them, but automobile horns are running close behind, at 177, while barking dogs are still an important third, at 129.

The objection to automobile horns in most cases is not against the normal use of horns, but particularly against their use for purposes of greeting or salutation. Company that uses a raucous automobile horn to notify the host of its arrival will be surprised at the ire that practice arouses among suffering neighbors.

Objections to wild and noisy parties seem to be similar in nature. Very few of the balloters appear to squawk about the parties themselves; it is the finale that is criticized. Guests who stand down in the street and yell farewells to hosts on the top floors of skyscraper apartments (or even bungalows) are far from popular with other nearby residents, The Post's ballots show.

Not all of the ballots received are opposed to noise, however. Some are ardently in its favor such as one who coyly signs herself "Miss Anxious Outcome," and who says, "Is this supposed to be a city or a graveyard? What brand do you drink? My suggestion would be to go off and die then you would have peace at last. Don't be pathetic. How old are you, dear noise editor?"

Them's harsh words, but to take up the questions and suggestions in sequence: It's all in the point of view, Anx. If that's an invitation a any brand will do. Thanks for the suggestions and advice. Young enough. But seriously again, The Post does not represent its "din-cut probe" as any move for the abolition of noise; there must be some form of exercise for the human ear. The point involved is simply that an answer is sought to the question: Is there too much noise in Washington? If so, what particular type of noises are there too many off? After those are answered it may be possible to see that something is done about it so that all will be satisfied.

NOISE BALLOT

The Washington Post herewith presents a ballot on which its readers may report disturbances which have annoyed them in the past or at present. Totals of this list of complaints will be published later and the results turned over to the proper authorities in the District of Columbia for any action necessary to eliminate all unnecessary noises which have caused residents inconvenience. Fill out the ballot today, sign your name and mail it to the "Noise Editor" of The Washington Post.

Hunt Begun for Mayor Missing for 17 Days

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Nov 29 (A.P.) Authorities here today were asked to search for Dr. Rudolph Tenerowicz, Mayor of Hamtramck, a Detroit suburb, who has been missing since November 12 when he went North to join a deer hunting party in the upper peninsula of Michigan.

The request was made after others in the party returned here from the camp and learned that Dr Tenerowicz, who had failed to join them had left his home in Hamtramck for that purpose.

THREE PLANS LEAD IN STARLING PLAGUE

Kill, Frighten or Trap Pesky Birds Among Suggested Propositions.

HOSE METHOD IS CITED

There are three general methods of ridding the Capital, and particularly the vicinity of the District Building, of starlings, a survey of the hundreds of serious suggestions entered in The Post contest reveals. They must be killed, frightened away, or deported after being trapped or caught by hand.

A large proportion of the letter-writers favor the first method because of its admitted certainty, while a goodly number offer divers substitute schemes in the name of humaneness. In the first category the following proposals appear to be most practical:

Let them be shot down with shotguns.

Gas them with a special mixture which will not harm the trees or spread into other parts of the city (Specifications as to the exact gas are lacking.)

Feed them poisoned grain or erect poison water troughs; feed them grain soaked in a strong salt solution.

Put bird lime on tree limbs and then shoot them or gas them.

Tie poisoned food to the tree branches.

Suffocate them with smoke or a mild gas and then knock them over the heads.

Call the Chemical Warfare Service into action.

Airplane Suggested.

Several ingenious sugestions for using gas on the birds without causing property damage or entailing human casualties have evolved from the contest. One writer advises the use of a gas gun on a low-flying airplane. This method, he said, is used in boll weevil sections of the South on the cotton pest.

The idea for frightening the birds away permanently that has the greatest support is the use of firearms or firecrackers. Hunters and veteran bird observers contend that the noise of a shotgun firing or the sight of a skyrocket will so frighten the feathery visitors that they will never return. The scare may have to be repeated, proponents of the plan admit, but in the end it will be effective.

The old custom of New England poachers in England of burning sulphur beneath the trees has been put forward.

Big-Hearted California.

The most pertinent suggestion for trapping the pests seems to be that of placing bird lime on the tree limbs thus imprisoning them like flies on fly paper. Boy Scouts, unemployed men, or volunteers could then climb the trees, pick them off like apples and put them in cages, boxes, or the like and ship them—where?

To solve this problem a Californian stopping in the Capital offers, in behalf of his State, to take them gladly if they are transported to the "sun-kissed" Pacific coast. They might be caught, he said, by casting nets over the trees at night.

A more complicated scheme proposed is to procure a large light net, about 15 feet square, and have it elevated on four long bamboo poles. Lift this over the tree then let the poles down so as to envelop the trees and the starlings. The birds will all fly to the top, the proposer contends, and a man could then climb the tree and catch them.

Meanwhile the starlings are having the time of their lives in the Pennsylvania avenue treetops, undisturbed by the plots being made on their lives.

Starling Contest Letters

California, Here They Come!

I come from California, where everything grows bigger and better, but I am not going to exaggerate to the extent of bragging that we have flying cows out there. However, we do have sea gulls and instead of considering them a pest we actually consider them an asset. So I feel somewhat justified in believing that if we could acquire your starling roosts we would have another feature for Californians, Inc., to advertise.

This brings me to my suggestion. Remember how the passenger pigeon was exterminated. Just drop nets over the trees while the birds are roosting. Then ship them to California.

Army and Navy Club.

Turn Fire Hose on 'Em.

In answer to your appeal for a suggestion for getting rid of the starlings, I submit the following plan which has been already tried and found effective in Montclair, N. J.

In Montclair the fire department turned the fire hose on the birds after they had gone to roost, thus frightening them away. This had to be repeated but proved in the end successful in banishing these birds from Montclair.

MISS E. H. JOHNSON.

Then He Hanged the Commissioners.

Some years ago while I was serving as secretary to the civil governor of Upper Waddi-Stuffa I recall that the trees in the gardens of the royal palace were infested in much the same way as those on Pennsylvania avenue. The king, at that time Baldi the Magnificent, much given to indoor sport, did not frequent the gardens until one day late in the fall.

The evening of the day upon which his majesty strolled beneath the shade trees a royal edict went forth that the three commissioners for that district would see that the pests be made into a regal pie for his majesty's table before the next quarter moon.

The pie was served on or before that date amid much good-natured laughter, the king adding somewhat to the joviality of the occasion by decorating the trees with the three commissioners.

Thus passed the pests and the incident.

A LIFETIME DIPLOMAT.

Scare 'Em With Guns.

I offer the following solution to the starling menace. The discharging of shotguns or other fire arms, as near the roosting time and place as possible, will solve this problem in a hurry. These discharges can be made right up in the air from nearby buildings.

The Topeka, Kans., capitol building was doomed to destruction by birds some years ago. This process worked wonders.

Having read all the solutions in the papers, I have been surprised this one has not been offered.

MINERVA T. HOOVER.

Enlist the Boy Scouts.

I wish to submit a suggested means of abating the "starling nuisance" on the Avenue. The starling roost in the trees referred to can be abated. The starlings are easily frightened, and can be induced to find a roost elsewhere.

And as a claimant for your award in behalf of the Boy Scouts I wish to submit the following:

A scout representative to interview the District Commissioners and ask them to procure a couple hundred small-sized sky rockets that would explode 30 to 40 feet in the air, with a loud report and plenty of smoke and then have the Boy Scouts, assembled under proper command, and place three or four, each with a couple of rockets, under each tree, on a dark night, and at a given signal, all at once to fire their rockets up into the trees, among the roosting starlings. This would so confuse and frighten the birds, and they would be blinded that they would not want the second dose, and if any did come back a repetition on a couple of nights would finish them. And it would be fun for the Boy Scouts. The expense of the sky rockets would be very small.

CAPT. J. M. MILLER.

Put Salt on Their Tails.

The members of Congress will soon return to Washington. I would suggest that each one of them be given a full salt shaker that they may put salt on the tails of the starlings and catch them.

They failed to help the farmer or any one else during a special session of Congress, so their efforts in ridding the city of starlings could not be more of a failure, and we would get some action for our money.

ANNE WOODWARD.

Stuffed Owl as Scarecrow.

If you will fasten a stuffed owl up in one of the trees where the starlings roost I do not think the starlings will stay there. If it is a live owl, I'm sure they would not. It would not cost much to try the experiment.

JAMES H. MORRIS.

Call for Volunteers.

I believe that the only sure way to rid the city of starlings is to place some one in each tree about the time they begin to gather. Keep them scared out for a few nights until they change their roosting places.

I believe that this would be the surest and cheapest way to do it. My experience with chickens is that you can change their roosting place permanently in two or three days, and I think this would work with the birds.

There should be in the city thousands of people now who would be glad to do this work very reasonably.

H. S. GROGAN.
912 G street northwest.

Blow 'Em Into Nets.

Why not have a large net with a drawing string around it held under the trees; then have airplanes fly low over the buildings and tree tops? The noise of the engines and wind from the propellers would frighten and blow the starlings into the net. Then at the right moment pull the string. The rest would be easy.

You could charter a nice ship to return the birds to England, or if the net is not too valuable weight and drop it in the Potomac, or better still, sell the whole outfit to some bird lover for $50. Your prize money would be assured in this way.

"Starling" Prizes

The Washington Post offers a prize of $50 for a practical and humane solution of the "starling" problem, one that will definitely end it.

An additional prize of $10 is offered to the person sending in the suggestion deemed to be most humorous.

Suggestions for the "starling" problem should not be more than 300 words long and should be written on one side of the paper only.

All manuscripts should be addressed:

VAN SWERINGEN RAIL MERGER IS APPROVED

AWAITS U. S. PERMISSION

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Merger of the Hocking Valley Railroad with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad was approved by 66 per cent of the stockholders of the Hocking Valley Co. at a special meeting here today.

A resolution providing for sale of the railroad properties, rights, privileges and franchises to the C. & O., subject to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was adopted.

The merger is another step in the plans of the Van Sweringen interests to unify its railroad holdings. If approved, the Chesapeake & Ohio will have an uninterrupted run from the tidewater, at Newport News, Va., to Lake Erie, at Toledo, where it can join with the Pere Marquette, another Van Sweringen road.

Directors of the two railroads already have approved the merger plans and this was the first of two stockholders' meetings to consider the proposition. The stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio will meet December 3 to pass on a similar resolution.

Petitions for authority to merge the roads have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission but have not yet been passed upon.

I. C. C. IS PREPARED WITH MERGER PLAN

sumably called for four main Eastern systems, built around the Pennsylvania, New York Central, B. & O. and Nickel Plate.

The fifth system, now looming, contemplates giving the Wabash, which extends from Buffalo to Kansas City, with Chicago and St. Louis connections, such lines as would make it comparable in strength with the other four systems. The Lehigh Valley would give it a New York terminal, with a Buffalo connection. The Wheeling, and the Pittsburgh & West Virginia, would extend it to Pittsburgh. Through addition of the Western Maryland it would reach Chesapeake Bay and Baltimore.

The Pennsylvania has wanted the Norfolk & Western, but the intimation is that it may be given to the Wabash to afford a Hampton Roads terminal. The Pennsylvania has stock in the Wabash and the Lehigh Valley and is reported favorable to the five-system plan.

New Haven Unwanted.

As commission experts sum up the situation through the country, the main problem in the South is over the disposition of the Seaboard Air Line. The Atlantic Coast Line and the Louisville & Nashville are viewed as one system. The Southern Railway is regarded as a second one, with addition of full control lines into New Orleans and Cincinnati.

In the Northwest the problem centers around creation of two fully organized competing systems from the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Milwaukee and the Burlington lines. In the Southwest the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Frisco, Cotton Belt, Katy and Kansas City Southern, are the main units to be dealt with. The situation in New England is said to be complicated by the unwillingness of either the B. & O. or the Pennsylvania to take the New Haven.

Coincident with the reported imminence of the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan on the five-system basis in the East, rumors were current yesterday of a battle over the appointment of Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, of Massachusetts, originally put on the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Wilson, then reappointed by President Harding.

Known as "Liberal."

Eastman's independent liberalism and dissenting opinions on the commission are often compared to those of Justices Holmes and Brandeis on the United States Supreme Court. Eastman, former member of the Massachusetts Railroad Commission, upheld the so-called Massachusetts rule and the prudent investment theory of railroad valuation. Justices Holmes and Brandeis agreed with him and dissented from the Supreme Court's decision in the O'Fallon case, which swung back toward the replacement value theory favored by the railroads.

The Van Sweringens have several grievances against Eastman for dissecting and upsetting their merger plans. Eastman has also often taken a rap at railroad refinancing methods by certain New York bankers. His term expires next month and the rumor that Mr. Hoover would not rename him aroused Senators Norris, La Follette, Nye, Wheeler, Cousens and others, who are Eastman's ardent admirers and supporters. The word went around that these senators and others of the Senate coalition were threatening to block confirmation of any one substituted for Eastman.

At the White House, however, the need for all this agitation was thoroughly discounted. It was said that Mr. Hoover had not given the matter any consideration in the press of other business and that no basis existed for the rumors. It was denied that Senator Cousens had come to the White House yesterday and warned the President against shelving Eastman.

LOW TEMPERATURE GRIPS WASHINGTON

tors, gave tangible evidence that winter had really struck Washington. A check of three of the larger institutions showed that approximately 260 persons had been given beds Thanksgiving night, and it was expected that more would be found in these refuges this morning.

The District of Columbia division of the American Automobile Association issued a warning to motorists to make certain that the cooling systems of their machines are tight, and that they are thoroughly cleaned before being stocked with alcohol or other antifreeze solutions. It also urged that, wherever possible, automobiles be put under cover rather than left parked in the open during the night.

The Weather Bureau predicts that cold, fair weather will prevail almost generally in the Washington forecast district today with freezing temperatures as far as southern Georgia and extreme northern Florida, but that there will be a reaction to somewhat higher temperatures, with the weather becoming warmer tomorrow in all sections east of the Mississippi River. It also forecast moderate northwest winds for the Capital.

Among the new records set by the cold wave were an all-time low mark for the month in St. Paul, Minn., where the temperature reached 7 degrees below zero; 10 degrees below zero at Evansville, Ind.; 8 degrees below at Milwaukee, Wis., the lowest in 14 years, and 2 below zero at Rockford, Ill. At Duluth, Minn., a temperature of 14 degrees below zero was reported yesterday.

HEALING OF RIFT IN SENATE WILL BE TRIED BY OLD GUARD

the coalition was broken into. Both sides held pat.

And Watson was one of the first of the Old Guard group to realize this solidarity, to realize that the coalition was not to broken up, that as a matter of fact, it was to write the bill. With that realization the indications are that he has been looking to the congressional elections of next year and has been racking his mind for ideas as to how the Republican party can be brought back together to face those contests.

Seeks to Laugh It Off.

His purpose now is to agree with the Progressives that they won, but to laugh it all off as a matter of no great moment, as just a little difference of opinion in the Republican camp, and to get them in the mood to say after the bill has been passed: "We Republicans passed the bill," not "we Progressives and Democrats."

In short, the senator would like now to wean the progressives away from their Democratic running mates.

Moves Disclose Intent.

The senator is not giving any interviews of this import, of course, but his every move makes it obvious.

And it is not at all unlikely that he will be successful in creating such a psychological situation that by the time the congressional elections roll around the Democrats will have a hard time making any one believe that they had anything to do with the tariff at all. The Republicans, if Watson's harmony move works out, will be telling long before next November of the tariff bill that they passed.

Two of Old Guard Missing.

The odds are not against him in his efforts, either, as they were when he went away. Two of the hardiest of the old guards will not be present to prolong the tariff fight.

Edge, of New Jersey, has left to be Ambassador to France, and by the time the tariff discussion gets under way again Reed, of Pennsylvania, will be in London attending the naval arms parley. Some question has arisen as to whether Reed will go after all because of the uncertainty of disposing of the case of Senator-elect Vare, but it is believed that after all has been said and done January will find Reed in London.

Without Reed and Edge, Watson should have little trouble in having his program accepted inasmuch as it is the avowed program of the Young Turks.

The only possible trouble, in fact, lies in the question of whether the coalition will accept it. It is believed that it will in the final analysis, although for the purposes of public consumption it may not enter into a straight-away agreement of this nature.

Banker Is Reassured.

It was not given very much public notice at the time, but Senator Borah virtually assured the New York banker who accused the coalition of wrecking the stock market that the coalition had no intention of attacking industrial rates. He gave this assurance when the banker was before the Caraway lobby committee.

There are some of the Progressives who want a downward revision of industrial rates, notably Senator McMaster, of South Dakota, but it is a safe prediction that the Progressive bloc will not go along as a unit on any such proposition.

The conciliatory attitude of Senator Watson is believed to go further however, than the tariff bill. The Progressives are demanding a member on the Senate finance committee. They are advancing La Follette, of Wisconsin.

It is believed that La Follette will get the place and get it without any trouble at all.

Smoot to Keep Post.

Senator Smoot announced yesterday that he would remain as chairman of the Senate finance committee which means that Senator Jones, of Washington, will be named chairman of the appropriations committee, and Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant leader.

McNary's appointment will go far toward healing the breach between the Progressives and the regulars. He is not a Progressive, but then he is what they call agricultural-minded and the greatest little fixer in the Senate.

The attitude that Watson is adopting is in sharp contrast to that of some administration supporters outside the Senate. They are clamoring for punishment of the Progressives, that they be defeated next year.

Watson's attitude and the one that will characterize the other regulars when the new Senate convenes will be that of Lincoln's toward the South:

"They will be treated as if they had never been away," or something like that.

POLA NEGRI STARTS PARIS DIVORCE SUIT

papers, but the formality consisted of nothing more than handing the divorce application to a clerk, who will pass it and the affidavits accompanying it to the judge president of the divorce court.

Although the contents of the documents accompanying the application were not made public, it has been generally known since last spring that incompatibility is the ground on which the Polish artiste is seeking freedom. Since her spectacular marriage with Prince Mdivani at the Chateau de Serancourt, near St. Germain, tiffs between her and her husband have been frequent. The divorce application is said to recite the details of some of these clashes of temperament.

Pola has confided to friends that her character and that of her titled husband are too widely at variance for marital harmony to have prevailed. One of the most recent causes for discord between them was the prince's insistence on taking a trip to Monte Carlo last April against Pola's wishes. Shortly after this incident, the prince, informed that his wife was contemplating divorce proceedings, said he was deeply grieved at the news, adding: "Pola is a remarkably sweet person."

A commodity loan of $1,000,000 was granted the South Dakota Wheat Growers Association, of Aberdeen, S. Dak., yesterday by the Federal Farm Board.

The $1,000,000 will be used to supplement loans obtained by the South Dakota association from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, at Omaha, Nebr. It will enable the association to make advances to its grower members in line with the wheat loan policy announced by the farm board last month.

Buchanan School Bids Opened.

Bids were opened in the District Building yesterday for constructing an addition to the Buchanan School and remodeling the present structure. There were ten bidders. Bids ranged from $118,900, by Arthur L. Smith & Co., to $133,600 by Henry B. Davis. Award will be made after a study has been made of the bids and their alternative proposals.

15 GIRL SCOUTS PAY MRS. HOOVER VISIT

First Lady Takes Credit or Blame of Capital's Cold Snap.

CAMPS ARE DISCUSSED

Credit or blame for Washington's cold snap, which threatened to bring last night's temperature down to 16 degrees, belongs to the First Lady of the Land, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, according to a report of her reception of fifteen winsome Winston-Salem Girl Scouts yesterday at the White House.

The girls came to Washington especially to meet Mrs. Hoover, who is honorary president of the Girl Scouts of America, and when they were received by her in the Green Room of the Executive Mansion, yesterday morning, Mrs. Hoover is understood to have let them in on the secret that she had ordered "good weather."

"Mrs. Hoover said that she was glad the weather was so good," one of the Girl Scouts explained, "and that she had told the weather man of our proposed trip, and had made a special request that he send good weather."

Mrs. Hoover greeted each Scout and Miss Thelma Linton, Scout director and Miss Carolyn Siewers, Scout leader, personally, and then delved into a discussion of the organization's activities. When, in reply to one of her questions, the girls told the first lady that they were particularly interested in camps, Mrs. Hoover told them of the presidential camp on the Rapidan River, and of feeding the fish when they were caught in pools at low water seasons.

The girls, all of whom are first class scouts, were dressed in their uniforms, while Mrs. Hoover wore a plain black velvet gown. The scouts in the party were Mary Sink, Anne Maslin, Lou Dillard Missen, Virginia Maslin, Mary Louise Mickey, Katie Sue Taylor, Edna Fetter, Sallie Cahill, Josephine Walker, Dorothy Poole, Margaret Ashbin, Faith Brewer, Elisabeth Gray, Margaret Long and Margaret Johnson, a Golden Eaglette.

Following their interview with Mrs. Hoover, the girls were the guests of Lincoln Memorial University, of Cumberland Gap, Tenn., at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel. Dr. John Wesley Hill, chancellor of the university, presided. Other guests were his daughter, Miss Ruth Hill; former Gov. D. W. Davis, of Idaho, president of the Lincoln League of America; Mrs. Camille Fooks, secretary of the university; Miss Gladys Moore, director of vocational training in the Winston-Salem, N. C., high schools; Mrs. Dorothy Forsythe, scout examiner, and Miss Linton and Miss Siewers.

WHOZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was a noted American actor.
2. He was born in 1810 and died in 1889, his success on the stage reaching through the greater part of two generations.
3. He was a native of New England.
4. Some of the plays in which he scored noteworthy successes were: "The Iron Chest," "The Merchant of Venice" in which he played "Shylock," "The Poor Gentleman" and "Naval Engagements."

Aero Club of France Ratifies Coste Flight

Paris, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The Aero Club of France today ratified the non-stop record straight-line distance flight of Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte between France and China last October.

The exact distance was placed at 7,905.14 kilometers, or about 4,950 miles.

Five Killed in Wreck of Celtic.

Cobh, Irish Free State, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Five men were killed and twelve were made seriously ill by gas in the hulk of the wrecked liner Celtic, which is being dismantled off the coast here. One of the dead was David Carmichael, head of the contracting firm, which is engaged in scrapping the wreck. The other four were local workmen.

Dorr and Mrs. O'Brien File Not-Guilty Pleas

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Genevieve O'Brien and Samuel Howard Dorr today entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned on charges of slaying William O'Brien, husband of the woman.

Prosecutors announced the State would ask the death penalty for both and defense attorneys said they would seek separate trials. O'Brien was slain last week in what the State claims was a murder plot for an insurance policy sold to O'Brien by Dorr.

PEACE WITH DISHONOR.

Fortunately the United States has not yet been drawn into the false position of acting as joint arbiter with Great Britain and other powers in the Chinese-Russian controversy in Manchuria. American meddling, save for the protection of American life and property, would not be warranted even if both Russia and China were sincerely endeavoring to avoid war and to abide by the Kellogg pact. But under present circumstances, where Russia is seeking to effect a dishonorable peace as an aftermath of the invasion of China by the red army, no American official will have the support of the people if he seeks to involve the United States in negotiations with the Soviet.

Having invaded Chinese territory, and employed war as an instrument of policy, Russia now is taking steps to withdraw such military forces as are no longer needed and to invite peace discussions on terms imposed by the red army. Russia is willing to discuss the sacredness of the Kellogg pact, which she has violated, and to invite China to rely on another pledge of the same brand as the one that has been dishonored.

It is now clear that the Communists utilized the Kellogg pact as a means of lulling the suspicions of the Chinese and other powers into the mistaken belief that there was to be no invasion of Chinese territory, while active steps to prepare for such invasion were secretly carried out. Until the red army was ready to strike, Moscow announced to the world that the sacredness of her obligations under the Kellogg pact would deter her from any act of war under any circumstances.

The League of Nations has been made the world's laughing stock by its impotence in the face of the war waged by Russia. Apparently the Soviet army will have completed its invasion and accomplished its purpose before the league takes official cognizance of the fact that there has been even a threat of war.

Red propaganda already blames the Chinese for the invasion, and ascribes the casualty lists and the war horrors visited upon the civilian population to the looting of disorganized Chinese troops driven back by the invaders. It will doubtless be possible to add a semblance of truth to this, because defeated and fleeing armies usually resort to looting.

Besides demonstrating the collapse of the League of Nations as a peace agency, the Russian invasion accentuates the fact that peace based on good faith is not to be expected from the Communists. Their signature to the Kellogg pact means nothing. But it is not the duty of the United States to reform the Soviet. It is still less the duty of the United States to join in an attempt to patch up a peace in Manchuria based upon the advantages which the Soviet has gained by resorting to war in violation of its pledge.

A THIRTEENTH JUROR.

Technicalities have been swept aside in the selection of a new juror in the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein. Ordinarily the indisposition of one juror would have caused a mistrial, and it would have been necessary to select an entire new jury and present the evidence again. The plan of retaining the eleven original jurors and of reading to the new juror the evidence already taken was made possible only through agreement of the prosecution and defense. Their disposition to avoid further delay is commendable. It must be noted, however, that despite the cooperation of all parties the trial has been delayed several days.

There are hundreds of cases in the United States each year in which a mistrial results from illness, desertion or technical ineligibility of jurymen. In most of these cases the defense takes advantage of the opportunity to delay the trial and weaken the case of the prosecution. In important cases that require several weeks for hearing it is inevitable that members of juries frequently should be incapacitated.

A plan for avoiding this difficulty has been worked out, but few jurisdictions have taken advantage of it. This expedient is selection of a thirteenth juror, who remains a member of that body up until the secret session in which the verdict is decided upon. Should any one of the jurors be relieved of service, the extra man fills the vacancy with no interruption of the proceedings. Delay and consequent court congestion and miscarriage of justice are mitigated. Expense to both the State and the defendant is reduced. New York has been fortunate in escaping a mistrial of the McManus case, but the need for an extra juror in important trials of this kind has not been removed.

FLYING OVER POPULATED AREAS.

Three serious accidents caused by airplanes crashing into buildings have aroused alarm among residents in the vicinity of flying fields near New York. A Fokker monoplane, the largest ever built in America, crashed into a house near Roosevelt Field. Several persons narrowly escaped death, and the house was destroyed by fire, which also spread to an adjoining residence. James Pisani was killed when his plane struck a building on Long Island. Last week another death occurred when a plane smashed through the brick wall of a home.

Most accidents of this kind are due to carelessness. If fliers maintain an altitude greater than 7,000 feet when flying over heavily populated districts they have a good chance of reaching a landing field by gliding. Low flying over cities is inexcusable, especially when the pilot is a student or when the plane is being tested. One shudders at the thought of what might have happened had the plane in which Lieut. Cuddihy fell to his death been over Washington at the time. Steps should be taken now to make such a tragedy in the National Capital impossible.

Too many aviators are flying over the city. Only emergencies justify flight over densely populated areas at any time, and under those circumstances strict regulations as to height should be maintained. Cruising about just above the tops of buildings to see the sights or to startle pedestrians should not be tolerated. Risks must be taken by those who use the air, but risks that needlessly endanger the lives of people in their homes and offices are intolerable. It is up to civic, naval and military authorities to enforce strict regulations against this new traffic menace. There is plenty of unoccupied territory over which flying can be done. Washington should be kept entirely free from the danger of falling airplanes.

RELIEF FOR HOUSEWIVES.

Amid the numerous campaigns and drives for freedom of womankind it is strange that the cause of the housewife has been neglected for so long. Women who have entered the occupational field have obtained legislation limiting the daily hours of work, prescribing the time of day that women may be employed, and the kinds of work that they may do. But the average housewife is forced by necessity to work any and all hours of the day or night, without protest and with little sympathy.

Secretary of Labor Davis has come to the aid of this class of workers with a plea that they be given an eight-hour day and an annual vacation of two weeks. In addition to innumerable routine duties, he says, the average workingman's wife manages family finances, acts as household purchasing agent and accepts the general responsibility of making expenditures match receipts. As the address was delivered by radio on Thanksgiving Day, it is safe to say that thousands of women to whom the subject has a personal appeal were too busy to listen to it.

What can be done about it? It is not likely that the housewives will organize a labor union and go on strike. They are too busy for that. It is possible that their burden will continue to be lightened by the invention of labor-saving devices, and that an increasing number will choose to go into business, the professions or the factories rather than assume the duties of managing a household. But for the great majority of women it is probable that Secretary Davis' suggestion will remain an ideal to be cherished but never attained.

CUSTOMS PROCEDURE.

The Pan-American Commission on Customs Procedure and Port Formalities has completed its work, and it remains for the governments which sent delegates to the conference in Washington to put its recommendations into effect. A large part of the unnecessary red tape which at present hampers inter-American trade should be eliminated as a result of this conference.

At the closing session Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, pronounced simplification of customs house procedure "one of the most vitally necessary steps at this particular stage in inter-American trade." The movement to eliminate trade barriers has come at a time when commerce between the United States and other American republics is rapidly developing. A recent Department of Commerce report shows an increase of 24 per cent in the exports to South America during the first nine months of 1929. It is especially notable that exports to Argentina, South American rival of the United States, increased 30 per cent. Brazil took 22 per cent more goods, Venezuela 35 per cent more, and Chile 45 per cent more. Exports to all the other Latin-American republics showed big increases. In return, imports from those countries increased 12 per cent, reaching a total value of $488,000,000. Trade with Europe, Asia and Africa also increased, but at a smaller percentage.

Closer economic association between the nations of the Western Hemisphere will be of mutual interest in every respect. The gains that have been made this year should stimulate the different governments to revise their customs regulations wherever change is desirable. There are some recommendations in the convention agreed to that can not be accepted by all the governments, but in the main they should provide a valuable guide in modernizing customs procedure. It is worthy of early attention by all the American governments.

FATHER TONDORF, S. J.

Three hours before the first press dispatch telling of the Tokyo earthquake was sent out from Japan, the world knew of the disaster. In the seismological laboratory at Georgetown University sensitive instruments had traced violently fluctuating lines on their recording drums, and the Rev. Francis A. Tondorf, S. J., director of the seismological observatory, had been able to read from them the story of the disaster. Father Tondorf died early yesterday morning. His place in the scientific world will not easily be filled.

Father Tondorf was born in Boston, in 1870. He came to Georgetown University in 1903, where he installed the first seismograph. Since then similar earthquake recorders have been installed at all the leading Jesuit institutions of the country, and Father Tondorf came to be known as the father of seismology in American Jesuit colleges. The work that he established will go on, but the science of seismology has lost one of its most learned exponents.

It was Father Tondorf's hope that ultimately it would be found possible to forecast earthquakes, so that danger areas could be evacuated. Although a vast amount of research work remains to be completed before a dependable forecasting service can be devised, there is reason to believe that it is no more impossible to anticipate earth crust disturbances than it is to anticipate climatic variations. When earthquake forecasting does become practicable, it will be largely as a direct result of the invaluable contributions to the science of seismology made by Father Tondorf.

Secretary Lamont guesses that the loss arising from traffic congestion comes to about $2,000,000,000 a year, an amount equal to the total spent for highway maintenance and construction. By destroying all the highways we could save the taxpayer $1,000,000,000 annually.

Dr. Arthur Ruggles, president of the American Foundation for Mental Hygiene, predicts a return to "the good old days." If that includes gas lights, clincher tires and boiled shirts, count us out.

Cincinnati bank bandits drop $1,000 of their $10,000 loot in their haste to make a get-away. Possibly, however, they were only trying to pay the inheritance tax.

VULGAR ERRORS

In the New York Herald Tribune.

Josh Billings once declared that it is better not to know so much than to know so many things that ain't so. Tests show that the average intelligent man knows a surprising number of things that are not so. Not only does he believe these things, but he sticks to his beliefs with a tenacity that makes them akin to actual delusions. If the little nest of delusions that lies in almost every man's head could be removed with a knife his brains would be as much improved as is his digestion when the surgeon cuts the appendix out of his abdomen.

George Mansfield has studied some of the fool ideas that are to be found in the minds of most educated people. The best that can be said for them is that they probably take the place of superstitions, and for that reason occupy brain space that might be worse employed. Apparently they stick in that part of the mind in which the less cultured of our ancestors used to harbor superstitions. This is the reason that while they usually concern trifling or unimportant matters they are as hard to dislodge as the delusions of the insane or the voodoo beliefs of a savage.

Tests have been made on a group of 359 adults, students in college extension courses. A list of 40 popular misconceptions was used in each case. Women were found to be slightly more credulous than men, the average number of misconceptions being 17.16 for the boys and 19.9 for the girls. Some believed as many as 31 out of 40 and not a single one saw that all the test statements were not true.

1. It is almost fatal to eat lobster and follow it with ice cream.
2. Red-headed people always have quick tempers.
3. Winters were longer and colder when you were a child.
4. Dew falls.
5. Tan shoes are cooler for summer wear than black.
6. Shaving makes the hair grow faster.
7. Long, slender hands indicate an artistic temperament.
8. Marriage of cousins necessarily results in children of inferior intelligence.
9. A high forehead indicates a superior intelligence.
10. A liquid contained in the center of many golf balls will cause instant, total blindness.
11. There is something in astrology.
12. All Scotchmen are penurious.
13. All Chinese smoke opium.
14. Lightning never strikes twice in the same place.
15. One hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after midnight.
16. Women are by nature nobler and purer than men.
17. A square jaw is a sign of will power.
18. Conscience is an infallible guide to conduct.
19. An expectant mother can influence the character of her child by fixing her mind on a subject.
20. If your ears burn it is a sign that some one is talking about you.

Not one of these beliefs has any foundation in fact. Each has been subjected to the acid test of scientific investigation and found wanting, coincidences to the contrary notwithstanding.

BLIND PURCHASES.

There was no price mark on the hat.
I merely said: "Well, I'll take that."
I like it and it seemed to be
The sort of hat which suited me;
But later on the bill disclosed
A price much more than I'd supposed—
A price I never should have paid
Were not the bargain blindly made.

How many times when lured to buy
Some trinket which had caught my eye
I've asked the cost, and turned away
Because it seemed too much to pay
And yet how many times I take
Some fancied thing for pleasure's sake
Only to learn at last that I
Should ask the price before I buy.

And so with life it seems to be,
Pleasures are heaped for us to see;
But many a bargain bad is made
Because the price is not displayed.
Blindly some joy we rush to clutch
Later to find the cost too much;
Some temporary thrill we win
And grumble when the bills come in.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise:

You were busy about your own affairs last night when that young man told me his troubles, but I suspect you heard part of his story.

He is a Seventh Day Adventist, and the religion of his people doesn't permit him to work on Saturday. Since the law and popular opinion require him to be idle on Sunday he loses two days each week and the loss means hardship for his wife and children.

He said he didn't feel free to offend his family by forsaking the faith he was taught in childhood, and yet as he grows older and reads more he begins to suspect that the keeping of one day may be as pleasing to Heaven as the keeping of another.

With his troubles we have nothing to do, and yet a little study of his case may save you considerable unhappiness and distress of mind.

Your mother once told me that her religion had given her much more happiness since she discarded some of the beliefs she was taught in childhood.

Do you know why? Simply because she didn't really believe those things as a child. She tried to, and made herself think she accepted them because that seemed her duty. But her mind wasn't convinced, and when she quit fooling herself and became intellectually honest she found happiness in the beliefs that remained.

It makes anybody feel better to quit pretending and be honest with himself.

I have never tried to make you believe anything unreasonable, and neither fear of the devil nor fear of public opinion has prompted me to teach you things you "ought to believe." There aren't any such things.

God gave you a clear mind. He expects you to use it. Believe the things your mind can accept and cling to your belief despite ridicule and persecution, whether you are a Seventh Day Adventist or a Baptist, but don't dishonor your intelligence by pretending to believe what you can't believe.

All your life you will be tempted to "kid yourself"—to fool yourself by pretending that you believe this or that because other people do.

Don't do it, honey. It's cowardly and crooked and shameful. Keep your mind honest. Ask yourself always, "Do I really believe this, or am I being dishonest to please the crowd?" And if your mind can't accept the belief have none of it.

The world is full of pretenders, ranging from plain hypocrites to mere simpletons who fool themselves to keep on the safe side, but all alike are rotten, for intellectual dishonesty is just as vile as any other kind.

And fooling your mind is just as silly as trying to fool your stomach. Love,

DAD.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

HOW TO ENJOY A FOOTBALL GAME OVER THE RADIO.

More and more people are beginning to realize that it is folly to go through all the annoyances of a long motor or railroad trip to get the thrill of a big football game or grid classic. You can, it has been demonstrated, experience all the hardships, inconveniences and emotions by radio if you go about it the right way.

* * * *

First—Get a pretty girl to listen in with you and then jump into an automobile and drive around town through heavy traffic an hour or two before the broadcasting begins. Get behind as many slow-moving trucks as possible and make a serious effort to get lost.

Second—Park the auto about a mile from the house and trot across country, dragging the girl friend by the hand and reaching the house a little too late to hear the announcer's account of the first period.

Third—Place a pine board or a slab of slate between two chairs near the radio and sit down, keeping on your raccoon coat and draping the big green and yellow blanket about your girl friend. (If you want 100 per cent realism, sit on a cake of ice instead of the board or slab.)

Fourth—Open a window in front of you and one in the other room so you will sit in a draft.

Fifth—Jump up and give a good long cheer for Old Rutgers or somebody as each first down is announced and join in the singing with gusto when the broadcaster says, "Now I'll let you hear the bands and the cheering sections for a few seconds."

Sixth—Throw your hat out of the window and yell whenever a touchdown is announced, no matter by which side. (Note: This is where taking in a game by radio has it all over personal attendance. Sitting at the radio you can cheer both sides, rah-rahing for Notre Dame when it scores and whooping her up just as vociferously for Army when Army scores. In a stadium such conduct would be quite unpardonable.)

Seventh—When either goal is threatened, stand up and bellow, "Hold 'em, Whoozizs!" Block that kick!" or "Touchdown! Touchdown!" In fact, you can bellow all three without having anybody except the girl friend suspect inconsistency.

Eighth—Tear up a newspaper now and then and throw the pieces over your head, at the same time screaming "Ee-yah-h-h-h-h!"

Ninth—Between the first and second halves stand up and wave at imaginary persons, calling "Hello, Winthrop!" "Ah there, Chester," "Some game, eh, Eddie?" &c., &c. Take the girl friend by the arm and walk out into the backyard. Discuss the game excitedly, eat an all-hot or two and produce the usual flask.

Tenth—Rush back into the house, but do not turn on the radio until four plays have taken place.

Eleventh—After the radio announces the final play, dash out and go looking for your parked automobile. Take about an hour for this. Then drive into heavy traffic and stay in it until about 9:30. Then draw up in front of a restaurant and get a pretty terrible chicken dinner. You will then have experienced every sensation and emotion possible had you attended the game.

LINES FOR POST-THANKSGIVING DINNER.

Of all sad words
To speak (or sing),
The saddest are
"Give him the wing!"
Of all d—— lies,
The worst, by heck,
Is "That's all right,
I love the neck!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Make the Yule Log Lighter by Giving to Those Who Need.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Christmas shopping is upon us again—the crowded stores, the overburdened postman, the harassed faces of women elbowing their way through the mobs of other tired women. Crying children, who must doubt the goodness of Santa Claus when their mothers are wearied and cross, hunting suitable gifts for families and friends, who must be remembered. Husbands and fathers get worried lines in their faces. They don't know where the money is coming from for the bills at the beginning of the happy New Year.

I am making a plea for a more sensible celebration this year. Those of you who have plenty of money to spend on your equally fortunate friends, call a truce. Devote your Christmas fund to some one who really will be helped by receiving it; perhaps some loyal friend who has had a bit of hard luck. Let us give the hospitals and the foundling homes the most glorious celebration they have ever had. Let our children have their trees and a few simple toys, but for us, the adults, can't we realize that we are old enough to know better?

Doubtless some of you have been thinking "I don't know what to give so-and-so, they have everything already." I suggest that you write them a cheerful letter, or send a telegram of greeting.

Jesus Christ never meant His birthday to be a time of worry and extravagance. He would want it to be a happy, restful day—a gathering together of friends, a day of joy for the children and a day of satisfaction for the older people, who can know that they have given wisely but not too well.

For every one's sake let us be our age and follow up our merry Christmas with an honest-to-goodness happy New Year.

JUDITH FULLER.

Cuban Embassy Employe Not Mixed in Prohibition Violation Case.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Washington Post published on Thursday, November 28, that a Fred Martinez, charged with the possession of liquor in violation of the national prohibition act, was pulled out of an automobile belonging to the Cuban Embassy and that the operator of said automobile, the valet of the Cuban Ambassador, claimed diplomatic immunity against subpena.

I desire to state that this man Martinez was not found in a car belonging to the Cuban Embassy and that the ambassador's valet did not refuse to appear before the court.

The fact is that while the ambassador was in Europe the valet was learning to drive a Ford automobile not protected by diplomatic tag, the ordinary tag number of which was V-6767. While the valet was going by Twelfth street and New York avenue a man unknown to him jumped into the car through the rear window, and a detective, who was chasing the runaway, also jumped into the car, asked the valet to stop, and arrested the man in question.

The detective, understanding perfectly well the situation, did not say anything to the valet, who proceeded on his way. Since then the valet has not received any subpena. He is, however, willing to appear before the court at any moment he may be invited to do so.

It is very regrettable that reports such as the above should be published, since in so doing undue responsibilities are placed upon innocent persons and the names of missions accredited in the United States, fully respectful of the laws and customs of this country, and which in turn deserve equal respect because of what they represent and of their behavior, are unduly mixed in affairs such as this referred to.

JOSE A. SERA,
Secretary to the Ambassador.
Cuban Embassy, Nov. 29.

Police, as Peace Soldiers, Do Good Work and Deserve Higher Pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While we are praising he-man employes I hardly think it is fair to omit the police—the peace soldiers of the city. It is true that, resulting from the nature of their activities, they are subjected to a good deal of hasty and not always well-considered criticism. To err is human, as we say, and the policeman is in a worse position than most of his adverse critics, in so far as liability to mistakes and blunders is concerned. Considering conditions here, as compared with other cities, I think that, as a recent correspondent says of the firefighters, in the record of what the policemen do from year to year is their sufficient vindication. That they, along with the firemen, may be granted a raise in pay by the incoming Congress is my ardent hope.

A Place Where Billboards Would Be Useful in Hiding an Eyesore.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There have been many complaints about billboards appearing along roadways which hide the beautiful natural scenery of the surrounding country. Such billboards should not be allowed to remain, but there are places at which billboards could be erected serving advantageously to hide unbearable eyesores. One of these places is the dump at the Eastern Branch along Benning road.

This dump takes up a couple of blocks and it is a filthy sight to gaze upon. Here is a place where the billboards would add to the scenery rather than mar it, but the billboards are absent.

Felonious Thanksgiving Party and a Ribald Song.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note that a Federal judge has decreed that whosoever knows of a friend, neighbor or relative who possesses liquor for beverage purposes and does not report the fact to Government authorities is a felon.

At our Thanksgiving party we sang "For He's a Jolly Good Felon." We all had a felon feeling for felons.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Three Capital Debutantes in Society Bows

Trio of Presentations Held Amidst Scenes of Gayety.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE debutantes are certainly enjoying their place in the sun during the moratorium of official entertaining, which has followed the death of Secretary Good. Practically all of the entertaining of the last week has revolved about them, individually, collectively or in small groups.

The three presented yesterday were representatives of three of Washington's overlapping "circles"—congressional, Navy and residential. Representative and Mrs. Charles A. Eaton entertained yesterday afternoon at Bellevue, the historic Georgetown house which is eventually to be the home of the Colonial Dames of America but which the Eatons are occupying this winter to introduce Miss Star Eaton. Commander and Mrs. John Wise Morse entertained for Miss Frances Morse, one of the most winsome of the group of Navy debutantes, their party being given at their residence, 2337 California street. And Mrs. Joseph Bradley presented Miss Mary Parish Bradley, whose family is affiliated with Washington's "cave dweller" aristocracy.

At Bellevue, Miss Lorraine Coutts, of New York, a cousin of Miss Eaton, received with Mrs. Eaton and the debutante, with five pretty girls, Miss Betty Thorpe, Miss Emiscah Gale Davis, Miss Eleanor Corby, Miss Nancy James Adams and Miss Mary Ruden, assisting the young hostess.

Miss Eaton, who is tall, slim and very fair, wore a graceful gown of eggshell satin and chiffon velvet, severely plain and depending for its beauty on the richness of the contrasting materials. An armful of American Beauty roses provided a vivid note of color. Mrs. Eaton, who was gowned in black velvet, combined with lame, carried orchids, and Miss Coutts wore a yellow chiffon frock and carried roses.

Many guests from other cities had come to Washington for the fete, among them Mr. and Mrs. George His, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burwell of Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corey, of Buffalo. Mrs. His, Mrs. Burwell and Mrs. Corey are daughters of Representative and Mrs. Eaton and sisters of the debutante.

The home of Mrs. Bradley on Nineteenth street was a bower of flowers for the tea yesterday. Mrs. Bradley and her daughters were assisted by a charming group of girls, including Miss Laura Tuckerman, Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Margaretta Wright, Miss Mary W. Bradley, Miss Sophie Snyder and Miss Virginia Cheatham.

At the tea table were Mrs. Marshall Langhorne, Mrs. Powell Clayton, Mrs. A. D. Sims, Mrs. Thomas Bradley, Mrs. Arthur Snyder, Mrs. Charles H. Lindsay, jr., of Chicago, and Miss Mary Strong.

Mrs. Bradley was distinguished in a gown of black velvet and lace. Miss Bradley's frock was a charming model in green net with jeweled girdle. She wore green and silver slippers and carried pink roses.

Mrs. Lindsay, who came from Chicago especially for Miss Bradley's debut, and who is the guest of Mrs. Bradley, was formerly a resident of Washington and was active in Girl Scout work.

Both the Army and Navy were represented in the group of ladies at Mrs. Morse's flower-decked tea table, which included Mrs. William J. Harris, wife of Senator Harris; Mrs. Richard Leigh, Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, Mrs. David Sellers, Mrs. A. D. McCormick, Mrs. Charles Riggs, Mrs. Henry Hough, Mrs. Harry Yarnell, Mrs. William Leahy and Mrs. W. D. Puleston.

The girls in Miss Morse's receiving party were Miss Julia Harris, Miss Virginia Cheatham, Miss Elvira Johnson, Miss Janet Ball, Miss Esther Wallace, Miss Margreta Swenson, Miss Mary Ingraham Henry and Miss Martha Townsend, of Philadelphia, who is visiting Miss Morse.

Miss Morse wore an engaging frock of pink tulle, made on long lines, and carried pink roses. Mrs. Morse's gown was of blue chiffon velvet.

The Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Davila will give a tea dance at the embassy on Thursday afternoon, December 19, in compliment to Miss Junia Culbertson, debutante daughter of the United States Ambassador to Chile and Mrs. William S. Culbertson.

Many festivities are being arranged for Miss Culbertson, whose formal presentation to society in Washington will be made at a ball at the Mayflower on Christmas eve, with Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson as hosts. On December 23 she will be the guest of honor at a tea dance to be given by Representative and Mrs. Homer Hoch and Miss Jean Hoch. Miss Culbertson, it will be remembered, made her debut in Santiago de Chile in the summer, which is the official season south of the Equator.

Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, has gone to her home in Lake Forest, Ill., for a short stay. Miss Gertrude Lamont is visiting in New York. Mrs. Lamont and Miss Lamont rejoin the secretary shortly at their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Charles L. McNary entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower in compliment to Mrs. T. Franklin Schley, of Leesburg, Va., who is now the guest of Miss Sophie Casey. Covers were laid for fourteen.

Mr. David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aviation, and Mrs. Ingalls, who spent Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. W. L. Harkness, at Glen Cove, Long Island, will remain over the week-end, returning to Washington on Tuesday. They made the trip to New York by air and will return by plane.

Senator and Mrs. Tasker L. Oddie passed the Thanksgiving holidays at the Cavalier Hotel in Virginia Beach.

Mr. Claudius Huston Plans Daughter's Bow.

Mr. Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, will present his daughter, Miss Mildred Huston, to society at a reception on the afternoon of December 19, entertaining at his residence, 1730 Twentieth street, which was the home of Mr. Dwight F. Davis, Governor General of the Philippines, and Mrs. Davis when he was Secretary of War. Mr. Huston will give a ball for his daughter at the Mayflower on the evening of December 20.

Dr. and Mrs. James F. Lyon entertained sixteen guests at dinner last evening at their country home near Rockville. They have with them Mrs. Lyon's sister, Mrs. M. Hopkins Heft, of New York. Mrs. Lyon will be at home on Sunday afternoon, when her sister will receive with her.

Mrs. Marius de Brabant, who was to have been Dr. and Mrs. Lyon's guest at this time, was detained in New York by illness. She is the daughter of the late Senator Clark, and her last visit to Washington was at the time of the opening of the new wing of the Corcoran Gallery of Art, which houses the famous Clark collection.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman have returned to Washington from New York, where they went to attend the dinner and entertainment given at the Colony Club on Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Leland Eccleston Cofer.

Miss Laura Tuckerman will go to Baltimore to be a guest on Monday evening at the first bachelors' cotillion at which the Baltimore debutantes are presented to society. She will also attend the dinner which Mrs. Clinton Paxton Payne is giving before the ball for a large group of the Baltimore debutantes. This evening Mr. and Mrs. William Mann, who are occupying the home of Mr. Mann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac T. Mann, for the winter, will entertain at dinner in compliment to Miss Tuckerman.

Gen. and Mrs. Connor At Home January 5.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William D. Connor will not be at home tomorrow afternoon, but will receive on the first Sunday in January and in the following months of the season at their quarters at the Army War College, of which Gen. Connor is commandant.

Representative and Mrs. Albert E. Carter have arrived from their home in Oakland, Calif., to be at the Washington Hotel for the season. They went to New York yesterday to attend the Army-Notre Dame football game this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gist Blair have returned from an extended stay abroad and are again established in their historic home on Pennsylvania avenue. During their absence the house was remodeled to further enhance the stateliness of the fine rooms that are significant of much of historical interest in many periods of national events.

Prof. Vittorio Macchioro, of the University of Naples, will be presented in lecture this evening at the Mayflower by the Italy-America Society of Washington. Prof Macchioro will speak on "The House of Mysteries," his lecture beginning at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Henry C. Corbin entertained at luncheon today at Highwood, her country home near Chevy Chase.

Miss Platt Is Hostess For Miss Walker.

Miss Catherine Platt, daughter of the Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and Mrs. Edmund Platt, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Chevy Chase Club for Miss Helen Walker, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Walker. The other guests were Miss Phoebe Fuller, Miss Frances Morse, Miss Evelyn Walker, Miss Janet Ball, Miss Caroline Boebling, Miss Caroline Sanderson, Miss Isabel Lamberton, Miss Junia Culbertson, Miss Mary Martha Wren, Miss Mary Henry, Miss Frances Wall, Miss Mary Bennington Shinn, Miss Engracia Freyer and Miss Anna Parkhurst.

Miss Mary Lee Phillips will entertain a party of twelve today at the first of the tea dances to be held daily in the palm room of the Willard, and Mr. Ingham Mack will also entertain a group of young people. Several of the season's debutantes will attend the opening.

Mr. Richard Washburn Child, who is to be a speaker at the Celebrity breakfast today, arrived at the Willard yesterday.

Miss Katherine Hauck, daughter of Mrs. Peter Hauck, jr., of East Orange, N. J., and granddaughter of the late Senator James Smith, jr., will be married today in East Orange to Mr. Luigi Dionisi, son of Mrs. Maria Donisi-Nazara and Dr. Commendatore Antoine Dionisi, professor of pathology at the University of Rome. The couple will make their home in New York.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. S. Gardner Waller, Mrs. Nelson S. Waller, Miss Mary B. Waller and Miss Gardner, of Front Royal, Va., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Absalom Waller for the Thanksgiving holiday.

The Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. W. Irving Glover, is in Atlantic City, where he went Thursday to attend the farewell dinner given for Ambassador to France, Mr. Walter E. Edge, and Mrs. Edge before their departure for France on the Ile de France, December 6. Mr. Glover will return to Washington on Tuesday.

Mrs. Fenton Bradford is in New York, where she has gone to bid bon voyage to the retiring Minister of Egypt and Mme. Samy Pasha. She will return in a few days to her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Bradford entertained informally at a luncheon on Wednesday at the Carlton in honor of Mme. Samy.

Mrs. Bates Warren was hostess to a company of fifteen at luncheon yesterday in the presidential dining room of the Mayflower.

Allen—Cary Nuptials Held in New York.

The marriage of Miss Winifred K. Cary, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cary, of New York, and Mr. Floyd McJ. Allen, of Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Allen, took place Thursday afternoon at the Ambassador Hotel, in New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis Duffy in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Allen left for a trip. They will live in Washington.

Mrs. Richard S. Aldrich has gone to Aiken, S. C., where she will remain for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ballard, of Binghamton, N. Y., are at the Dodge Hotel for several days.

Mr. J. Hale McKillip and his sister, Miss Ruth McKillip, motored to New York for the week-end to attend the Army-Notre Dame game. They were to join a party of friends from Notre Dame, of which university Mr. McKillip is a graduate.

The League for The Larger Life will hold a bazaar today at its Town House, 1628 K street northwest, where the sale of Christmas cards and books, health candy and cake will be held for the benefit of its Christmas tree fund for homeless orphans. Light lunches will also be served. In the evening a Thanksgiving party will be given, with games, music and old time dancing in order.

Mr. John Wesley Hill, chancellor of the Lincoln Memorial University, entertained at luncheon at the Willard yesterday in honor of the group of Girl Scouts who were received at the White House earlier in the day by the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Will Entertain For Debutantes

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS CYNTHIA HILL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Hill, a debutante of last season, who will entertain at luncheon Tuesday for this year's debutante group.

Dinner Given By Mrs. Dimock To Debutante

Miss Tuckerman Feted at Brilliant Event Last Night.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimock entertained at dinner last evening for Miss Laura Tuckerman, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman. Miss Vittoria Catalani, who is making her debut this winter under Mrs. Dimock's chaperonage, was present, with many others of the season's debutantes. The company included Countess Cornelia Szechenyi, Countess Alice Szechenyi, Miss Ellis Bostrom, Miss Loranda Prochnik, Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Rahel Davies, Miss Nancy Newbold, Baroness Astrid Ungern-Sternberg, Miss Edith Eustis, Miss Jean Hay, Miss Lucia de Tessada-Guzman, Miss Junia Culbertson, Miss Betty Thorpe, Miss Anna Parkhurst, Miss Mary Parish Bradley and Miss Adele Varela.

Besides Signor Giuseppe Catalani, second counselor of the Italian Embassy and Mrs. Dimock's son-in-law, the group of men at the dinner included Count Marchetti and Signor Scardi, of the Italian Embassy; Senor Don Jose M. Linares-Rivas, secretary of the Spanish Embassy; Capt. J. T. Godfrey, Mr. A. J. Pack, Mr. A. R. Dew, all of the British Embassy; Mr. Walter Bufenacht, of the Swiss Legation; Mr. Andre Cattaui, of the Egyptian Legation; Mr. Robert Hinckley, Mr. Bagge, Lieut. Thompson, Mr. John Sweeney, Mr. Mitchell Carroll jr., Mr. Randolph F. Carroll, Mr. Gurdon Buck and Mr. Randolph Zell, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Dimock and Miss Catalani will be at home tomorrow afternoon and will receive on the following Sundays of the season.

Signora Catalani, who has been ill, is convalescing in Atlantic City.

Miss Rebecca Dial will be hostess at tea tomorrow afternoon at her studio in the Portland. The hostess will present several groups of songs and will give readings from her own poems. She will be assisted by Mrs. A. O. Stanley, Mrs. Nathaniel B. Dial, Mrs. Alexander M. Bull, Mrs. Calvin B. Matthews, Miss Nancy Stark and Miss Ruth Rawlings.

Society to Attend Horse Show Today.

All roads lead today to the horse show which will attract Washington society folks and sports devotees to the Riding and Hunt Club. A committee composed of Maj. Harry Leonard, Miss Margo Couzens, Mrs. Burdette Wright and Mr. John Finerty announce an interesting number of entries constituting eight classes.

Among those who have entered their mounts are Maj. William M. Grimes, Mrs. F. M. Andrews, Miss Elizabeth Douglass, of Worthington Valley, Baltimore; Mr. Sherman Flint, Miss Nancy Jones and Miss Emlen Davies, of the Wardman Saddle Club; Mr. Melvin C. Hazen, Maj. and Mrs. J. D. Patch, Maj. and Mrs. J. M. McDowell, Mr. Thomas Waller, of Warrenton, Va.

Miss Becky Lanier and Mr. Frank Bonsul, of Baltimore, will act as judges. There will be music during the classes with supper afterward.

Mme. W. A. F. Ekengren will entertain at tea on Tuesday for her debutante daughter, Miss Elsie Ekengren, the guests being limited chiefly to young people.

Former Senator and Mrs. Gilbert M. Hitchcock have arrived in Washington coming from their home in Omaha, Nebr., and are at the Carlton for a stay of several weeks.

The second of the "Old Neighborhood" talks by Miss Mary E. Lasenby will be given in the Women's Benefit Association clubhouse, at 1750 Massachusetts avenue northwest, next Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. The holders of course tickets may exchange these for reserved seats.

The talk will deal with the life of Pierre Charles l'Enfant and give some account of the friends who supported him in his early struggles with the Federal commissioners, and also the later group of friends who were the solace of his old age.

Breakfast Today For Pen Women.

One of the interesting tables at the celebrity breakfast of the National League of American Pen Women today will be the "poet's corner," named and arranged in honor of Mrs. Faith Van Valkenburgh Vilas, distinguished New York poet, dramatist and reader, who will give selections from her own poems, set to music. Mrs. Aaron D. Newman, past president of the District branch of the league, is sponsor for this table and will have as her guest, her daughter, Mrs. Gerald Ward Brooks. League poets at the table, in addition to Mrs. Newman, will be Miss Ada L. Bush, Mrs. Nellie E. Fealy, Miss S. Helen Fields, Miss Grace E. Fryainger, Mrs. Sallie Grant Gates, Mrs. Frank P. Greenawalt, Miss Honora Hoffliger and Miss Blanche Kennon Parker.

Mrs. William Wheatley will be hostess to a company of ten at the breakfast and Mrs. Theodore Tiller is sponsor for the "Dixie table," arranged in honor of Mr. James C. Young, of New York, author of "Marse Robert; Knight of the Confederacy."

Charming Bride

Carter-Bailey.

MRS. DAVID C. MEARNS, formerly Miss Mildred Sellers Haines, whose recent marriage took place at the home of Mr. Mearns' cousin, Mrs. John Crayke Simpson. The bride is the daughter of the late Maj. and Mrs. John T. Haines.

Miss Davis Is Betrothed to Naval Officer

Lieut. Comdr. Lome and Newton Girl to Wed in Early Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goldthwaite Davis, of Noroton, Conn., announce the engagement of Mr. Davis' sister, Miss Elizabeth Brown Davis, of Newton, Mass., to Lieut. Comdr. Frank Loper Lowe, U. S. N.

Miss Davis is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simon Davis, of Newton, and a granddaughter of the late John Goldthwaite, of Boston. She is a graduate of the Brimmer School of Boston.

Lieut. Comdr. Lowe is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, class of 1914, and of George Washington University Law School. He is at present stationed in Washington. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

With the announcement of a showing of the scenic film, "Newfoundland," by Maj. Robert H. Tait, on January 20 at Wardman Park Hotel Theater under the direction of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, comes a revival of the popular Sunday night motion picture events, which opened last year with the Lindbergh films, displayed with incidental music by the Army Band.

At the diplomatic motion picture on January 20, the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, dean of the Diplomatic Corps, will be guest of honor. The fete will be under the management of Dr. Anita Maris Boggs and Mr. Randolph M. Boggs, who have sponsored the presentation of educational motion pictures throughout the world for fifteen years. Their schedule this season, presented through the Bureau of Economics, will begin sometime in December, following the opening of Congress.

Dinner Events Slated After Mourning Ends

Official Regret Period for Mr. Good Is Over December 18.

With official mourning for the late Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good, to be lifted on December 18, dates are being selected for some of the dinners which were postponed. The Vice President Mr. Charles Curtis, will entertain at dinner on January 7 in honor of the President and Mrs. Hoover, this dinner having been put off from December 3.

The reception which the Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi were to have given today to present to society their daughter, Countess Alice Szechenyi, has been postponed until the afternoon of Thursday, December 19.

The Ambassador of Germany and Frau von Prittwitz have sent out invitations for a dinner on December 20 in honor of the Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Isabella Howard.

On the other hand, the Minister of Jugoslavia, Dr. Leonide Pitamic, has recalled invitations for a reception at the legation to celebrate the birthday of the King of Jugoslavia because the date, December 17, falls within the period of official mourning.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Riley, of Pittsburgh, are guests of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Sharp, having come to pass Thanksgiving and to remain over the week end.

As a farewell before his departure for Washington, where he is expected next week, the United States Ambassador to Mexico, Mr. Dwight P. Morrow, and Mrs. Morrow, entertained the personnel of the American Embassy in Mexico City Thursday at a Thanksgiving dinner at the Morrow country estate at Cuernavaca. Ambassador Morrow is a member of the American delegation to the London naval conference and is expected to confer with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson next week.

MUSTEROLE

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

A GRADUATE in law from the University of Michigan has just resigned the leading tenor role in a reigning Broadway musical comedy success to come to Washington to be master of ceremonies at Loew's Palace Theater. At least that is the word that is passed along to this desk by E. L. Delaney, of the publicity department of Loews, Inc., in New York.

The versatile young man referred to, of course, is Allan Rogers, who first achieved national prominence as a star of the singing stage in "Rose Marie."

Rogers crashed the boards in an odd manner. When Martinelli, of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, was prevented by illness from appearing in the annual "Spring Festival" at Ann Arbor, Allan Rogers took his place. Frederick Stock was a member of the audience on that occasion and invited Rogers to accompany his orchestra on tour as guest soloist. It was through Mr. Stock's instrumentality that Walter Damrosch gave the young vocalist an audition and an opportunity to appear with the New York Symphony. Then he was selected to sing in a series of Gilbert and Sullivan revivals in St. Louis, whence he was invited to visit the birthplace of his father, Stockholm, Sweden, and sing leads in the Swedish Royal Opera.

By that time all thought of practicing law had faded from his mind, and the notable engagements in "Rose Marie" and "The Song of the Flame" came along. The rest of it you know.

Mr. Rogers makes his bow to Palace audiences today.

The Sophocles T. Papas Banjo Band, composed of 25 men and women instrumentalists, will be the featured attraction at tomorrow's Sunday afternoon concert, from 2 to 3 o'clock, at the Earle Theater. Mr. Papas, who will conduct the organization which he founded, is an internationally recognized authority on fretted instruments, a well-known instructor and an artist of wide repute. John Howard Paine will be tomorrow's soloist; Grace Spangler, the accompanist.

The Loew people do not give their masters of ceremonies any too much respite between engagements. Yesterday afternoon, Al Evans, all hurried and bothered, dropped in for a good-bye, good-luck-and-all-that-sort-of thing call. Between jaunts to ticket offices, Pullman windows, transfer company counters, &c. All was on his way to New York last night after his last Palace appearance and opens there at the Paradise Theater tomorrow.

Apart from natural regret at leaving the many warm friends he has made since the beginning of his fourteen or fifteen weeks at the corner of Thirteenth and F, Mr. Evans is highly elated over the implied compliment conveyed by his new appointment. At the Paradise, he will succeed Walt Roener, ace m. c., of the Loew forces, who is being dispatched to the West Coast for an indefinite stay.

Those new chairs in the loge boxes at the Rialto are the most comfortable things into which I have ever totteringly eased this tired and aching frame. Deep, soft and perfectly proportioned, they offer an almost irresistible temptation to sit through the show twice!

The Motion Picture News flattered this department with an inferential puff in its issue of November 23, to the extent of one full page, with a picture and a partial reproduction of one of our Sabbath leads, and everything.—(Adv.)

Although she probably never would have been given an opportunity to do so on the stage, Jacqueline Logan, former "Follies" beauty, will converse with John Barrymore in his first all-talkie, "General Crack."

If "Jackie" sounds as swell as she looks, the General will probably prove to be one of the wise Cracks!

When I reply to Marco Wolfe's note that arrived by air mail Thanksgiving morning I think I shall request him to make up his mind what his various Fanchon and Marco stage units really are called. The current revue at the Fox came to me as "Novelty," but I see now that it is "Bizarre." So is the system!

It is my guess, after having viewed it yesterday afternoon, that "Her Private Affair," in which Ann Harding is currently occupying the Rialto screen suppored by Harry Bannister, her husband in private life, will be hailed as the most perfectly acted, staged lighted, photographed and recorded all-talking picture so far shown at the Ninth street house.

And now for the other side of that turkey.

ed out so well that it is understood that the President's chief concern at present is that a feeling of too much optimism may be engendered. He is represented as feeling that the press of the Nation has rendered valuable service in the recent crisis by avoiding an unduly pessimistic attitude, but that from now on the public interest could best be served by avoidance of overly sanguine speculations about the future and an adherence to reports of actual events as they happen.

There are some obstacles in the way of utilizing the unexpended balance of authorized appropriations, due to the fact that the two largest items in that balance are for the construction of Boulder Dam and for the naval construction program. The Boulder Dam project, for which $165,000,000 has been authorized, is still more or less unsettled, due to controversies between the Colorado Basin States, while the naval program, contemplating expenditures of $274,000,000 over a five-year period, is somewhat in abeyance pending the outcome of the London naval conference.

Aside from the cruiser construction program, however, Congress has authorized an appropriation, of $14,800,000, of which only $7,500,000 has been appropriated.

There is also the Army Housing program contemplating an expenditure of $23,449,452, of which only $1,103,000 has been appropriated.

In addition, there are two projects directly affecting Congress itself, the construction of an annex to the House Office Building and the enlargement of the Capitol grounds, for which only $2,100,000 has been appropriated out of a total of $13,312,414 authorized.

NEW WITNESS TELLS OF TORTURE SLAYING

Fear of Death Sealed Lips of Woodsman, Who Saw Burning of Youth.

THIRD TO RELATE STORY

Mountain View, Ark., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A long silence, enforced by death threats upon a woodsman who said he stood behind a tree and saw the mutilation and burning alive of Connie Franklin, young farm hand on his wedding night by a band of men ignoring his cries for mercy, was broken today, adding another link to testimony against five men accused of the crime.

Eugene Chauncisee, 53, induced to break his silence upon assurance of protection, will be one of the State's principal witnesses, Sheriff Sam Johnson announced. Reuben Harrell, of Atkins, a deaf mute boy, and Tiller Ruminer, 16-year-old sweetheart of the slain youth, were other eyewitnesses.

Chauncisee told Sheriff Johnson he was on his way home the night of the killing when he heard a scream and cries of pain. Seeing a group of men moving about in the woods nearby, he took a position behind a tree "and saw considerable," the mountaineer said.

Begged for Mercy.

"Franklin was begging for mercy," he was quoted as saying, "and he begged so hard.

"Please let me live ten minutes longer to go to Charlie Ruminer's house," he begged, the mountaineer said; but the men replied, 'We're going to kill you.'"

The sheriff quoted the woodsman as saying, "I then saw the big man raise a heavy club and bring it down on Franklin's head. He let out a cry, but it was awful weak, and fell to the ground."

Chauncisee said he was standing too far away to recognize the features of any of the men, but that there were nine. He recognized Franklin's voice, he said.

Threatened With Death.

Since that day, Chauncisee told the sheriff, he had been threatened with death by several men, if he told what he had seen.

The deaf mute, Harrell, has told of being in the vicinity the night of the murder and of seeing a group of men carrying a body to a log fire. Later at this spot Sheriff Johnson recovered charred human head bones which will be presented at the trial to establish corpus delicti. The sheriff was told other portions of the burned body were thrust into a bag and thrown into a creek. They have not been recovered.

Five are Held.

The five men held for the slaying, two of whom are also charged with an attack on the Ruminer girl, who was forced to witness the mutilation and burning of her sweetheart, are Alex Fulks, father of five children; Herman Greenway, Hubert Haster, Joe White and Bill C. Youtger. Four others are being sought.

Prosecutor Hugh Williamson will ask the death penalty in the trial next month in which the accused men will be represented by Ben B Williamson, the prosecutor's younger brother, as chief defense counsel.

Volcano at Mount Pelee Emits Cloud of Steam

Fort-de-France, Martinique, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Mont Pelee, redoubtable West Indian volcano, emitted several clouds of ash and steam yesterday afternoon, and the flash of fire was observed on the south side of the cone and the flank overlooking St. Pierre, during the night. The volcano has been intermittently active for many weeks.

A vast cloud of steam hung over the mountain. A veritable river of steam flowed silently down the dry bed to the River Blanche, which has been choked with ashes. The steam seemed to come from the south side of the cone, following gulleys to the bed of the river, down which it drifted toward the sea.

Jaspar Asked to Form New Belgian Cabinet

Brussels, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Former Premier Henri Jaspar today was intrusted by King Albert with the task of forming a new cabinet to replace his government, which resigned a few days ago because of controversy over the use of the Flemish and French languages at the University of Ghent.

No definite solution of the political crisis is expected before Monday or Tuesday since no representative Liberals will consent to accept office before the meeting on Sunday of the Liberal Congress. Jaspar is a member of the Catholic party which formed a coalition with the Liberals in the last government.

Wage Decrease Settles Australian Coal Strike

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A conference between mine owners and miners today settled the labor dispute in the New Castle coal fields, on the basis of a reduction of 12½ per cent in hewing rates and 12 cents a day in wages. The mines will probably reopen on December 12.

The settlement followed an announcement by the Government of New South Wales that if an agreement was not reached the Government would go ahead with State operation of the mines and have them working during the Christmas season.

Committee Withholds 1928-29 Peace Prizes

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The Nobel prize committee has decided not to award the 1928 and 1929 peace prizes. The 1928 prize money will be placed to the account of the committee's funds and the 1929 prize will be reserved for 1930.

Among the candidates whose names were reported to have come before the committee were Frank B. Kellogg, former American Secretary of State; Miss Elsa Brandstroem, Swedish Red Cross nurse; Archbishop Nathan Soederblom and Hansen Noeroemoelle, Danish legislator.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

THE smart young things today are appearing in quaint demure frocks of a new sophistication at all afternoon functions.

The one I've selected is altogether charming, identical to original Paris model interpreted in dark bottle green crepe de chine, so appropriate for Sunday school and Sunday tea.

The basque waist is fetching with its open V-neckline and cape collar trimmed with narrow ruffles, and jabot tie. The hips are slenderly fitted by rows of shirring which provide a smart fulness to skirt. The ruffled treatment of skirt emphasizes deep scallops, an important detail in mode.

No wonder for its popularity! It is so entirely flattering, and so distinctly individual.

It is easily made! Simply a two-piece bodice to be seamed at sides and shoulders. Two-piece skirt shirred at upper edge and stitched to bodice. The collar sewed at neckline and sleeves set into armholes. The edge of the ruffles are finished with picot for dainty effect.

Style No. 8219 is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. In the 16-year size, 4¾ yards of 39-inch material is sufficient to make it. At two dollars per yard, one is able to buy an excellent quality crepe, which makes the cost about nine dollars.

Royal blue sheer velvet is irresistibly lovely.

Girl Fliers Plan Third Try at Mark

Pair, Forced Down Again in Endurance Flight, to Hop Off Today.

Los Angeles, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Disappointed but not discouraged by failure of their second attempt to better the world's refueling endurance record of 420 hours 21 minutes 30 seconds, Bobbie Trout, Los Angeles, and Elinor Smith, New York, girl fliers, today announced plans for a third try tomorrow. Their biplane was forced down in the early morning hours when the gasoline supply gave out.

Failure to make contact with their nurse ship last night was responsible for the landing after the two women pilots had remained aloft 42 hours and 5 minutes. The time was a record for women endurance fliers, but was short of the men's mark set at St. Louis by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine. The flight eclipsed their own previous mark of 18 hours 26 minutes in the first attempt.

A frozen motor in the refueling plane forced it to land in a plowed field. It was considered too hazardous to attempt a refueling with an emergency plane.

Drug Fatal to Wife As Fall Kills Mate

New York Girl Succumbs to Sedative Overdose in Florence.

Florence, Italy, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Easton Marty, of New York, taking an overdose of a sedative in the shock which followed the sudden death of her young husband last night, died in Vespucci Hospital this afternoon shortly before her father-in-law arrived to comfort her.

She was only 22 years of age and her husband, Jemuel G. Marty, jr., a native of Kansas City, Mo., was only her elder by one year. They are survived by two young children, a girl 14 months old, and a boy of 2 years.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in St. James American Church and burial will be in the English cemetery.

Marty yesterday, just after the young couple had eaten their Thanksgiving dinner together, fell down a flight of stairs in a public ballroom and fractured his skull. He died a short time later and his wife collapsed. She was treated first at the hotel, but when her condition became serious was taken to the same hospital where he had died.

Education Editor Resigns Position

Selden Carlyle Adams to Devote Time to Writing and Lecturing.

Selden Carlyle Adams, editor of the Journal of the National Education Association for the last three years, resigned from that position yesterday to devote his time to lecturing and writing in the field of character and religious education.

Adams will spend the winter at Auburn, N. Y., where he will be engaged with Prof. Albert J. Anthony, associate dean of the Auburn School of Religious Education, in preparing a series of textbooks on citizenship for week-day schools of religion, now being organized throughout the country. He also will lecture in New York State.

Since coming to Washington Adams has been active in child welfare and church activities. He was one of the organizers of the Washington Institute of Mental Hygiene. He is a member of the National Press Club and of the Monday Evening Club, and will continue his residence in Washington.

Family of Five Found Asphyxiated in Room

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 29 (A.P.)—A family of five, including three small children, was found asphyxiated in a room on the second floor of their home at 219 Cohannet street late this afternoon. Medical examiner Dr. Charles A. Atwood said death was caused by accidental gas poisoning.

The dead are: Michael O'Neil, 40, his wife, Lena, 35, William, 5, Michael jr., 2, and Eleanor, 14 months old.

Meeting Is Called Over Print Prices

Session Will Talk Over Canadian Efforts to Boost Tariff.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Association today called an emergency convention of the association for December 9 in New York City. The session was called in view of the efforts of the Canadian officials to increase newsprint prices for next year.

The convention will be held at the Pennsylvania Hotel. Decision to hold the meeting was reached at a conference of the association's directors following reports from Canada that it was imminent that newsprint prices will be increased.

The call was issued by E. H. Butler, president, and George M. Rogers, secretary of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The announcement as sent to all members of the association read:

"In view of the imminent prospects of change in newsprint prices and the terms of contract for next year and future years, the board of directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Association hereby calls an emergency convention for 10 o'clock Monday morning, December 9, at the Pennsylvania Hotel. It is urged that you or a qualified representative from home office be present. Advise by wire American Newspaper Publishers Association your acceptance."

Army-Notre Dame Game In Afternoon

Navy - Dartmouth Football Contest Also Scheduled Over Radio Today. Classic Music Listed. Post Brevities at 8:15.

The Army-Notre Dame game, to be played in the Yankee Stadium in New York City, will be described for radio listeners by Graham McNamee, for the National Broadcasting Company, and Ted Husing, for the Columbia Broadcasting System, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The local outlets are WRC and WMAL.

When Dartmouth's Green Wave rolls against the Navy's midshipmen on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, this afternoon, Bill Munday will describe the battle in his own manner. The game will go on the air over WJZ and associated stations at 1:45 o'clock.

The joyous notes of Dvorak's "Carnival" overture and Massenet's "Neapolitan Scenes" will contrast with the pagan theme of the "Good Friday Spell" from Wagner's "Parsifal" when Walter Damrosch conducts the symphony orchestra in the General Electric Hour at 9 o'clock tonight from WEAF.

The entire second act of "Die Walkure" by Wagner, as presented by the Chicago Civic Opera Company, will be broadcast directly from the opera house stage by the WJZ network over the National Broadcasting Co. chain, including WLW, Cincinnati, and KDKA, Pittsburgh.

Floyd Gibbons, journalist-adventurer, will give an eight-minute talk on "Adventures in Science."

The thirteenth program in the series of famous challenges broadcast at 8 o'clock each Saturday evening is devoted to an episode in the life of Lysses S Grant.

The last two hours on WRC's program is devoted to dance music, played by the Lucky Strike and Club Chanteclier orchestras.

A wide variety of classical selections contributes an international atmosphere to the program of dinner music which the Black and Gold Room Orchestra will broadcast from 5:15 to 7 o'clock. Selections by Rodgers from the musical comedy success, "The Connecticut Yankee," include this program in memory of the anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain, American humorist and author, whose novel served as the basis of the show. Samuel Clemens, Twain's real name, was born in Florida, Mo., November 30, 1835.

Other selections include "The Angelus," from "Scenes Picturesque" (Massenet); "On Wings of Song" (Mendelssohn), "Iseline Suite" (Mesager), "Polonaise" (Chopin), "Voix Dans Bris" (Margis-Berger), "Contra Dance in C" (Beethoven), selections from "Song of the Flame" (Gerschwin), "In the Village" (Tschaikowsky), and the Pilgrim's chorus from "Tannhauser" (Wagner).

The overture of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will be played by the symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. Henry Hadley during the Gulbransen Hour at 9:30 o'clock tonight from WMAL. Other selections include the march from "Aida," by Verdi; a symphonic paraphrase on "Can't We Be Friends?" and Zamfinger's "Molly On the Shore."

The regular Paramount-Publix period will be offered between 10 and 11 o'clock tonight from WMAL, followed by a local dance program.

"Planning Washington's First Cherry Blossom Festival" will be the subject of Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan when he steps before WMAL'S microphone at 6:45 o'clock tonight. He is chairman of the cherry blossom festival committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post will be heard through Station WOI at 8:15 o'clock this morning, preceded by the Musical Clock.

The marketing talk by Miss Peggy Clarke will be broadcast at 9:30 o'clock, followed by a Red Cross talk, a character analyst, and the "Half Hour With Famous Composers."

The Silver String Revelers will be presented in a half hour program at 8:30 o'clock.

Bach, the master of counterpoint; Handel, the creator of modern oratorio; Gluck, who wrote the first truly dramatic operas, and Mozart, who excelled in every branch of music, contribute to the program of eighteenth century selections which Ludwig Laurier and a string ensemble will broadcast at 11 o'clock from Stations WJZ and WLW.

Catholics in District Plan Mission-Retreat

A mission retreat and novena commemorating the diamond jubilee of the feast of the Immaculate Conception will take place at the oldest Catholic Church in the District, the Holy Trinity Church, at Thirty-sixth and O streets northwest, starting tonight at 7:30 and continuing with daily services at 7:30 p. m. to Saturday, December 8.

The Rev. Eugene T. Kenedy, S. J., who recently conducted the retreat of upper classmen of Georgetown College, will conduct the services and preach.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A GREAT improvement has been noted in atmospheric conditions during the past week. Wednesday night was especially good and Thursday even better, one of the finest of the season. This clearing up, when stations may be heard over unusual distances, has again served to emphasize the fact that there are entirely too many stations on the air and the need for more vigilant policing in keeping them on their frequencies.

Interference was noticed during the week on many portions of the dial. A station could be distinctly heard in the background while Station WMAL was broadcasting the program of Edgar Guest Sunday night. Station WJR, Detroit, came in on top of WJZ, New York, at 10 o'clock Monday night. When this occurred the voices of the two announcers could be heard at about equal strength.

There was a whistle on both WLS, Chicago, and WABC, New York, between 7 and 8 o'clock Tuesday night and the stations were interfering with each other. Station WABC was broad and frequently drowned out Station KWKH, at Shreveport, which was coming into the Capital unusually strong. For 30 kilocycles below KWKH it was impossible to separate the stations, there being a blubbering and "glub-glub" effect.

A BAD spot on the dial was around WGBS, New York, caused by a mixture of station interference and code, sounding one minute as if the birdies were singing and another like a lot of frogs in a pond on a summer night.

There was a heterodyne on Station WJSV at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night, the worst of any yet noticed on a local station, evidently caused by either WJSV or WKBW, Buffalo, being off its frequency. At 7:30 o'clock the same evening WOR, at Newark, and WGN, at Chicago, both supposed to be on cleared channels, were interfering with each other, the former frequently crowding the latter out entirely.

Station WCAO, at Baltimore, was whistling to beat the band and Station WMAL, broad as usual, was covering the dial from 610 kilocycles (the location of WIP, Philadelphia) to 660 kilocycles (WEAF, New York).

WHEN Secretary of Labor Davis spoke over WMAL Thursday night a musical obligato was furnished by no less a person than John McCormack, whose voice, from WIP, Philadelphia, on the NBC chain, could be heard in the background.

As if to return the compliment, the address of Secretary Davis could be heard faintly from some distant station as a background for John McCormack, while the latter's program was being broadcast from WRC. During McCormack's performance there was the usual heterodyne which is noticeable from time to time on WRC.

FOR his radio appearance at 8 o'clock tomorrow night on the WJZ network, Sir Harry Lauder is supposed to receive $10,000. What his second appearance the same evening, at about 8:20 o'clock, over the same network, will yield is not known, but it was reported that for his radio performance several months ago he received $15,000, or $5,000 a song.

"We notice with dismay," writes a call book publisher, "that the list of broadcasting stations issued by the Federal Radio Commission is neither accurate enough or up-to-date enough for our use in putting out a new call book."

IF there is anything the radio audience hungers for, it is novelty and humor. Both were unexpectedly found in the international broadcast Thursday afternoon from WMAL via phonograph records. There might have been a very prosaic presentation of this music of ten nations by their military bands and characteristic musical organizations, but with Deems Taylor on the job, the newest "find" in musical radio announcers, there was about a laugh a minute.

Taylor's announcing of the Swiss music, for instance, was as funny as any chapter in Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad." He explained that this was probably the only orchestra in the world led by a bass drummer and where, because he sat in the back part of the band, it was always necessary for the musicians to look behind them to see what the leader was doing.

He said, further, that it was necessary to make two recordings of a piece they played before it was discovered that a certain "blue note" was injected by the performers into their music on purpose. Taylor inferred that because this orchestra always played on top of a mountain it was because that was where the people not being particularly enthusiastic about the music wanted them to be.

Commenting upon the songs of the women who sell lavender flowers in the streets of Vienna, Taylor said their recording had cost the Americans $9.

"They had to pay the women the equivalent to $4.50 apiece," he explained. "That seems like a lot of money, but the women demanded this because of the time it took for them to go home and get all dressed up before they could appear before the recording apparatus."

COMPLAINT has come to The Post from a reader because both WRC and WMAL broadcast the same football game Thanksgiving afternoon. The same will be true this afternoon.

"Is it rivalry between the NBC and Columbia or between announcers?" he inquires. "Why not give the public a choice between two games?

"There was some advantage Thanksgiving afternoon, however, because the Columbia announcer hadn't learned the McNamee trick of bringing in the score every few minutes for the benefit of the late comers. The Columbia man, in his excitement of following the individual plays, apparently forgot the fact that the greater audience wasn't at the field. I listened to him quite a while to learn whether Cornell or Pennsylvania was ahead and finally had to tune in on McNamee to get the score. I also had trouble last Saturday when WGY was broadcasting the California-Stanford game because they didn't announce the score more often.

"The secret of McNamee's genius in announcing a football game is that he is always able to give you an up-to-the-minute picture, both cumulative and current."

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:40 p. m.

A feverish time is anticipated for this day. All things requiring energy will be benefited by the stimulating forces and the fruits of labor will be abundant. Guard against chills and cold as health conditions are not favorably predicted.

Children born on this November 30 will be rather indolent and ambitionless, but they can be stimulated into activity through their pride. They will like the good things of life, will demand comfort and attention. They will have cheerful natures and will seldom worry.

Unlike November 29 people, you crave the company of your fellow creatures and you fill your life with friends and associates. You are yourself very affable, and you readily extend the glad hand to all those to whom you are attracted. Although you are constantly forming new ones, you are never disloyal to your old friends and acquaintances. Solitude bores and distracts you and you fight against being alone.

You are a born traveler, and circumstances permitting, you will see a great deal of the world. You will never feel tied to places or things, and you easily adapt yourself to new surroundings and conditions. You have an inquisitive nature and a natural thirst for knowledge, and you are not afraid to go out in the highways and byways to get it. You were born with courage and you go after the things which you want with a determination which spells success. As the gods sell anything to everybody at a fair price, there is no reason why you, with your capabilities and grit, can not reach the goals of your heart's desire.

You must take more rest and relaxation than you do in order to save yourself from a nervous breakdown. You are traveling at too high rate of speed to keep up the pace for a long life. Learn the lessons of moderation.

Successful people born on November 30:

Cyrus W. Field, merchant.
Samuel L. Clemens, humorist.
Jefferson De Angelis, actor.
Winston Churchill, English statesman.
William L. La Follette, U. S. senator.

C. U. Professor Plans Woman Sermon Series

The Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., of the Catholic University faculty, will preach a series of sermons to women at St. Dominick's Church, Sixth and F streets southwest, during the coming week.

He will outline the nature of the sermons at all the masses at St. Dominic's tomorrow morning. He will preach the opening sermon of the series at the 7:30 o'clock service tomorrow night. The series will be composed of eight sermons, on consecutive evenings. They will deal with popular subjects of interest to women.

Softly Flowing—
This Afternoon Frock
For Madame
$49.50

Of gossamer Horse Show blue chiffon, this adaptable frock is of the type usually known as Sunday Supper Frocks. But it would be a pity to tuck it away for the exclusive use of one day! Its floating drapery . . . flattering, flesh-colored yoke, powdered with rhinestones . . . its rippling, open sleeves at once proclaim it a thing of grace and charm for any formal afternoon or informal evening function.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, Nov. 29.

IF YOU send a Christmas card at all, let it be an expressive one. Let it be an indication of your good taste, of your individuality—let it be your Christmas card that you send to some one you care for sufficiently to greet.

Not to receive a Christmas card from some one you care for is bad enough, but to receive a dull, uninteresting, hurriedly selected and dutysend one is painful.

The same thing applies to a gift, of course. A hurriedly selected, last minute, duty-done affair is much worse than no gift at all. If for any reason things do sneak up on you in such a way that you are suddenly faced with the necessity of either doing things this way or not at all, sit down and write a letter in which you outline the type of gift you intend to make that person at a later date, and explain that due to this or that circumstance you would rather promise a gift at a more leisurely time than buy something hurriedly.

* * * *

But dear, dear, back to our Christmas card! A tastefully selected card to the few friends you wish to remember, none to the others, is the better way. And, if you will just go down and order your cards today you will have the satisfaction of knowing that that much is off your mind.

* * * *

There is an art in tastefully wrapping gifts, and the way a gift is wrapped is not the least part of its appeal. Heaven forbid that I am suggesting, except, of course, for children, that you tie everything up with tinsel and stickers and whatnots. But there are other very tasteful ways to do things!

* * * *

And to help you to know what these ways are, we are offering you again this year a leaflet full of unusual ideas for novel ways to wrap and seal Christmas gifts. In this same leaflet are some ideas for Christmas cards that you can make yourself—a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring this leaflet to you next week.

* * * *

And don't think that the leaflet of twenty Dahray designs we offer this week doesn't have some designs in it that you can use on Christmas cards as well as anything else! There are some leaflets left, so if you send another stamped, self-addressed envelope this minute you will get one.

* * * *

Christmas Gift Suggestions.

Don't think for a moment that a subscription to a magazine is an unimaginative sort of gift, especially for friends who are living in Europe (it always did break my heart to have to pay 25 cents for one of our 5-cent weeklies in Paris!).

In fact, a subscription to a magazine that you know a person enjoys reading, but doesn't quite get around to buying, or sending a subscription for, is a very welcome gift indeed. If one subscription limits your gift too much, make it several.

Tomorrow you should look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Washington Post, and we know you'll enjoy it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHAT SALIVA IS.

D. G. writes: Please write on saliva, its chemical composition, its physiologic functions, its reactions on bacteria, what percentage of the food is converted by the saliva.

REPLY.

The saliva as a direct agent of digestion is of very small importance. As an indirect aid it is important enough to be reckoned with. Chemically it is almost a pure water. In this water there is some salt and some ptyalin (a ferment with some power to change starch a little), some acid and alkali, and that is about all. It contains many bacteria of any kind that happens to be available. As saliva it has no power to destroy any bacteria and, in fact, the organisms of some diseases, such as hydrophobia and diphtheria, seem to thrive in it. However, the membranes over which the saliva runs seems to have a considerable power of destroying some kinds of bacteria, though no one knows just how this is done. All in all, the saliva ranks with the sputum and the nose secretions as an agent for spreading certain bacterially caused diseases.

Whether the reaction of saliva as to its degree of acidity of alkalinity is of any importance is a question as to which there is disagreement. Perhaps this results from testing saliva with litmus paper, which test misleads frequently. For testing the acidity of saliva another method should be used. When starchy foods are well chewed the saliva ferment begins acting while the food is in the mouth. It continues during the process of chewing and swallowing. Soon after the starch reaches the normal stomach starch digestion stops, to be resumed in the small intestine, partly by the saliva, but principally by other ferments found there. This statement carries the thought that saliva is of no importance as an agent in digestion, a conclusion which is not wholly justified. The great function of saliva is to assist in the reaking up of food, in putting it in solution, in developing its tastes and in getting it swallowed. And these are important parts of the digestion arch.

In the snake, getting the food swallowed ranks at the head of the digestive processes and, therefore, establishes salivation on an important plane in that reptile. The cow, having swallowed her food, lies down quietly and returns her cud to her mouth for additional chewing and mixing with saliva. In man, salivation is highly important because of the aid it renders his stomach and esophagus. Man has no gizzard such as the chicken, and his stomach needs the help his jaws and salivary glands furnish. His esophagus has but little muscle and this organ needs the help of the saliva. These functions far outweigh in importance the direct digestive functions of saliva. The secretion of saliva is under the direction of nervous centers. When we see or smell appealing food a nerve impulse causes an outpouring of saliva to help develop its flavor and to promote its mastication and this same nerve control causes the mouth to go dry because of fright or to drool under other circumstances.

SKIN MAY BE SENSITIVE.

A. F. S. writes: I take cold baths the year round with apparently beneficial effects. However, when I wash my head weekly in cold water the result is a cold in the head and some sneezing. Would this practice eventually lead to hay fever?

REPLY.

Some people are senaitized to cold. You and your friend may be on this list. It is possible for the skin of the head and neck to be unduly sanditive. If washing your face in cold water gives you trouble, give up the luxury.

WORK ON BRIDGE

Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet by Milton C. Work, the world's pre-eminent authority on Contract Bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp) self-addressed return envelope.

Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Everyday exclusively in The Washington Post.

IPROMISED yesterday to report upon the public acceptance of certain conventions in Contract Bridge declarations, basing what I have to say upon recent observations in a wide section of the country and upon extensive correspondence from all parts of it.

1. Informatory doubles. As I said yesterday, their use is practically universal and there is no opposition to discuss.

2. Overbidding in the adverse suit to show chicane or a singleton Ace therein. This bid is used so infrequently, even by those who like it, that objections are neither numerous nor strenuous. Objection, if any, usually is based on ethical grounds.

3. Ace-showing slam bids (to show the Ace or King-Queen of a suit, but not length). On this subject the court of public opinion is divided. Some approve heartily on both ethical and practical grounds; others avoid the ethics issued but think that if persisted in, this type of bid will spoil the game; and others object to it on purely ethical grounds—but not loudly, because they believe that those who use it will soon abandon it as a losing practice.

4. The Vanderbilt "Club convention"—and similar systems. The objections raised here were explained fully last week. Contract players who are familiar with the "Vanderbilt Club" and disapprove of it, feel that to encourage that sort of bidding would tend to overconventionalize the game and put a premium upon signal-memorizing rather than sound reasoning and judgment.

5. The system of showing two-suiters by the original bid of two of a minor. This system is a creation of mine and I believe it to be a winning one when properly used; but, from the ethical standpoint, it is open to any objection that could be urged against the Vanderbilt convention or any other artificial bid. If any bid deserves to be banned because it is artificial this one unquestionably does; but there are some who have used it successfully and, having no objection to artificial bids as such, are loath to abandon it.

6. Forcing bids or demand bids. I should say that the large majority of the Contract players of the country feel that bids which force a take-out by partner should not be used; although they do not object to the "demand" bid on ethical grounds as strenuously as they do to the Vanderbilt and two-minor systems. There are many, but nevertheless a minority, who consider forcing bids ethical and useful. I am inclined to believe that in most instances the wish is rather to the thought, and that those who like to use certain artificial bids approve them, while those who do not favor them are apt to brand them as unethical.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Some More Girls."

"SID" presents a young lady for analysis today. Sid has given up trying to understand her, which is by long odds the smartest thing Sid ever did. The man who tries to understand a woman would tackle the explanation of the Einstein theory with a cigar in his mouth. Read on.

"Here's a type for you. I can't make her out and don't intend to try any more. I've been going with her more or less exclusively for five years. But all I can get out of her when I ask her if she ever intends to marry me is, 'I shouldn't be in the least surprised.' Now that's a nice, glowing prospect, isn't it? And once she was very keen about marrying me. That's what I can't understand. The first year we went together she loved me. And told me so. But at that time there was a second girl that interested me. I would not give her up, although I could date her very seldom. I know this hurt the girl I love very much, although she never in so many words said so. Instead she began going around with everybody. Then the other girl moved away and got married. Her marriage meant nothing to me, but evidently the girl I love figures she is a second fiddle, and refused to show me any affection—if she feels any, which I doubt. Now, this makes the third time I have found myself pawing the air and sitting up on hind legs begging some woman for love. Will you kindly analyze this girl, and tell me whether she is trying to get even, or has really lost all love for me, or whether she will really marry me at all?

SID."

Well, fortune telling is out of our line a little—though not much—so we can't predict with any sort of authoritativeness whether this wedding will or will not materialize. But we can say that if it does it will in no wise differ from many, many others. For, where this girl pointedly emphasizes her indifference, many feel, but disguise their lack of enthusiasm. The truth is that because a woman loves a man today is no guarantee she will love him next year after he has demonstrated his selfishness, egotism, shallowness or dishonesty. Some women can love anything that is masculine and available. Character means nothing. And some women "love" a man, and just hang on for no more reason than they had to love him in the first place. These are the elemental types. They serve Nature's purposes, and we have no quarrel with them, or their pursuits.

But other women there are, who are not of this fold, and they are the mental types. They look out upon the love of their life and regard him disinterestedly as he slips a card up his sleeve, or in some way betrays his true self. A woman of this type beholding her "love" revealed in all his glory, smiles a grim smile and says, "So that's how it is." And depending upon her opportunities either picks her a new love or allows the old to fetch and carry, but remain in the dog house. Now these women are downright inconvenient for man's purposes. If he wants to divide his love between two women—or even be regal and dispense it to all—it certainly is disconcerting to have some one woman resent his ethics and refuse to give her all for the ¼ of 1 per cent of his all that he had figured as a fair exchange. And to be relegated to the fetch and carry class is the last out of all.

Sid, our heart, or what's left of it, goes out to you, that your cake disappeared when you ate it. But we will offer this crumb by way of comfort. We imagine that if the girl you love were ever fully convinced of your sincerity, she would probably care for you again. But having committed herself once, and was declined with thanks in favor of some one else, she is naturally reticent now on the subject of her feelings. But we feel like she does and "shouldn't be a bit surprised" if she married you. She's a mental type.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 30.

JACQUELINE LOGAN, the film star, was born this day, 1902, in Antonio, Tex. Later she moved to Denver, Colo., where she attended grammar school. She finished her education at Colorado College.

Miss Logan's first ambition was to be a newspaper woman and a short story writer. But an exceptional ability in dancing gave her an opportunity to star in the Ziegfeld Follies and her literary ambitions were frustrated. From the Ziegfeld Follies she was graduated to the screen. She owes her first screen appearance to the noted producer, Marshall Neilan.

LOUISE DREW TALENTED YOUNG DAUGHTER OF JOHN DREW, APPEARING WITH ROBERT EDESON, IN "STRONGHEART."

THE OLD AUTOGRAPH ALBUM

Remember me when at the tub.
Think of me with every rub;
And if the water is too hot
Lather away, but forget-me-not.

GRACE A. BARROWS.
EAST ORANGE, N.J.

NOVEMBER 30, 1904.

Four thousand men fell in one hour in a fierce assault on Port Arthur. Japanese were reported gaining ground.

Inmate of Minnesota Insane Asylum won an essay contest conducted by a newspaper. Directors of the asylum refused to release her to enable her to make a trip to Europe, which was the prize.

William Loeb, Secretary to President Roosevelt denied criticism of Boston newspaper which said that a turkey presented to the President had been mistreated by the President's children.

Seven-year-old Washington boy set fire to two buildings "just to see the engines run."

First Baptist Church of Alexandria escaped destruction by fire when the blaze, of unknown origin, was discovered by a fireman.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

HOW often do you go to a dentist? Dentists say that people ought to come to see them once every six months, whether the teeth are hurting or not. That is no doubt a good idea, for little places of decay may be filled before they grow big, and pain and trouble may be saved "in the long run." We may also hear the good news that nothing is wrong with our teeth.

Yet dentists, like doctors, are people who fix things up after they go wrong. We need dentists, of course; but the very best thing is to avoid decay if we possibly can.

There are people who brush their teeth two or three times each day; but still they find that there is decay. You may fancy such a person throwing up his hands in despair and saying, "No matter how well I brush 'em, they still go wrong!"

Tooth troubles, is that modern people eat too much soft food. But recent tests by two English scientists have proved that soft food has little, if anything, to do with tooth decay.

Then what is the cause? you may ask. The same scientists believe that they have found it to be chiefly due to three things—not enough calcium in the food, not enough vitamins in the food, and not enough sunlight.

Calcium may be obtained by drinking plenty of milk. Babies and young children should have plenty of milk, and so should older folks.

Vitamins may be obtained from fruits and fresh vegetables.

Sunlight may be obtained free of charge; but it is hard to get in large cities. When it reaches us through window panes, it is not of so much value as when it comes to us while we are out of doors.

Ice Plants Effect $23,000,000 Union

Central Control of Southern Firms Is to Be in Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—With the announcement here today of the acquisition of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Co., of Atlanta, Ga., a merger of ice plants in seven Southern States with resources totaling $23,000,000, headed by Fred W. Beazley, of Norfolk and Portsmouth, became known.

The companies involved in the merger were given as the Southeastern Utilities Corporation, operating plants in Virginia, North and South Carolina; Southern Virginia Ice Utilities Co., controlling plants in Richmond, Norfolk, Petersburg and Newport News; Atlantic Ice & Coal Co., controlling plants in Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee.

It was learned that Beazley will be president of each of the three companies, which will continue to be operated as separate entities, and the headquarters of the centralized control will be in Norfolk.

Ten Dentists' Offices Lose $2,000 by Thefts

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 29.—Police of this city and Fairmont today received particulars of the looting of ten dental offices in both cities of scrap plate and leaf gold aggregating probably $2,000 in value.

A well-dressed man, posing as a traveling salesman for a Chicago concern, is said to have gotten much of it by selling the dentists' lamps, taking the gold in payment. In other instances the dental offices were forcibly entered.

NOTRE DAME STILL WARY OF CAGLE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Notre Dame and the Army will play their sixteenth football game at the Yankee Stadium Saturday afternoon in bitter weather, but with 82,500 people, including the entire cadet corps of the United States Military Academy, filling the triple-deck grand stands and the bleachers. Tickets were scalped on Broadway at $50 a seat no closer to midfield than the 10-yard line. Whether or not there were any sales at this price, this was the asking price, nevertheless, and a fair indication of the crazy enthusiasm with which New York has accepted the roving football squad from South Bend, Ind., as substitutes for the Midshipman Team of the Naval Academy, who used to occupy this date on the Army's schedule.

The Notre Dame Team detrained at Harmon, the upriver division point of the New York Central, about 40 miles from the city, this morning and rolled over the bleak hills of Westchester to the Biltmore Country Club, where they held dummy scrimmage in an Arctic wind, almost a gale, for an hour late in the afternoon.

Imaginary Cagles Are Stopped.

Tom Lieb first assistant to Knute Rockne, directed the work, while Jack Chevigny, who played back field until last year, moved about the barren fairway of the golf course where the workout took place, assisting the first assistant. They had little to do, however for the work was mainly defensive, apparently intended to emphasize the need of a close watch over Chris K. Cagle, the Army's captain, running back and passer.

As the ball was snapped to the back-field men of the second team, the Notre Dame regulars yelled "Cagle! Cagle!" and knifed through to stifle the throw or covered the receivers. They were canny and deft, and even in this mock scrimmage they showed a higher degree of know-how and skill than any other team that has scarred the turf on the Eastern seaboard this fall.

May Throw Passes for Great Mileage.

Cagle and Johnny Murrell, the four-year men of the Army's backfield, will be facing Notre Dame for the last tim in tomorrow's game and if either of them has saved any zeal, it will all be exploded then, although I never heard of a football player who saved any zeal. Neither of these two noted athletes has enjoyed prosperity this fall and Cagle, for the honor of his own captaincy, seems likely to disport himself with great vigor this time.

Notre Dame's line may be expected to out-play the Army's line and Notre Dame's running game is the model of which the Army's running game this year has been only a struggling counterfeit. But Mr. Cagle, hobbled and hemmed in all season, still knows how to run in widening circles, clutching the football in his strong, chapped talons, and I expect that he will toss that football for a gross aggregate mileage of something astonishing Saturday afternoon, pitching for touchdowns and praying for one great victory to adorn his record as captain of the team. The Army has played three major games thus far this fall and the best the imminent officers have been able to do was tie Harvard.

Army Has Advantage—Psychologically.

Yale beat them and so did Illinois and now in the last game for a generally undistinguished season, they come upon the team which is liberally recognized as the best in the country with only a psychological advantage, and that advantage subject to dispute. The Army will play with the reckless daring of a man who is tossing his last $50 into the market after losing a fortune. It won't hurt the Cadets to lose this game, but if they win it, they will take character as a lost battalion of football.

But the Notre Dame boys are thinking of Knute Rockne, a tough, nervous, worried, high-strung, half-bald he-party with a crumpled nose, who bullyrags them and croons over them in season and out at South Bend and Knute is sick back home. Red Grange tells me a good football team always plays for the coach and this Notre Dame team will take the field in the biting cold at the Yankee Stadium, well reminded that Knute is bolstered up in bed with both of his wide flat ears twitching to enfold the minutest syllable.

There is this hope for the Army: That while Notre Dame is swarming through to enfold Cagle and run him down and splatter him on the concrete award of the frozen stadium for

Griffith Wins Verdict Over Paulino

Iowan Does Cleaner Punching, Scoring With Both Hands.

Basque's Rushes in Attempt to Score K. O. Futile.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Jerry "Tuffy" Griffith defeated Paulino Uzcudun in a savage ten-round bout at the Chicago Stadium tonight, getting the decision of the referee and two judges.

Griffith bounced rights and lefts off Paulino's iron jaw apparently without even fazing him during the fourth and fifth rounds. Paulino continued his mauling crowding fight, always charging in with the sharp-shooting Griffith driving left hooks to the chin and Paulino walking in willing to take smashes to the head to connect with his savage lefts to the body. In the sixth round Griffith drove three left hooks to the jaw and crossed his right twice solidly with Paulino shaking his head and walking in for more.

Uzcudun found the corn-fed Iowa youth tougher than he anticipated, and charged in ruthlessly in the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds. Griffith was punching cleaner, however, and scored smartly with both hands to head and body, with Paulino doing considerable missing with his right-hand shots to head and left hook to jaw. Griffith showed that he had ability to take Paulino' wallops and was boxing cleverly.

Paulino hooked a left to the jaw in the ninth that sent Griffith to the ropes and missed two rights to the chin. Paulino nailed Griffith with another long left, however, and then missed a half dozen rights and lefts in an attempt to connect with a finishing punch.

Al Singer Stops Nebo In 4th Round at N. Y.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The pride of the Bronx, sleek, black-haired Al Singer, clinched his right to a place in the front rank of the lightweight warriors tonight with an impressive technical knockout over Pete Nebo, rugged Seminole Indian from Key West, Fla., in the fourth round of the ten-round feature engagement.

Never before knocked out in years of rugged milling, Nebo, a courageous, charging warrior from the Everglades, was a little more than a sparring partner in the hands of the popular Jewish boy.

Two thudding left hooks scrambled Nebo's muddled senses completely and he stumbled backward into a neutral corner while Singer followed him, pouring leather into the Indian's features. Helpless, his arms falling to his sides, eyes closed, Nebo was so wedged in the corner that he seemed unable to fall. Referee Danny Ridge stepped in and stopped the punching exhibition after 2 minutes and 22 seconds of the fourth. There were knockdowns in the earlier rounds, although Nebo was staggered often by Singer's husky clouting.

The bout drew more than 15,000 fight fans.

Presidency of Coliseum Offered Gene Tunney

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, has been offered the presidency of the New York Coliseum, it was announced by Coliseum officials today. The offer was made in a radiogram to the steamship Vulvania, on which Tunney is returning to the United States.

Jess McMahon, who was voted out of the presidency at a meeting of the board of directors, is to be retained as matchmaker, it was announced.

MULDOON IS PAID HIGH TRIBUTE

Dempsey Among Elite at Banquet to Sports Chief at 85.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Celebrities from all walks of life paid tribute tonight to William Muldoon, aged solid man of sport, at a testimonial banquet in honor of his eighty-fifth birthday. There were 850 guests who paid $85 apiece to gather and sing the praises of the veteran member of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Speeches, likewise, were limited to 85 words each. In a somewhat longer speech of gratitude, Mr. Muldoon thanked the celebrants for their thoughtfulness not only to himself but also to the charities which benefited from the banquet subscriptions. Among the guests, who included prominent bankers, sportsmen, famous industrial leaders, was Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, while Gene Tunney, who succeeded the Old Manassa Mauler to the throne, wired-released felicitations from the liner carrying him back to the United States from a long stay in Italy.

Career Studded With Varied Feats.

Although Mr. Muldoon, in perfect health despite his 85 years, has gained his chief fame through his activities at the head of the New York Boxing Commission, his career has been one of the most varied and colorful in sports history. He served on the New York police force, fought in the Civil War, is credited with inventing the shower bath, and later became the Greco-Roman wrestling champion of the world.

In the bare-knockled days of boxing he became the sponsor of John L. Sullivan and ruled the training of the old heavyweight king with an iron hand in the final stages of the "Boston Strong Boy's" career. He appeared on the stage with Maurice Barrymore, Modjeska and Mantell and founded the New York Police Athletic Association.

Before the guests quit the banquet to attend the bouts at Madison Square Garden, a huge birthday cake bearing 85 candles and so large that four men staggered under the load was presented Mr. Muldoon.

Ray Schalk May Sign As Coach of Cubs

Chicago, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Ray Schalk, former manager of the White Sox, may replace Grover Land as a Cub coach for the 1930 campaign.

Schalk, who recently obtained his release from the New York Giants, has conferred with Cub officials and announcement of his new position was expected soon.

Northwestern, Purdue Place Three Players On All-Big Ten Team

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Russell Bergherm, Northwestern's workhorse backfield star, is placed at full back on the 1929 All-Western Conference Football Team, picked for the Associated Press by nine of the Big Ten coaches; and to place him there the coaches elected to switch Bronko Nagurski, one of Minnesota's greatest stars, from full bak to tackle.

Erickson, Northwestern, center.
Anderson, Northwestern, right guard.
Sleight, Purdue, right tackle.
Harmeson, Purdue, quarter back.
Welch, Purdue, right half back.
Bergherm, Northwestern, full back.

Second team—Ends, Baker (Northwestern) and Wolgast (Illinois); tackles, Gordon (Illinois) and Westra (Iowa); guards, Poe (Michigan) and Parks (Wisconsin); center, Karval (Chicago); quarter back, Holman (Ohio State); half backs, Pharmer (Minnesota) and Hal Rebholz (Wisconsin); full back, Gembis (Michigan).

Amos Alonzo Stagg, 67-year old coach of the University of Chicago Eleven, adhered to his policy of not naming players for "all" teams, saying that he felt qualified only to select a team from the squad with which he worked each day during the season.

Basket Ball Committee Of A. A. U. to Meet

Chairman F. V. Thomson has called a meeting of the basket ball committee of the District A. A. U. Chapter to be held at the Boys' Club, Third and C streets northwest, on Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. Plans for the nual District A. A. U. championship at 7:30 o'clock. Plans for the antournament which The Washington Post originated and has sponsored successfully for the past three years, to be held in February, will be discussed at this time. Members of the committee are F. V. Thomson, Boys' Club; Ernest L. Millar, Potomac Boat Club; Prof C. Edward Beckett, Y. M. C. A.; Winfree Johnson, Welfare and Recreational Association, and Walter Haight, municipal playground department.

DARTMOUTH CHOICE OVER MIDDIES

Spring Will Start at Quarter; Marsters to Be Missed.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Philadelphia will be the scene of another outstanding football battle tomorrow when Dartmouth and Navy match power and skill on Franklin Field. Dartmouth fills the place on the Navy schedule formerly occupied by the Army.

With the services of Special Delivery Al Marsters lost to them because of injuries, Dartmouth did not loom as a strong favorite tonight to take the measure of the Midshipmen. Marsters is here with the big Green squad from the New Hampshire Hills, and, his back encased in a special brace, will watch the game from the sidelines.

The Dartmouth Eleven, which has been here for two days, worked out for a short time today. Conceding that Dartmouth has a fine line and some hard-running backs, the critics contend that Marsters will be missed in tomorrow's game and Navy will probably be at the top of its game for this contest.

Spring to Start At Quarter.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 29.—"Dartmouth is one of the best teams in the East; there is no doubt of that. But we can beat them if our boys get going and play the game of which they are capable."

This was the way William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, Navy's head football coach, today summed up the prospects of the battle to be waged on Franklin Field tomorrow, as the Middies finished their final preparations on Farragut Field. The work was light, consisting of kicking, handling punts, passing and a brief skeleton scrimmage against the Scrubs using Dartmouth formations.

That Art Spring will start at quarter back in place of Johnny Gannon, was the eleventh hour change in the line-up, compared to the combination that has been working together all week. Spring is the speed king of the backs and has borne the brunt of the attack in most games. The squad leaves at 9 in the morning, going direct to the playing field, but will stay overnight at the Bellevue-Stratford. The regiment of nearly 2,000 students will follow the players in two "specials," and also will remain overnight.

New Scoring Plan With Points Given for First Downs Approved

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—An experiment in a new method of scoring in football, suggested by Glenn Warner, of Stanford University, was conducted today in the Lewishon Stadium and proved little or nothing beyond the fact that Long Island University was just about as much better than Brooklyn City College as the score of 22 to 11 proclaimed.

Under the new system of scoring one point is allowed for each earned first down in addition to the present values for touchdowns, field goals and safeties, with the exception that the try for goal after touchdown is estimated. Another important and radical innovation provides that when the second half begins the ball is put in play at the spot where the first half ended—the down and the distance to be gained remaining the same. This does away with the orthodox kick-off to open the second half and makes it one continuous game of one hour playing time instead of what amounts to two games of a half hour each.

This particular feature was more or less generally approved by a number of coaches and officials sitting, or better, standing as a jury of the whole, stamping their feet and beating their hands to keep the blood from freezing solid. Dr. H. J. Parker, coach of City College and a former Penn Star; Dow Roof, coach of the Vikings; Wally Garling, well known as an official among the schoolboy elevens of this district; Pat Page, the former Chicago end and now coach at Indiana, were among those who braved the cold to improve their football background and the two first named, while unwilling to pass judgment on the merit of scoring one point for first downs, did speak favorably of continuing the game in the second half where it left off in the first.

G. U. Seeking Revenge at Detroit

Special to The Washington Post.

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Georgetown arrives at the end of its football season here tomorrow in a game with Detroit University, one of the outstanding contests of the day's national program.

Head Coach Lou Little has whipped his men into fine condition for this fray and is firm in the belief Georgetown can win if it plays the brand of football of which it is capable. Detroit also is primed, having shaken off the bad case of overconfidence which marked its efforts last Saturday when it met its first defeat in 24 games dating back to 1927.

Georgetown has an extra incentive to win as it wishes to avenge last year's loss which the Titans applied by dint of brilliant work in the second half after having trailed by wo touchdowns at the intermission.

Game Seen as Index to Success of Season.

Georgetown followers who gauge success solely on victory and defeat regard tomorrow's clash as decisive in determining whether Georgetown's season is successful or disappointing. If Lou Little's stalwarts cop the verdict, they say it will be a successful season, but if the final result favors the Titans, then there will be nothing but disappointment to look back upon.

Georgetown has dropped only one game—to Western Maryland by one touchdown—and has defeated New York University. It has played scoreless games with Navy and West Virginia and in a total of eight games to date has yielded but one touchdown.

In meeting Detroit, the Blue and Gray encounters a team admittedly one of the most powerful in the country. Not even the defeat suffered at the hands of Oregon State last Saturday has lowered the Ford City outfit in the estimation of the critics. That setback was attributed universally to overconfidence..

Georgetown Must Halt Brilliant Backs.

In the light of these facts, the win-and-lose calculators see a place in the select circle for Georgetown if it wins today, and, on the other hand, a mediocre rating if it loses. The other division of Hilltop fans, those who don't hold victory so important, already are satisfied with what has been accomplished.

To win, Georgetown must stop the brilliant Lloyd Brazil and his able running mates, Berg and Ross, who all season long have been poison to their opponents. And, moreover, the Hilltop must unleash a more powerful attack than it did in the Navy and West Virginia games.

Berkeley Open Golfers Led by Billy Burke

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Shooting a brilliant 69, one under par, for the difficult Berkeley Country Club course, Billy Burke, of Westport, Conn., today led the field with a 140 at the end of the second round of the 72-hole $5,000 Berkeley open golf championship. In yesterday's first eighteen, Burke posted a 71.

One stroke behind Burke came Johnny Perilli, Feather River Inn, Calif., professional, and Abe Espinosa, Chicago. Each had cards of 71—70—141.

John Rouse, Chicago, added a 76 today to his 68 of yesterday for a total of 144. Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., turned in 73 today, giving him 71—73—144.

Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., entrant and pretournament favorite, took a place in the 145 station with rounds of 74—71. Craig Wood, Belleville, N. J., posted 75—70—145.

The low 64, including ties for the sixty-fourth place, will play in the 36-hole finals tomorrow.

Both Teams will Start Regulars in Climax of East's Season.

By ALAN GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The Eastern football season will be brought to a spectacular climax tomorrow by the attempt of Capt. Red Cagle's gallant Army team to check the wild rush of Notre Dame's warriors undefeated contenders for the national gridiron championship.

The odds tonight were all in favor of Notre Dame, in spite of the fact that the fighting Irish enter the fray without their star center, Tim Moynihan, who broke his ankle a week ago, and minus the coaching direction of the famous Knute Rockne, kept at South Bend with an infected leg, to listen to the game by radio.

The unbeaten Notre Dame army was a 2-to-1 favorite in the wagering, but the Army has completed plans for a sustained attack, led by Capt. Cagle, making the last Eastern appearance of his brilliant career. West Point's hopes are pinned on Cagle, the law of averages and a fair share of the "breaks."

All Space Utilized to Seat 82,500.

To make it a colorful finish to the Eastern season, the greatest crowd of the year in this gridiron sector is expected to pack the Yankee Stadium to a capacity fixed officially at 82,500. To meet the biggest demand ever witnessed for tickets to any football game in the East, all space in the big American League Park has been utilized.

With the exception of Moynihan, the Irish center, and Dick O'Keefe, star Army halfback who is suffering from a head injury, both squads were reported in good condition. O'Keefe will be unable to play and his place will be taken by Jim Glattly, South Dakota product, who has developed rapidly this season.

Notre Dame is expected to start its first string line, with Nash replacing Moynihan at center, and the second-string backfield, composed of Gebert, O'Connor, Schwartz, and the battering-ram, Joe Savoldi, who is considered a more dangerous ball carrier than the first-string fullback, Larry Mullins.

Carver Given Call As Quarter Back.

The Army, according to Coach Jones, will start its regulars, with Capt. Cagle and John Hertz Murrell, the full back, supported in the back field by Glattly and Red Carver, quarter back. Carver has the call over either Bowman or Gibner for the signal calling position.

Tomorrow's battle is only the sixteenth in the series between the rivals, begun in 1913, but the game has grown to classic proportions in this comparatively short period. It occupies the banner spot on the Eastern program this year, especially because of Notre's Dame's great record and the fact that victory tomorrow over the Soldiers will give the Irish a clean slate of nine victories and as strong a claim as any team to the national honors of the year.

For West Point and Capt. Cagle, the contest offers a chance through triumph to redeem a season of disappointments. Beaten by Yale and Illinois, tied by Harvard, the Cadets have failed to win a single major engagement so far. They had their own great record last year spoiled by Notre Dame before the Stanford Indicone hit New York, so that the soldiers are anxious to obtain revenge.

In the struggle of stamina and wits, speed and resourcefulness, the dramatic elements will center about the fleet-footed Cagle and the versatile Carideo, Notre Dame quarter back, rival candidate for All-American honors. Cagle has an all-America reputation to sustain and Carideo has one to clinch.

The probable line-ups:

Army.	Position.	Notre Dame.
Carlmark	L. E.	Collins
Perry	L. T.	Leahy
Hillsinger	L. G.	(Capt.) Hall
Lazar	Center	Bolt
Humber	R. G.	Cannon
Price	R. T.	Tysonn
Messinger	R. E.	Niemiec
Carver	Q. B.	Gebert
Glattly	L. H.	Schwartz
Cagle (Capt.)	R. H.	O'Connor
Murrel	F. B.	Savoldi

Flood of Tickets From West Sends Prices Skidding

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A bear raid from the West broke the market for tickets to the Army-Notre Dame football game tonight, and prices fell from a top of $100 a seat to $15, with promise of lower quotations before the Yankee Stadium opens for the crowd tomorrow afternoon.

For two weeks the tickets have been closely held, and in that time purchases at $100 a seat for places between the 40-yard lines have not been uncommon. Seventy-five dollars a pair was the standard price for 20-yard line seats, and $25 was asked for other seats.

The tickets were allotted and sold through the schools, students and alumni having the preference. The price was $4 a seat anywhere in the field, and weeks ago every ticket was reported in the hands of those entitled to them. TTwo weeks ago Knute Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, told a friend that he was unable to obtain an additional ticket.

Situation Changes Suddenly.

This was the situation until this morning, when hundreds of coon-skin coated young men, many of them wearing horn-rimmed glasses, came in from the West. Hundreds remained in the West, some where in the vicinity of South Bend, Ind., but ticket speculators ventured the opinion that the tickets of the boys who remained at home found their way to New York in the pockets of friends.

Ticket agencies and speculators who have been unable to obtain seats for good customers for two weeks were surprised to find that early morning callers had tickets to sell in blocks of two, three and four. The first arrivals sold their tickets at good prices, but the supply continued strong, and at noon the speculators suddenly found they were meeting faar more sellers than buyers. They began selling to get from under.

Early this afternoon there was a sudden flood of tickets in larger blocks. Reports were that a few speculators had sent scouts out to Indiana to buy in student's tickets, and others had sent up to West Point.

Notre Dame, Virginia Play Penn Next Year

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Five new opponents, University of Virginia, Wisconsin, Kansas University, Notre Dame and Georgia Tech appear on the 1930 grid iron schedule of the University of Pennsylvania, made public tonight by Sydney E. Hutchinson, chairman of the football committee.

The schedule for 1930: October 4, Swarthmore; 11, University of Virginia; 18, University of Wisconsin; 23, Lehigh. November 1, Kansas University; 8, Notre Dame; 15, Georgia Tech; 27, Cornell. December 6, Navy.

North Carolina State Plays South Carolina U.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The North Carolina State Wolfpack was ready tonight for the final battle of the season which will be staged tomorrow at 2 o'clock on Riddick Field with the University of South Carolina.

The Tech camp was confident tonight after Gus Tebell sent the squad through the last workout, which was less than an hour.

The South Carolina Eleven was expected to reach Raleigh tonight and was reported ready and primed for the battle.

SEARCHER WINS SECOND RACE IN 2 DAYS AT BOWIE

Trueman Colt Overtakes Low Gear

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 29.—Mrs. E. Trueman's Searcher, a 3-year-old son of Purchase, showed that he is a repeater when he came back, after a clever victory over Bewithus, yesterday to win the Cambridge Purse this afternoon. This was a dash of 1 1-16 miles and was provided as a feature race by the Bowie management. It was run as the fifth race and brought a field of seven to the post. Low Gear, who was in well at 108 pounds, was the favorite, and he might have made good had he escaped interference at the first turn where he was bumped by Searcher and knocked off his stride.

Fields rode a cool race on Searcher. He took the latter back and for half a mile had him well in hand. The result was that when called on, Searcher had something in reserve to respond and in the stretch run wore down Low Gear to catch him in the last few strides to win by a head. Chatover threatened to score a runaway victory when he went to the front rounding the far turn and on the back stretch was out in front racing under a stout pull. He held his speed for 6 furlongs, but then retired and in the stretch run stopped to a walk.

Low Gear, after making up much ground and working his way up on the outside, passed the pacemakers with a rush at the top of the stretch. The effort told on him, however, and when put to a drive he hung.

First Lady Wears Down Irish Polly.

Some of the best 2-year-old fillies racing in Maryland this fall made up the field that went to the post in the fourth race. In her only start, a few days back, Irish Polly was returned a winner, and on the strength of this race she was made favorite. Irish Polly, although beaten, showed a smashing good performance. Moving up stoutly soon after the break, Irish Polly joined issue with Mad Hattie and the pair raced along heads apart at a rapid pace. Well around the far turn Mad Hattie began to hang, and Irish Polly shoved into the lead and entering the home stretch showed a length in front.

In the final furlong First Lady, who had been rating along in behind the leaders, began moving up and the last sixteenth she caught and passed Irish Polly to win going away at the end by a length and a half. Mad Hattie came again under a strong finish and forced Leishman to drive Irish Polly to the limit to save the place by a neck. Curtsey was fourth, another head away.

Angry Lass Closes With Rush in Opener.

S. L. Burch sent his first winner to the post in Maryland this fall when he saddled Angry Lass for W. L. Hernstadt. She was one of the fifteen starters that went to the post in the first race, a maiden affair for 2-year-olds. It was a dash of seven furlongs. Cane Heart was the one to make the pace, with Tang in closest pursuit, showed the way into the home stretch. Angry Lass was rating along in the middle of the bunch, and making the turn for home Leishman took his mount around on the outside.

In the last sixteenth the leaders began to falter and Angry Lass, closing with a rush, was up in the last few yards to win going away by a scant half length from Cane Heart. The latter beat Tang two lengths for the place. Tang had rather a rough trip, being blocked when Baker attempted to go through at the turn out of the back stretch. Cane Heart changed hands after the race when F. Weiner claimed him from the R. Spreckles Stable for $3,000.

Workman rode a confident race on Dublin Show in the second event. The conditions of this race also called for maidens. It was for 3-year-olds and upward and a claiming affair. There were several good things among the fourteen that sported silks and at post time Dublin Show had the call and was favorite. In the early running Dance and Jove drew away and racing like a team set the pace until well around the far turn. Workman in the meantime was sitting still on Dublin Show, rating him along under slight restraint.

As they swung for home Dublin Show went to the front and, drawing away without effort, won at the end by a couple of lengths from Pat O'Connor. The latter was half a length in front of High Player. Jove and Dance dropped out of the picture when put to a drive.

† Kershaw Stable-M. Hirsch entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANGRY LASS, $12.70, $7.80, $5.30; CANE HEART, $5.50, $3.70; TANG, $15.60.

ANGRY LASS worked her way up on the outside, responded willingly for the final issue and, finishing rapidly nearing the finish, overtook CANE HEART in the last six-teenth. CANE HEART, rated in front, drove clear entering the home stretch, but could not withstand the winner.

ANGRY LASS PROVES CLASS IN FIRST.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:36. Off at 1:37. Winner, A. S. Woodliffe's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUBLIN SHOW, $9.20, $6.30, $3.90; PAT O'CONNOR, $5.40, $3.60; HIGH PLAYER, $4.10.

DUBLIN SHOW came over sharply going to the first turn to reach a contending position, which he held to the leaders, joined DANCE when reaching the far turn, shook the latter off and was drawing away under severe urging. PAT O'CONNOR, placed forwardly, showed a good effort the entire trip. HIGH PLAYER, rated in near pursuit of the leaders, weakened after making his effort rounding the far turn.

DUBLIN SHOW BRINGS HOME THE DOUGH.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:05. Off at 2:06. Winner, H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CANDY PIG, $16.70, $6.30, $5.00; LADY MARIE, $5.60, $4.40; SUN MEDDLER, $5.50.

CANDY PIG, in hand for the first half mile, came to the outside for the closing test, closed in resolute fashion and caught the leaders in the last sixteenth and drew out handily. LADY MARIE, a keen factor from the beginning, came gamely for the final drive. SUN MEDDLER, slow to get into his best stride, finished stoutly the last half mile. PROPUS had good speed for the first five furlongs and weakened thereafter.

CANDY PIG PROVES SWEET THING IN THIRD.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Genteel. For 2-year-olds, fillies. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:40. Winner, Middleburg Stable's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIRST LADY, $27.30, $8.30, $5.00; IRISH POLLY, $4.10, $2.90; MAD HATTIE, $3.90.

FIRST LADY, going along under slight restraint early, came stoutly for the final issue and, catching the leaders inside the final furlong, was going away at the end. IRISH POLLY displayed high speed, but succumbed rapidly after being used up for resisting contention from MAD HATTIE.

FIRST LADY FIRST HOME OF FIELD.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500. The Cambridge. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:13. Off at 3:18. Winner, Mrs. E. Trueman's ch. c. (3), by Purchase—Amora. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:12 2-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:46 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SEARCHER, $8.80, $4.60, $3.20; LOW GEAR, $4.20, $2.80; COIN COLLECTOR, $3.60.

SEARCHER, badly crowded when rounding the first turn and forced to be eased back when CHATOVER came over, was again bothered when leaving the back stretch, went to the outside fully for racing room and, finishing stoutly under punishment, was up in the last twenty yards. LOW GEAR, in reserve early, moved to the front when reaching the final furlong pole and withstood a drive gamely, but was not good enough. COIN COLLECTOR raced forwardly placed, but weakened nearing the finish.

SEARCHER FINDS THE WAY TO FINISH.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:52. Off at 3:53. Winner, F. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HEDGEPENCE, $15.60, $8.30, $4.90; SOUR MASH, $10.20, $5.40; ROYAL CHARGE, $3.10.

HEDGEPENCE, unable to enter into the first division, worked his way up on the outside after five furlongs, came strong for the closing test, wore down SOUR MASH at the final furlong pole and came away smartly at the end. SOUR MASH sprinted into a winning lead when approaching the far turn, but tired suddenly the last quarter.

UNBEATEN BAYLOR ELEVEN PLAYS EMERSON TODAY

Tennessee's Prep Kings Are Here

Baylor, of Tennessee, to Show Star Back Today in Bryan.

A CHAMPIONSHIP prep school football team from the State of Tennessee, Baylor Military Academy, seeking to add to its laurels by taking the scalp of Emerson Institute's Eleven, of this city, lines up against the local aggregation at Griffith Stadium at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Southern eleven comes with an impressive record for the season's play, being undefeated during the present campaign and tied only twice.

Although dropping his Thanksgiving Day game to the Wenonah Military Academy, of New Jersey, Coach Sanborn, of Emerson, was not discouraged with the result and expects his boys to give the Dixie team a brisk argument this afternoon. With the exception of Shugrue, 185-pound guard, the entire Emerson Team is in tip-top condition. Shugrue is nursing a slight injury, but may break into the game before it has proceeded very far.

Emerson Banking On Fast Backs.

Emerson supporters are banking heavily upon Lewis, Cabell, Kilroy and Trilling, their quartet of back field stars, to romp through the Baylor line today. Lewis and Cabell are both fast and elusive, while the latter two possess triple-threat qualities. Forney, end, will again do the punting for the local team.

Opposed to them will be the Southerners' quartet of Capt. Bran, quarter back; Nichols and Maymor, half backs, and Beaumont, full back. Tipping the scales at only 145, Bryan nevertheless has proven the chief threat of the Baylor Team this year, with his passes providing his chief vehicle to fame. However, Beaumont has also performed brilliantly, having ripped enemy lines to shreds all season.

With the preponderance of weight in favor of Emerson, fans may expect to see two distinct types of play opposed in the day's clash. Whereas Emerson is expected to flash a strong running attack with each of its backfield taking a hand in carrying the ball, Baylor expects to depend upon Bryan's trusty arm to propel the oval toward the Emerson goal. The probable line-up and numbers:

Emerson will have an added incentive to win today, for should it emerge victorious, Coach Sanborn will seriously consider the offer of Morgan Prep School, of Petersburg, Tenn., which has offered it a game to be played on the Petersburg gridiron. Sanborn said last night, though, that the acceptance depends wholly upon the outcome of today's game. Morgan is one of the outstanding prep schools of the South.

Roland MacKenzie Gets 70 Over Columbia Links

Roland MacKenzie, who is in the city spending the Thanksgiving holiday week-end with his parents, yesterday played the Columbia course in his old-time form. Driving from the back tees, he was out in 36, one over par, and back in 34, one under par, for a total of 70 strokes, the exact par of the course. He was accompanied by Everett Eynon and his card was as follows:

Out .....4 5 4 4 5 4 3 3 4—36
In .....4 5 4 4 4 3 2 4 4—34—70

On the outward journey MacKenzie was one stroke over par on the second and fourth holes, with a compensating birdie on the seventh hole. Coming home, he was one over par on the eleventh hole, a strong northwest wind interfering with an attempt to reach the green with his second, but he had parties on the fifteenth and sixteenth holes. He tried for a 69 with his putt on the eighteenth green, but the ball stopped about 3 inches from the cup, although as the putt was attempted from the edge of the green, the failure to hole out was not surprising.

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, also braved the wintry winds yesterday and played on the Columbia course with H. R. Young.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime—By H. W. Webster

Recreation Court League To Open Season Jan. 6

With eight teams holding franchises and prospects of several additional team entrants before the start of the season on January 6, the Washington Recreation League, leading women's court circuit, are looking forward to a big season.

At a recent meeting, Miss Helen L. Joliff was elected president. Miss Maude Parker was chosen vice president; Miss Mary Bixler, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. L. T. Haugen was selected to name referees. Misses Julia Denning, McNutt, Bixler and Mrs. Haugen have been named floor officials.

The Basketeers, Capital A. C., St. Paul's A. C., Epiphany A. C., Roxies, Eagles, Hockey Club and Hyattsville Sextets have been granted franchises. Additional teams seeking franchises are requested to communicate with Miss Joliff, 1321 Kenyon street northwest, telephone Columbia 3151-W or National 4645, Branch 548, as early as possible.

Physical examination certificates should be sent to Miss Bixler, 821 Massachusetts avenue northeast, before December 28. Entrance fees are to be posted before January 2. Teams entered in the league are requested to inform league officials on what dates they will have gymnasiums available.

Bob McPherson Plays For Washington Grays

Bob McPherson has joined the Washington Gray Basket Ball Team and is expected to gain a regular berth with the team which gained the local A. A. U. title last spring. McPherson played with the Washington Loan & Trust Co. Quintet last season and is expected to add strength to the Grays.

McPherson is expected to make his debut with the Grays next Tuesday night at Central High Gym when the Grays engage the Knight Store Five, formerly known as the Hoffman Clothiers, of Alexandria.

Manager Fones, of the Grays, has requested McPherson to report Tuesday night at 8 o'clock along with the following other players: MacDonald, Banta, Forney, T. Peck, Wright, Dean, Buscher, Harrington, Swift, Fones and Sheckles. Play will start at 9 o'clock.

Games In Hyattsville On Sunday Are Target

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 29.—Dr. W. W. Davis, the Rev. Dr. G. W. Haddaway and several other members of the Lord's Day Alliance, have requested Gov. Ritchie not to permit any games on State property on Sunday, it was learned today.

According to Dr. Davis a quiet conference was held with the governor concerning press notices that basket ball had been played on Sunday in 104th Medical Regiment Armory, Baltimore, and the Hyattsville Armory.

"The State ought to respect its own laws," Dr. Davis said. "Nothing that is unlawful ought to be permitted on State property."

"I am looking into the matter now and will have my answer ready next week," Gov. Ritchie said.

losses as he runs back to pick out receivers for his passes, a young man named Carver who comes from Dallas, Texas, was able to escape with the football and cover the confusion.

This Mr. Carver is a sophomore quarterback who will start the game in place of Herb Gibner and Chester Bowman, the two senior quarterbacks. He is not very familiar to the public or the opposition but he is a broken field runner who can start from a flatfooted stance and develop his stride within two jumps and when he got his chance in the game at Illinois there were two or three occasions when his loose, light, discriminating way of advancing the football suggested Chris K. Cagle in the day's before the opposing coaches laid traps to stop him.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BENT F. COLLYER

GETAWAY DAY. The sport of this aft. will mark the closing of racing at Bowie and at the same time it will be the swan song of thoroughbreds racing in the East as well. It is only proper that a first-class stake event should feature the closing of the Bowie meeting and the Endurance Handicap, a 2-year-old special, seems to be just this.

Be that as it may, I look for the good NED O, property of G. W. (Buck) Foreman, to tin can. This is just his distance and, although several first-class youngsters are listed among the starters, he should not have much trouble. He was flirting in big society the other day, but don't take that effort too seriously.

The secondary feature will bring together a fine band of older horses. I am particularly high on AFRICAN and ANNAPOLIS, which go as the Salmon-Wilson entry. Both these nags are as tight as a drum and they don't have too much weight. KARL EITEL has all of his early speed and may be the one to spill the frijoles.

In the first race of the day I believe I have dragged one out of the vat in MARY ELOISE. Old Boy Bryson just missed with this one the other day. Go get yours and don't ever say your Uncle Bertram did not tell you, either.

IDAHO ELECTS HALF BACK.

Pocatello, Idaho, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Howard Berg, husky half back, will captain the 1930 University of Idaho football team. He was elected at the university club dinner here last night. Berg was one of the mainstays on his team this year.

VINCENT RICHARDS SIGNS.

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Vincent Richards, American Davis Cup Tennis star, was engaged today to serve as club professional at the Norwood Country Club, Long Branch, N. J., for the summer season of 1930. He will take up his duties next May.

TWO GAMES IN GRIDIRON LEAGUE

Janney and Columbia Clash; Feds Meet Meridians.

WITH the three championships of the Capital City Football League already bestowed upon the St. Stephen's A. C., Palace A. C. and Brookland Boys Club Elevens, but two games are listed for tomorrow. Runner-up positions in both the 135-pound and 125-pound divisions are at stake in these two games.

The Janney A. C. and Columbia A. C. Elevens are to meet at 3 o'clock at Silver Spring in the 135-pound class fray. These teams met three weeks ago in a scoreless battle. The game was ordered replayed when Janney was found to have used an ineligible player. Columbias can clinch the second place cup by winning tomorrow's game.

Federals Seeking 2nd Place.

The G. P. O. Federals have a chance to bag the second-place cup in the 125-pound class contest, slated for Potomac Park No. 2 gridiron at 1 o'clock, when the Meridians will be engaged.

A preliminary contest to the Janney-Columbia contest will bring together the Northern Prep and Centennial Elevens at 1 o'clock. These two teams are pointing toward the independent 135-pound title, and the outcome of this fray will probably decide the championship.

Refere McClure has been assigned to the Silver Spring game and Simpson will officiate at the Meridian-G. P. O. Federal contest.

4	‡Lady Capulet	105	12	†Sun Shadow	110
5	†Silverdale	110	13	Holiday	105
6	†Cadilla	109	14	Sun Broom	105
7	Upset Lad	110	15	†Golden Anger	100
8	†Port Harlem	105

‡M. Field and Arden Farms entry.
15. Ross entry.
†Andover Stable and W. L. Hernstadt entry.

PEGG'S PRIDE ran a bang-up second the other day, showing all of her form of the Havre de Grace meeting. The little filly has a nice break in the weights. In LADY CAPULET and BARON KING the Ross Stable has a rain or shine pair. LADY CAPULET will be a keen factor on a fast track, with BARON KING a threat if the going should be slow. ESKIMO is better than recent races indicate and is rated ahead of the others.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $10,000 added; the Endurance handicap; for 2-year-olds.

1	†Sun Cradle	112	9	†Ben. Admiral	108
2	Snowflake	103	10	Sydney	114
3	†Slatony	106	11	†Hacky H.	106

5	Ned O.	122	13	†Fort. Youth	110
6	†Susie Jane	107	14	Black Mammy	109
7	†Sw. Sentiment	114	15	†Porphyry	103
8	Night Signal	108

†Seagram Stable entry.
‡P. Johnson entry.
15. W. Labrot entry.
Includes 3 pounds penalty.

The Seagram Stable's pair of SWEET SENTIMENT and SUN CRAIG are given the call over NED O. in the feature race. Both turned in winning efforts during the Maryland season and SWEET SENTIMENT'S last effort seemed to indicate that the Canada star may be ready for an even better display of speed. NED O. will have to circle the track with 122 pounds aboard and the overnight favorite may find the task a little too exacting. NED O. failed to keep pace with older horses Thursday when Greenock set a track mark. HACKEY H. is proving a bit better than rated early in the season and is placed ahead of the others.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $2,000; "Lest We Forget" handicap; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1	†African	103	9	Boom	108
2	Greenock	115	10	Princess Tina	109
3	†Sun Shadow	106	11	Dowaglac	114
4	William T.	104	12	Searcher	110
5	Essare	112	13	Lativich	114
6	†Sandy	118	14	Petee Wrack	126
7	†Perkins	103	15	†Annapolis	107
8	Karl Eitel	104

‡Arden Farm-M. Field and Rollins Plains Stable.

ANNAPOLIS, which has been stretch battling since the start of the Bowie meeting, is selected here. The son of Man o' War has lost some of his races by narrow margins, but has proved superior courage on a number of occasions in drives. ANNAPOLIS is receiving 19 pounds from PETEE WRACK, which appears the likely favorite. DOWAGIAC, LATIVICH and WILLIAM T. will be close up at the finish.

1	Fire Chief	112	7	Wolf	112
2	Catlettsburg	110	8	*Alita Allen	104

SEARINGTON was scratched yesterday with this race in view, but the chances of getting in today are doubtful. However, if there are enough declarations to let SEARINGTON face the barrier we expect a run for the money. BLAZING CINCH has been a consistent Maryland performer and may take it all. BOUNDING DEEP, despite disappointments, is rated ahead the others.

Weather, clear; track, fast.

Old MONTFERRAT may upset the dope in the seventh. A run back to that winning effort recently will bring the veteran home ahead of THE FRESHMAN and LISTERINE. BEGIN OVER, with 100 pounds up, may be a factor. GOLDEN ANGER, provided it moves into the starting group, may prove troublesome.

WOODLAWNS WIN.

The Woodlawn A. C. Five took the measure of the Naval Air Station Team last night by a 30-to-17 count. Faro led the scoring for the winners. The Woodlawns want games. Call Manager Wood at Clarendon 925.

Corbeau Pays $28.70 In Jefferson Victory

Jefferson Park, New Orleans, Nov 29 (A.P.)—Over a drying out track, F. Dunn's Corbeau with O. Dunn up, scored in a common gallop in winning the Ballet's Chauve Souris purse, a mile and a sixteenth gallop, here today. W. P. Gaine's West Wind was second and Valley Lake Stable's Haymaker third. Bill Seth was fourth.

The start was good and Haymaker jumped into a long lead. It seemed as if he would maintain his advantage and win easily, but around the turn he began to shorten stride and Corbeau coming with a rush passed him and taking the lead won going away by three lengths. West Wind slipped through on the inside and beat Haymaker eight lengths for the place. The winner paid $28.70 for $2.

SET BOWLING RECORD.

Bowlers of the Postoffice Team set a new record in the Bethesda League last night when they rolled a total of 1740 in beating the Old Boys Team. Games of 604 and 614 were included in the high mark. Sets of 369, 365 and 363 were rolled, respectively, by Norris, Burns and Davidson. The scores:

BULLDOGS WIN, 20-19.

The Bulldog eleven trimmed the St. Patrick's gridmen, 20-19. Zanelliotti's extra point after the last touchdown gave the winners their margin of victory.

FEDERALS HURT, CANCEL.

G. P. O. Federals 125-pound football team has been forced to cancel its scheduled game for Sunday on account of the injury of four of its linemen.

LEO LOMSKI WINS.

Detroit, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., pounded out a ten-round decision over Charley Belanger, of Winnipeg, Canadian light heavyweight champion, here tonight. Under the point system of scoring each round, Referee Al Day awarded seven rounds to Lomski and three to Belanger. The total points awarded were 47 for Lomski and 40 for Belanger.

Dumb Half Back Continues Run Through Stands

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants).

George (Potsy) Clark, formerly with the University of Kansas, but now coaching the Butler (Ind.) Football Team, told me the funniest football yarn he ever heard was about a big farmer boy playing his first college game at Siwash College.

"During signal practice," said "Potsy," "this big fellow would run 20 and 30 yards with the ball, which, of course, slowed up the signal drill and got the coach's goat. The coach finally ordered him to carry the ball only 10 yards and then put it down.

"The game started and the big fellow broke away several times, but remembering the coach's instructions, would only run 10 yards and then stop and put the ball down.

"The coach, by this time almost a raving maniac and on the verge of a stroke, sent in several players with instructions to the big yokel to keep running when he got the ball.

"During the second half he got the ball and kept on going, past the goal posts up through the stand and down the road. A boy with a flivver caught up to him and told him to stop, but he refused unless the coach told him to. The co

DATA SHOWS FALL IN FEDERAL LOANS

BANK PRESIDENT SPEAKS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Continued easier credit conditions were reflected in a fourth successive recession of loans on securities to brokers and dealers as revealed yesterday in the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve Board, the total of loans being $3,450,000,000 for the week ended November 27, a decline of $137,000,000 from the previous week.

There were decreases in all of the divisions, loans for own account, $831,000,000 being $22,000,000 under the preceding week; those for account of out-of-town banks were $638,000,000, or $66,000,000, under the week before and those for account of others, $1,982,000,000 were $49,000,000 lower than the prior week.

The consolidated statement of condition of Federal Reserve Banks on November 27, made public by the board yesterday, shows an increase for the week of $13,800,000 in holdings of discounted bills and decreases of $26,500,000 in holdings of bills bought in open market and $400,000 in United States securities.

Government Deposits Gain.

Member bank reserve deposits declined $142,800,000, and cash reserves $61,000,000, while Government deposits gained $16,900,000 and Federal Reserve note circulation, $5,200,000. Total bills and securities were $15,800,000 below the amount reported a week ago. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market receded $26,500,000 and of United States bonds, $14,000,000, while holdings of Treasury notes advanced $12,700,000 and of Treasury certificates, $900,000.

S. E. Burgess, division passenger agent of the local office of the Southern Railway System announced yesterday that purchase of 44,300 tons of new steel rail, enough to lay 270 miles of track, for delivery during the first six months of 1930, is reported by the system. Contract for the entire purchase was awarded to the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. and the rail will be rolled at its plant at Ensley, Ala., near Birmingham.

Included in the order are 11,000 tons of rail weighing 130 pounds to the yard. The heaviest rail being used on the Southern; 24,800 tons of 100-pound rail, 3,000 tons of 90-pound rail, and 5,400 tons of 85-pound rail. For several years, the Southern has been relaying its heavy traffic lines with heavier rail as a part of its general program of improvement. Most of these lines have been equipped with 100-pound rail and the 130-pound rail is now being placed at points where operating conditions are most severe.

District Street Railways Report.

Statements of operation in October of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., and Potomac & Electric Power Co., have been filed with the Public Utilities Commission. Income balance of the first named company showed a deficit of $2,511.78 for the month as compared with one of $5.56 for the month last year. For the 10 months of the current year, however, the deficit is $7,079.50, a reduction of $23,801.47 in the deficit for the same period in 1928.

The October net income of the Potomac Electric Power Co., $341,337.80, was $12,256.61 greater than that of October, 1928, and that for the year thus far, $3,267,770.46 was an improvement of $271,720.01 over the corresponding period in 1928.

Business activity for the week ended November 23, as indicated by check payments, showed a substantial advance, both from the previous week and the corresponding week last year, according to the summary of the business situation by the Department of Commerce.

Wholesale prices, however, continued to decline and were substantially lower than for the corresponding week of 1928. Business failures were more numerous than during the previous week and almost as great as a year ago.

Sleeping Car Business Rises.

"The passenger business of the railways is showing a smaller decline in 1929 than in any year since 1920 excepting 1925, but it is still declining," says the Railway Age. "All the loss occuring is in day coach business, as travel in sleeping cars is larger than last year.

"The total loss in the first eight months of this year was about 1 per cent, as compared with a loss of about 6 per cent in 1928 and 5.2 per cent in 1927. Railway passenger business is now about 34 per cent less than in 1920. Passenger earnings in 1920 were about $1,305,000,000, while in 1929 they will apparently be about $882,000,000, a loss of about $423,000,000.

"The prospects that a plethora of capital will make its appearance in 1930, together with the fact that business leaders are recognizing the law of progress in economics, will tend to make the current recession in business extend over a relatively short period of time, according to Gage P. Wright, New York economist and president of the Business Economic Digest.

"The mild hesitation in general business, which first made its appearance in August, has been turned into actual recession largely because of the apprehension on the part of consumers, in addition to that of business executives, over the recent unsettlement in the stock market."

Associated Gas System Makes Record.

New high records were established by the Associated Gas & Electric System, which, in a consolidated statement of earnings of properties since dates of acquisition, shows a 92 per cent increase in gross earnings for the twelve months ended October 31, a 111 per cent jump in net earnings, and a balance for dividends and surplus more than double the amount reported for the previous twelve-month period.

Gross earnings and other income totaled $80,606,472, comparing with $41,894,430 in the twelve months ended October 31, 1928, an increase of $38,712,042. Gross earnings of the system for the twelve months ended October 31 last include operations of Metropolitan Edison Co. and other properties only since January 1, 1929, and the Rochester Central properties for but six months. When these and subsequent acquisitions shall have been in the associated system for a full twelve months the gross will run well ahead of $100,000,000 per annum.

District Stores Sales Rise.

Department stores sales for the Fifth, or local, Federal Reserve District, including those of this city, were 4.9 per cent ahead of those for October, 1928.

"It is well for you to try the experiment of saving for two reasons," writes President Bertram Chesterman, of the Morris Plan Bank of Washington, to the class in printing at Central High School. "The first of these reasons is to find out whether you have any backbone or not; that is, to find out if you are capable of carrying through an effort which you have determined upon.

"If you have a will power sufficient to drive through to the end some worthy object on which you have determined, it only remains for you to determine in your own mind whether or not it is a good thing to save a part of what you receive each month."

Arlington Bankers Meet.

The Arlington County Bankers Association have plans under way for the inauguration of a massed advertising program, it was announced following a recent meeting of the association in Clarendon, Va., at which Dr. George Gould presided.

The audit section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association has scheduled its next meeting at the National Press Club, on December 12, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Wayne Kendrick, certified public accountant, will deliver an address upon some subject to be announced later.

At the last meeting of the section, papers were presented on "Safeguarding the Receiving Teller's Cage," and a general discussion of the safeguards and hazards of this department followed.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.
Washington, Friday, 8 p.m., Nov. 29, 1929.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Fair and continued cold Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer; moderate northwest and west winds.

For Maryland—Fair and continued cold, except slowly rising temperature in west portion Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer; moderate to fresh northwest or west winds.

For Virginia—Fair, with somewhat colder in the southeast and slowly rising temperature in extreme west portion Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer; fresh northwest and west winds.

Pressure remains quite low over eastern Canada and off the North Atlantic coast. Fort Smith, Ark., is 29.40 inches. Hopes Advance, N. D., 28.90 inches, and Doucet, Que., 28.28 inches. The disturbance that was centered over Texas yesterday night has continued to move southeastward over the Gulf of Mexico toward Yucatan and another disturbance is moving rapidly southward from Alberta, upper Mackenzie Valley and Manitoba. Fort Smith, N. T., 29.64 inches. Still another is approaching western Alaska. St. Paul, 28.14 inches. The area of high pressure from the Northwest has spread rapidly southward and eastward over the United States. Rapid City, S. Dak., and Abilene, Tex., 30.40 inches, and another high pressure area is advancing southward from the Arctic Ocean. Point Barrow, Alaska, 29.40 inches. There have been local snows within the last 24 hours over most middle and northern sections east of the Rocky Mountains and rains in some of the Texas coast. The weather has become much colder from Colorado and New Mexico eastward to the Atlantic coast and the temperature is freezing tonight as far south as the central portions of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. It is from 20 to more than 40 degrees below normal over most sections east of the Rocky Mountains, except Florida. The temperature has been quite stationary over the northern Lake region and the far Northwest.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Saturday and Sunday in the Washington forecast district, except for local snows in the northern Lake region, northern New England and the interior of northern New York. Cloudiness will increase during Sunday, however, and rain or snow is probable Sunday night as far east as the Appalachian Mountains. The weather will continue unseasonably cold Saturday, although the temperature will rise slowly Saturday afternoon as far east as the Appalachian region and the weather will become warmer Sunday quite generally in the Washington forecast district.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries, address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Sinclair Consolidated.

W. R. G.—Would you kindly advise as to the future prospects of Sinclair Consolidated Oil common stock? I have some shares which I purchased at 24⅝.

Answer—Stock considered quite reasonably priced around current levels, but appears to offer only moderate chance of appreciation during the near term future, unless stimulated by merger developments. Continued improvement during the first six months of the current year carried earnings for the period more than 70 per cent above those of the like 1928 half.

American-Hawaiian.

Mrs. B. H.—I have purchased some shares of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co. at $19 a share. During the slump in Wall street the company raised the dividend to $2 a share. Am I right in thinking that by raising the dividend at this time the company is doing business enough to continue this dividend?

Answer—The dividend of $2 a share recently declared and which is payable January 2, 1930, to holders of record December 14 next, comes out of surplus. At the end of 1928 the company had approximately $6,000,000 in cash, call loans and marketable securities and last year received $1,500,000 from Mixed Claims Commission, which was set up as "Ship Replacement Fund," instead of being included in income. Has about $3,000,000 still due from this source. Returns from operations during first half of 1929 resulted in a loss of $131,892, but after inclusion of profits from sale of securities and ships, income equaled 59c a share on 475,802 shares of capital stock. Expansion of profits is anticipated during latter half of this year, but it is doubted that returns for 1929 will substantially exceed those of 1928. It is evident, therefore, that the dividends now being paid are not being earned and resumption of regular dividends is dependent on establishment of satisfactory earning power.

Pennroad Corporation.

E. S. F.—I bought some shares of Pennroad Corporation at $30 a share. Would you advise me to hold them or sell and take a loss?

Answer—Pennroad Corporation is a holding company, or, in other words, an investment trust closely affiliated with the Pennsylvania Railroad. It is, therefore, favored with capable management and strong sponsorship. However, it is the policy of this column not to comment on investment trusts, not because they are held in disfavor, but because their future success is so largely dependent upon management.

International Harvester.

J. F. S.—I have some preferred shares of the International Harvester Co. What is your opinion regarding the selling of them and buying the company's common stock? What dividend does the latter pay and when is it payable?

Answer—The common stock, on which quarterly dividends of 62½c a share or $2.50 annually, are paid, while perhaps somewhat more attractive from a speculative viewpoint, is by no means as well regarded as is the preferred from the standpoint of an investment. If it is speculative profits, rather than steady income yield, that you are desirous of, it might possibly be well for you to make the exchange spoken of.

ARLINGTON CITIZENS PLAN ROAD MEETING

State Will Be Asked to Widen Lee Highway to Falls Church in 1930.

LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Recognizing the need of widening the Lee Highway from Hall's Hill to Falls Church, a mass meeting will be held tonight in the Robert E. Lee schoolhouse at 8 o'clock to formulate plans to bring the project to the attention of the State Highway Department.

The State included the widening of Lee Highway in its allocation this year, but the work stopped at Hall's Hill, due, it is said, to the fact that under pressure $40,000 was diverted to the Glebe road project.

In view of these facts, and that there is no road in the State system which needs widening to carry the ever increased traffic more than the Lee Highway the citizens feel that their request for widening this highway beyond Hall's Hill will be complied with.

P. P. Woodbridge, executive secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce made the following statement last night:

"Arlington County can use, and has a place for industrial development, but the type of industrial development which has a net economic value to the county is decidedly limited. The principal value of industry to the average community, dies in th efact that approximately 75 per cent or more of the pay roll of that plant is spent in the retail stores and in the form of rent or payments on homes for the employes.

No such percentage of the pay roll of any industry now located in Arlington County is being spent in our community. In many of the industries now located in the county, not only do the majority of their employees live in the City of Washington, and spend their wages there, but these industries also maintain their offices and clerical staff in Washington, thereby removing from our community, the most desirable and profitable side of their business, in so far as its value to Arlington County is concerned. Certain industries, particularly those related to the building and allied trades and industries of similar selected type are not only desirable but necessary. On the other hand, many industries have a limited economic value to our county, and in certain cases, can be shown to be a liability instead of an asset.

"The building of homes is at present the county's largest and most profitable industry. The building of homes provides work and profitable employment for all those engaged in the building trades and allied industries. It immediately adds to the volume of business being done in the retail stores and thereby increases commercial values and adding to the tax income values to our community.

"The development of Arlington County has been somewhat retarded up to this time primarily through the lack of adequate approaches to the City of Washington, and also by the unattractive character of the approaches as have heretofore existed."

"Considerable significance attaches to the record given herewith, showing development of Arlington County, in recent years, as compared with that of the metropolitan area of Montgomery County, Md. These figures, while showing a very creditable degree of progress in the county, indicate that the metropolitan area of Montgomery County has made still greater progress. These figures are still more significant when it is borne in mind that while more than 80 per cent of the area of Arlington County is within the five-mile radius of the center of Washington City, Montgomery County lies wholly outside of the same radius.

The comparative figures are assessed valuation in Arlington County, 25 square miles in 1920, was $7,961,180, in 1929 increased to $28,713,119, or 360 per cent; Montgomery County 85 square miles, assesed valuation 1920, $13,013,700, in 1929 increased to $60,000,000, or 460 per cent.

The population in Arlington County in 1920 was 16,040 in 1929 is 30,000, increase of 90 per cent. Montgomery County population in 1920 was 7,500, 1929, is 30,000, or an increase of 400 per cent.

With the work of establishing the grade lines for the widening of the Washington-Richmond highway from a point opposite the Southern Oxygen Plant in South Washington to Four Mile Run, the boundary line of Arlington County, rapidly nearing completion under the supervision of the surveying party of the State Highway department. Actual construction work will be started by the contractor within the next ten days.

John H. Olcot, contractor awarded the work, announced yesterday that the contract has been duly signed by the highway department and that he is prepared to start operations as soon as the engineers have completed their work of the grade lines.

The ladies of the Clarendon Methodist Church opened their annual bazaar and bake sale yesterday, which continues through tonight, in the vacant rooms in the Jones Building at Clarendon.

The proceeds will go to the fund which the ladies are raising for the installation of the pipe organ for the new church building.

The annual battle against the white plague was launched yesterday in Arlington County.

Ammunition in the form of Christmas seals, were put in the mail last night by the Arlington County Tuberculosis Association and sent to every home in the county.

Any person not receiving a supply of seals may obtain them from any drug store, or by writing to the county chairman, Mrs. Norbert Melnick, at 120 Latterner avenue, at Clarendon and supplies will be sent out at once.

Work on the new postoffice building for Ballston is being rushed to completion by the contractor, Z. E. Groves, of East Falls Church. Weather permitting, the building will be completely ready to handle the usual Christmas rush of mail.

The case of Lawrence J. Doyle, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was continued until Tuesday by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday. Doyle was later released on $50 bond.

The Ladies Guild of the Cherrydale Methodist Church announce a Christmas bazaar and supper to be held Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Will you go to the theater tonight or will you stay home and listen to the radio? The Washington Post will help you make your decision by its daily listing of broadcast programs on the more popular stations and also by its comment and criticism of current plays and motion pictures by John Daly and Nelson Bell.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

ONE of those big 10-ton moving vans backed up to the Old Manse yesterday and dropped off a set of office furniture—a desk, swivel chair, filing cabinet and other accessories.

"Those fellows must have got the wrong address," I told Luella, as the men arrayed their freight on the pavement.

"No," she declared, "it's for me."

"For you?" I asked. "Office furniture?"

"Certainly," said Luella. "Didn't you read what Secretary of Labor Davis said yesterday?"

Of course I hadn't read what he said. Whatever he said is no reason for office furniture in our home.

"Have you gone crazy?" I asked Luella.

"Wives of Workingmen Called Big Executives."

That was the headline.

* * * * *

IT seems the Secretary of Labor described wives of workingmen as the greatest, busiest executives in the world, the producers and consumers of economic goods, who hold the home and family together with the mortar of love and devotion, who keep the home fires burning, the wheels of famil'y life turning:

"A very pretty speech and very true," I admitted. "I agree with the Secretary. Wives are combustion forces of the Nation—but why the office furniture?"

"What d'ye mean, wives are the combustion forces of the Nation?" she asked.

"He said you keep the home fires burning, didn't he? Well, as any chemist will tell you, it's combustion that——"

"You leave the chemists out of this," said Luella, as combustible as ever I saw her.

"Certainly we'll leave out the chemists—but what about this office furniture? Why did you order that?" I asked, as the men appeared at the back door, lugging the outfit.

"If I'm a big executive, running this house," explained Luella, "it must be done in the best executive manner. You can't expect me to keep books on the kitchen wall, can you?"

* * * * *

NOW there's something to that—and yet I was surprised to see Luella order the breakfast nook rigged up like an office, and our old morning gathering place destroyed, a telephone placed where the percolator once did duty.

"I suppose," I said, after the men had gone and she was seated at her desk, dipping a pen in ink, "you'll have a glass partition put up here, and a sign on the door, 'Knock before you enter?'"

"Oh, no," she said, waving me to a seat, "I'll expect you to knock after you come in, as you always do Business is business, but home after all is just home—even with office furniture."

* * * *

THE big business executive put in her first order:

"Go downstair in the cellar," she commanded, "and throw another shovelful of coal on the furnace."

"And Secretary of Labor Davis said," I reminded her, "you wives keep the home fires burning!"

"What he says and what I say are two different things," flashed Luella—and so I disappeared down the hatchway.

ALEXANDRIA URGED TO BACK SEAL SALE

President of Society Asks Full Support in Drive for Health Fund.

TULAREMIA PERIL CITED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. C. S. Taylor Burke, president of the local Antituberculosis Society, has issued a circular letter urging the support of the citizens of Alexandria in the sale of Christmas seals to begin this week, and explaining in detail the work of the society in this city, particularly in regard to the tubercular campaign conducted last year, disclosing 145 positive cases that now are under the supervision of nurses and doctors and 109 suspects under supervision for prevention.

Mrs. Burke states that Alexandria's share of the sale receipts last year was $749, totally inadequate for the work done, and the society was called upon to make up the deficit, which was done by personal contributions and soliciting funds from the public and civic organizations.

The State Board of Health last year furnished a clinic for a survey cooperating with the local doctors and nurses, and at this clinic 850 were examined, while nursing visits paid the tuberculous amounted to 896, while 17 patients were supported or assisted at the tubercular sanitariums the last year, each of the 17 were visited by nurses, and where possible funds were collected from the family or friends, therefore some only received alight assistance while some were supported entirely by the local association. This work is supported entirely by the sale of Christmas seals, augmented by contributions from interested citizens.

Mrs. Burke is president of the association; Mrs. David Janney Howell, seal sale treasurer, and Miss Mary Lindsey, seal sale chairman.

Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer, has received a letter from Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State health commissioner, urging that citizens be warned to watch for cases of tularemia during the next three months, in the hunting season, and urges that in handling rabbits they wear rubber gloves, and also that the disease may be contracted from squirrels.

The Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery authorities have issued a statement thanking the children of the public schools for the Thanksgiving Day donations, also Section B. of St. Paul's Episcopal Church for clothing for the children, the primary department of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; St. Mary's Academy Alumnae; the Community Builders Circle, Kings Daughters and Sons of West End, and a turkey dinner provided by the Rotary Club.

Textile Workers' Injuries Increase

More Persons Employed, However, Statistician Points Out.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—One hundred and seventy-six injuries were suffered among employes of the textile industry in Virginia between July 1 and September 30, Frank P. Evans, statistician of the State industrial commission, announced today. The industry employed 26,041 persons during the period.

Omitting figures for the miscellaneous textile manufacturing group, because their records were not kept last year, 144 injuries among other groups compares with 117 for the July 1-September 30 period of 1928 However, Evans stated, more persons were employed, during the quarter year considered, this year than last. In 1929, 24,931 employes worked 16,702,733 hours, contrasted with 21,581 employes working 13,793,235 hours in 1928. The record for July-September period of 1928 was slightly better than that for 1929, he said.

The best accident record for the 1929 period was made by a rayon manufacturing plant which had only two lost time injuries in 971,860 hours of labor.

BISHOP WILL HEAD CONFERENCE GROUP

Missionary Leaders to Be in Session at Raleigh December 10-12.

PROGRAM TO BE DRAFTED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, will head a delegation of missionary leaders of the Baltimore conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, to attend the fourth annual meeting of the general missionary council of the denomination at Raleigh, N. C., December 10-12.

The missionary program for next year will be drafted by the 500 superintendents of Methodist missionary work in attendance at the council meeting.

Official delegates from the Baltimore conference, which forms a part of the episcopal area of Bishop Denny, are the Rev. B. V. Switzer, Roanoke, Va., chairman of the conference board of missions; and the Rev. John Tyler, Clifton Forge, Va., conference missionary secretary. Dr. R. J. Moore, of Charlottesville, Va., will deliver the devotional addresses, morning and afternoon, each day of the meeting.

Others from this conference, who have been invited to attend the missionary deliberation at Raleigh include the Rev. R. K. Nevitt, Washington, D. C., conference Sunday School superintendent; M. L. Walton, jr., Woodstock, Va., conference lay leader; Mrs. T. J. Copeland, Baltimore, president conference missionary society; and Nolan B. Harmon, jr., editor of the Baltimore Southern Methodist, official conference organ.

Dr. W. G. Oram, of Nashville, Tenn., general secretary of the board of missions of the denomination, is president of the body, which will hold its sessions at Edenton Street Methodist Church.

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, are expected to extend official greetings to the Methodist gathering, Tuesday evening, December 10.

Many missionaries from home and foreign fields are expected to be present to report first-hand information about the church's eleven foreign mission fields and the twelve lines of home mission work in the United States.

Former Head of Elks To Talk at Exercises

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 29.—J. Fred Harper, of Lynchburg, former grand exalted ruler of the Elks, will make the memorial address at the annual exercises of the Harrisonburg Lodge of Elks, Sunday afternoon, at a local theater. In other years the program has been staged in the Elks Home.

Musical features will include a solo by Weldon Whitlock, director of the Manch School of Music, Staunton, and selections by the State Teachers College Glee Club, the Shenandoah College Orchestra and a mixed chorus of 20 voices.

Aged Virginian Dies.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 29 (Special).—John S. Rhinehart, aged 85, one of Harrisonburg's oldest residents, died at the hospital here yesterday from the infirmities of age. He was a carpenter and spent the greater part of his life in the Broadway community. He will be buried there tomorrow.

SCENES OF HISTORY HELD BEST LESSONS

Teach It at Spots Where It Was Made, Eckenrode Tells Parents.

DEPLORES CRIME TREND

Richmond, Va., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—History teaching on the scene of the action as a method of vitalizing instruction from textbooks was urged by Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, director of the bureau of archaeology and history, State department of conservation and development, in a speech prepared for delivery today at the Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"History has its moral importance as the teacher and inspirer of youth," said Dr. Eckenrode. "The lesson that history teaches no other mentor can teach, and it is a lesson that the world can not afford to lose. Beyond a doubt crime is on the increase in the United States. Observation and statistics both show this, and the President of the United States himself has spoken of the seriousness of the situation. We are producing criminals—young criminals—at a rate never equaled before in the experience of the country. For such a result many causes are responsible; one of the most influential is the lack of home training.

"As we tend more and more to be a Nation of gadabouts, rather than a Nation of home-livers, the training of children suffers. We expect children to get their training in school and Sunday school and they do not get it. Nothing compensates for the loss of those lessons the young used to learn at their parents' knees.

Learn Religion at Home.

"Religion, to be vital, must be learned at home. It can be supplemented in church and Sunday school, but these influences do not balance the irreligious home. The child who does not inherit religion seldom becomes religious.

"The same thing is true of history. History as a moral teacher, must teach at home. Nowadays history is taught chiefly in schools, and the instruction is inadequate. Not so far as the teaching or the textbooks go; they are intellectually adequate and the child who learns history at school learns it, in a sense, more correctly than the child who used to get his lessons at his father's knee. But there is a vast difference in the moral equation.

"The school-taught child has history come in one ear and go out of the other. It is not vital. It carries no lesson of life to him, no challenge, no inspiration It is something as mechanical and lifeles as arithmetic or grammar. It stires no pulses in him. It moves no emotion but that of weariness.'

The time is past, said the speaker, when fathers proudly relate at the fireside the stirring ride of Paul Revere, or the heroic winter at Valley Forge, but lessons in history can be taught by Virginia teachers on the historic State spots, of which histories are written.

Can Not Be Forgotten.

"Let the child read of Jamestown and the settlers who landed there in 1607," he said. "Then take him there and let him look upon the scene itself. Tel lhim of Yorktown, or Washington and Cornwallis—more, of Gov. Nelson's turning the cannon on his own house because the enemy was there.

"Then take him to the place and let him see for himself. Tel him of Jackson's stand at Manassas and how he won the immortal sobriquet of "Stonewall" there. Then take him to the spot and let him look upon it. Take him to the fields of the Seven Days and Fredericksburg, the Wilderness, Petersburg; tell him the story on the scene itself. Take him to Wakefield and let him see wheer Washington was born. Take him to Monticello and let him dwell on Jefferson and al lthat he did. Take him to Stratford and show him the chamber where Richard Henry Lee and Robert E. Lee were born. Take him to Guinea Station and let him enter the holy place where Stonewall Jackson died.

"These are lessons that cannot be forgotten. We have the most glorious historical memorials that any nation on earth enjoys. If the youth of America turns toward communism and crime, it will be our fault for not making use of them. Give us the imaginative teaching of history and you give the Republic is truest safeguard."

U. of V. Entertains Electric Institute

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 29.—The third students' activities conference of the Southern District, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, opened this afternoon at the University of Virginia, with faculty or student representatives present from sixteen colleges in the South.

Prof. W. J. Seeley, of Duke University, called the conferenec to order, and the visitors were welcomed by Prof. W. S. Rodman, of the university's engineering department and vice president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Student papers were read, and faculty members from ten institutions participated in the discussions.

Speakers at tonight's session, which followed a banquet, included Prof. J. W. Ball, of South Carolina, and Prof. W. W. Hill, of Alabama Polytechnic.

COURT TERM ENDED IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Large Number of Criminal and Civil Cases Are Disposed Of.

LIQUOR FINES ASSESSED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The November term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court was closed late Wednesday evening by Judge Howard W. Smith. A large number of criminal and civil cases were disposed of in the nine days the court was in session, and a number were continued until the January term of the court, which opens January 20, 1930

John Brown, Joe Mills, jr., and John Mills, who were indicted by the grand jury, were brought before the court, and Commonwealth Attorney Wilson M. Parr asked for separate trials. John Brown was the first to be tried. He pleaded guilty to the possession of liquor and was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to one month in jail. The jail sentence was suspended during good behavior. The cases against Joe Mills, jr., and John Mills were nolle prossed. Joe Mills, sr., the father of the Mills boys, was given a five-year sentence in the penitentiary when found guilty of the third violation of the State prohibition law last Monday.

The case against Nelson Fertney and J. W. H. Smith, indicted on a charge of violation of the prohibition law, and the two indictments against Rosail Harris, charging driving while drunk and a hit-and-run offense, as well as the case against Charles Mergler and Wade Perry for alleged violation of the prohibition law, were continued to the January term of court.

The motion to forfeit bail in the case of Harry Cohen and J. A. Minnick was continued to the January term. W. S. Cooke pleaded guilty to the charge of violation of the prohibition law and he was ordered to surrender to the court for sentence at the January term. Meanwhile his bail was enlarged. The felony charge against Melvin A. Botts was dismissed at the cost of the defendant. The cases by the commonwealth in regard to the condemnation of automobiles of Edward Ebner and Rozier Harris, seized for alleged violation of the prohibition law, were continued to the January term.

The appeal of H. G. Schultz from decisions of a justice of peace was dismissed at his cost. An appeal of W. H. Abel from a justice of peace court was heard before a jury, which gave a verdict in favor of Abel.

W. W. Beattie of Fairfax, was appointed appraiser of automobiles to fill the vacancy created by the death of Charles L. Zoll.

The National Bank of Herndon was awarded a homestead-waiving judgment on a note against A. H. Hufford of $2,205, with 6 per cent interest from June, 1929, and costs, and 10 per cent for attorneys' fees. The National Bank of Herndon was also awarded judgment against the Herndon Milling Company, W. M. McNair, president, and F. N. Mohler, W. A. Thompson, W. W. Retzer and A. E. Steel, for $2,500, with interest from May, 1929, until paid with 10 per cent attroneys' fees and the costs of the suit. The suit was based on a promissory note of the defendants.

Snyder & Co. obtained judgment for $1,332.12 against Thomas Jackson Shunat, with interest on $1,099 from December, 1928, and on $232.30 from April, 1929, until paid with 15 per cent of the total for attorneys' fees and the costs of this suit. The attachment issued against Shunat was ratified by the court.

E. C. Painter moved that the judgment entered against him in the case of the Doyle Printing Co. against the Capitol Equipment and Oil Corp., and L. C. Painter, which wa sentered November 18, be set aside so far as it concerned him. Judge Smith ordered that the judgment of November 18 be vacated and the clerk of the court was directed to accept pleading in the case that may be filed by Painter to be presented at the trial, which is set for the next term of court.

The case of William M. Sullivan against the Yorkshire Insurance Co., Ltd., on an insurance policy for $5,500 on property which was destroyed by fire, was ordered transferred from the law docket to the chancery docket.

A jury returned a verdict for Clement Storm in a suit brought by Albert N. Wildman. The plaintiff moved for a new trial. The motion was continued for argument later.

The contest of Lida Coleman Jenkins to the will of Samuel Coleman was continued.

The suit for $10,000 brought by E. M. Weeks, of Alexandria, against Ida L. and T. L. Simpson, of Clifton, allegging malicious prosecution resulted in the jury returning a verdict in favor of the defendants.

E. C. Gibbs was appointed guardian for his 2-year-ido daughter, Joan Paff Gibbs, in order that she might accept a legacy of a clock which was willed to her by Mrs. Anna E. Martin, of Camden, N. J.

John Joseph Sullivan and his wife, Margaret, were allowed by the court to adopt Everett Hillard, with the consent of the Board of Public Welfare. The child was renamed John Joseph Sullivan, jr.

Upon application of John W. Rust, the guardian of Louise F. and Virginia M. Follin, with the consent of F. D. Richardson, their guardian ad litem, the court directed him to use the money now in his possession to pay the necessary doctor and dentist bills for the children and to allow their mother $10 a month each for their maintenance until the funds are exhausted.

The last will and testament of Korenore A. Milburn was admitted to probate and J. Parker Milburn was named as executor of the estate.

The court confirmed the sale of the lot formerly occupied by the Fairfax Garage, which was recently destroyed by fire, by the executors of the estate of L. P. Young to the Standard Oil Co. of ew Jersey. The price was in excess of $17,000.

The following cases were dismissed by the court at the cost of the plaintiffs: C. A. McCauley against A. P Haynes, B. N. Gibson against R. Donaldson, A. C. Crouse against J. Monroe, Morris Plan Bank against the Mills Estate, Federal States Co against T. P. Ballinger, N. H. Senne against L. and J. Hall, all on suggestions; Levinson Clothing Co. against O. E. Woods, appeal; Robert D. Graham against Mrs. J. M. Burdette, D. L. Presley against Edward Law and National Bank of Fairfax against Mrs. J. M. Burdette, all on attachments; Potomac Electric Power Co. against W. C. Hinton, and E. P. Kirby against Barnett C. George Cockrell, of Herndon, who was acquitted by a jury in the circuit court last Tuesday for the possession of liquor, was arrested late Thanksgiving night by Sheriff E. P. Kirby on a hit-and-run charge and on a charge of being intoxicated. It is charged that Cockrell drove into the car of A. W. Cappell, of Mount Rainier, Md., and continued on his way. Chappell followed him from Chantilly, where the accident occurred, to Rector's store, at Pleasant Valley, where a dance was being given. There he obtained Cockrell's license number and talked with him. He later communicated with the sheriff, who went to Pleasant Valley and arrested Cockrell, whom the sheriff alleges was in an intoxicated condition. His trial has been set for tonight.

Twenty-five members of the Betsy Ross Chapter, No. 21, Daughters of America, of Vienna, left last night for Danville, where they will initiate a large class of candidates tonight. These candidates are from the Danville Council and the nearby vicinity.

A dance for the benefit of the building fund of the Centerville Episcopal Church will be held in the schoolhouse this evening. Miss Vivian Rector is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Ernest Harmon, who was arrested Thanksgiving Day by Sheriff E. P Kirby, was tried last night before Justice of the Peace R. D. Whorton at Centerville. He was fined $55 and costs for reckless driving and for being drunk.

Acting upon information received, Traffic Officer A. W. Mills arrested H. C. Galley, 23, of Walkertown, N. C. on a charge of stealing an automobile from Greensborough, N. C. Galley was arrested at Accotink, where he was trying to sell punch boards so that he might continue his journey. It is said that Galley confessed to the taking of the car when he was arrested, saying he had obtained it from a drive-it-yourself company and that he had paid a deposit. He is being held for the Greensborough authorities.

W. Floyd Middleton, 72, of Herndon, Va., died at his home there early yesterday morning. He was for many years the owner of a general merchandise store and manager of the old Rixey Bank there.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Birdie Jarrett Middleton, and a daughter, Miss Edna J. Middleton, and two brothers, Arthur and Howard Middleton. Death came after a lingering illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Examinations for the post of deputy State game warden for Prince Georges County were held yesterday at Upper Marlboro by an examiner from the State Employment Bureau. Twenty-five county residents took the examination. The post pays an annual salary of $1,500. The new deputy will be picked from the five highest scoring contestants.

The post was left vacant by the recent resignation of Raynor Dove, who was arrested by Federal prohibition agents on a charge of violation of the prohibition law, and who is at liberty on $5,000 bond awaiting trial in United States District Court in Baltimore.

The Mellwood Club of Upper Marlboro will sponsor a demonstration of practical and useful gifts by Miss Ethel Regan, county home demonstration agent, at Trinity Hall December 12 at 10 a. m. The regular monthly meeting of the club will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Man Handles Bees With Bare Hands

Apiarist at West Virginia Urges Proper Care Toward Them.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 29.—That bees, if handled correctly, are not inclined to sting was contended in a demonstration here tonight by E. R. Root, of Medina, Ohio, specialist, who manipulated about 10,000 of them with bare hands and exposed face before an open meeting held in connection with the annual one-day session of the West Virginia Beekeepers Association.

Principal speakers at the sessions included Dr. H. E. Barnard, Indianapolis; Dr. L. M. Peairs, West Virginia College of Agriculture Morgantown; Dr. H. E. Knowlton, West Virginia College of Agriculture, and W. F. Noland, United States Department of Agriculture. A paper was read for Dr. E. F. Phillips, of Cornell University.

An outstanding recommendation by Dr. Phillips was that orchardists, who must depend largely upon bees for pollenization of apples, would find it uneconomical to attempt to keep up their own colonies of bees and he recommended they employ beekeepers to bring active stands at bloom time with a rental to be paid.

MARION RIOT CASE JURY IS LOCKED UP

WIGGINS ESTATE SUES 14

Marion, N. C., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The jury in the case of four men charged with rioting and resisting officers in connection with a strike in the Clinchfield mill village last August 30, was locked up shortly after 10 o'clock tonight, after being unable to reach a verdict in deliberations that started at 5:30 p. m.

The defendants are Alfred Hoffman, organized of the United Textile Workers of America; Lawrence Hogan, his associate here and a Brookwood Labor College student, and Del Lewis and Wes Fowler, two other local labor leaders.

In concluding his arguments, Chief Defense Attorney Thomas A Jones, a veteran of 45 years at the bar, declared that the trial was a "contest between rich men and poor men." He read from the Bible on the theme of rich men and their difficulty in getting into heaven

Jones said that "This is a day of organization, but the Southern cotton mills deny their workers the right to unionize by refusing to treat with unions and by discriminating against union members." He pointed out that President Hoover held an important conference with Ramsay MacDonald, British premier, who is not only a labor men but also a Socialist."

Attorney Jones predicted that the day will soon come "when Southern cotton mills will be forced to recognize the right of organized labor as employers elsewhere, in the North and in foreign countries, already have done."

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Joseph Harrison Passaic, N. J., National Textile Workers Union organizer, under sentence of 17 to 30 years in prison, was released from the county jail today on $5,000 cash bond pending appeal. With five other union leaders and members, he was convicted in October of the murder of O. F. Aderholt, chief of police of Gastonia, during a strike disturbance in the early part of the summer. Only two of the six still are in jail. These are Clarence Miller, New York Communist educator, and George W. Carter, Passaic, N. J., both under sentence of 17 to 20 years.

Fred Erwin Beal, who organized the strike at the Loray mill, in Gastonia; Louis McLaughlin, W. M. McGinnis and K. Y Hendricks already had been released.

Simultaneously with the release of Harrison, it was announced by Attorney J. Frank Flowers that he had been retained by the American Civil Liberties Union to file suit for damages amounting to $50,000 against fourteen men held recently in connection with the death of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins in a riot September 14. The suit would be on behalf of the dead woman's children.

Watchman, 69, Killed By Hit-and-Run Drivers

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 29.—Hit-and-run drivers who figured in several automobile wrecks yesterday and today in this section, one of which proved fatal, are being sought by State policemen.

Socrates Crites, 69, retired watchman, of Glenwood, was killed by one of them at Erie and his wife was seriously injured. Many others were injured in automobile accidents yesterday and today in the central West Virginia territory as a result of icy roads and streets.

D'SBELIEF IN DEITY BARS MAN IN COURT

CASE IS NOLLE PROSSED

Because he said that he does not believe in God nor any hereafter, Burris, a farmer living near Rockville, yesterday was adjudged unable to qualify as a witness in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rickville and charges of larceny of five chickens which had been placed against Elijah Duffin, colored, of Rockville, were nolle prossed.

Duffin was allege dto have stolen the chickens from Burris. Everything went along all right in the trial until Burris took the stand as a witness. F. Barnard Welsh, of Rockville, attorney for Duffin, jumped to his feet. "This man can not testify as a witness," he declared. "He is an atheist." Judge Robert B. Peter questioned Burris as to his religious beliefs. The plaintiff declared that he does not believe in a Supreme Being, nor does he believe that there is a hereafter and does not believe in a future punishment or reward, he told the judge.

Judge Peter ruled that inasmuch as the State Court of Appeals had ruled that a person with such beliefs, or lack of them, is incapable of qualifying as a witness in Maryland, Burris could not take the stand. On several occasions prior to this he had acted as a witness, but has always affirmed to his statements. No question of his beliefs had arisen previously. This is believed to be a unique case in the annals of Montgomery County Circuit Court although the situation has arisen previous to this time in other Maryland jurisdictions.

Duffin then was tried on charges of larceny of a pair of trousers belonging to Homer Holmes, colored, but was acquitted on this charge.

Eleven Boy Scout troops from Montgomery County will take active part in the practical demonstration of scouting and scout work at the Washington Auditorium this afternoon and evening. The Montgomery troops are under the jurisdiction of the District of Columbia Council of the Boy Scouts of America. George E. Hamilton, of Bethesda, is president of the council, and Karl W. Corby, of the Rockville Pike, is vice president. Capt
